DEBT ISSUE WATCHED

Coolidge Not Disturbed

Washington Officials Fail to Recognize Talk of French Repudiation

Conservative Intimates Move to Avert Might Influence Foreign Loans Here

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Developments in the American-French debt-funding situation were reported today to White House officials, where it was announced that President Coolidge had not, as a result of the general discussions now in Paris and Washington relative repudiation of the debt by France, reached any definite conclusions of his own nor had he received any report that such discussions had reached a stage where they justified official consideration. At the same time, however, it was made clear that the President was keeping fully advised regarding all phases of debt funding and that it was not improbable but that he would, in event discussions of conciliation developed to the point where official recognition becomes necessary, see fit to influence the attitude of the Washington government regarding the floating of loans for foreign governments by the financial agencies in the United States.

OFFICIALS SILENT

Statements from Paris officials of the French Embassy quarters here that M. Clementel, French Minister of Finance, had favored the debt that government owes the United States when called to include the debt total in the balance sheet be prepared, or that France recognized its obligations to pay, were noted by Washington officials, but provoked no comment.

While the situation rested tonight as explained that the French officials have not suggested that they considered such a move in fulfillment of obligations to the United States. No French authority, with the exception of Ambassador Jusserand, who was said to be acting entirely on his own initiative in taking up the question with Secretary Mellon, has communicated to any representative here any word whatever regarding the debt situation.

ATTITUDE CLEAR

On the other hand it was pointed out the attitude of the American government has been clear on several occasions in official pronouncements to the allied and associated governments.

Statement at the State Department today revealed that so far as known there Ambassador Herrick received no explanation

CONGRESSMAN SCOTT AVERS HE DARED WIFE TO KILL HIM IF ACCUSATIONS WERE FALSE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ALPENA (Mich.) Dec. 30.—Congressman Frank D. Scott of the Eleventh Michigan District continued his testimony today in his suit for divorce which is being contested by Mrs. Scott, contending that the attitude of his wife toward other members of Congress from Michigan and their wives had almost wrecked his political career and that her extravagance had left him practically penniless.

Scott testified that his only possessions today are his clothes, forty acres of almost worthless land, and a little money which he has saved.

He told Judge Frank Emerick that his wife's bills for December, 1922, before they separated, amounted to $1500 spent, he said, "for our apartment just to entertain her fast army friends."

Scott, during his testimony yesterday, declared his wife had entertained army officers late at night in their apartment during his absence. He testified today that at one time after he had accused his wife of indiscretions, he had dared her to kill him.

"I went into her bedroom," Scott testified, "gave her my loaded revolver and ordered her to shoot me if I lied in my accusations. She refused to shoot."

Mrs. Scott has filed an answer and a cross-bill to his suit. In her answer she accuses her husband of gambling and purchasing large quantities of liquor.

DRENCH WOMAN WITH ACID

Two Men and Female Companion First Club Victim into Helplessness, Then Apply Searing Acid

Two men and a woman overtook Mrs. Claire Williams, 32 years of age, at First and Bixel streets last night, clubbed her into unconsciousness and then poured more than a quart of carbolic acid over her body. They left her lying unconscious in the street.

A short time later pedestrians found her and summoned police. At the Receiving Hospital, where the woman was taken, it was stated her condition was serious. She is suffering from carbolic acid burns on her back, neck, hands, arms and legs. Police Surgeon Renfrew, who attended her, stated that she had been subjected to a veritable bath of the searing acid. Her clothes were almost all burned off by the poison, the doctor said.

She was partially revived at the hospital and told a rather incoherent story during her moments of consciousness. She said that she had left her home at 1261 Sunset Boulevard to visit a friend, Anna Cohen.

TELLS OF ATTACK

As she stepped off the street car at First and Bixel streets she said, she was hailed by two men and a woman. They approached when she stopped and one of them struck her on the head. Remembering momentarily, she said, but in a partial state of coma felt her assailants press something to her ear and then demand that she confess to something.

She knew nothing more, she said, until revived at the hospital. She added that she knew several persons who might be considered her enemies but knew no one who would go to the extent of pouring carbolic acid on her in revenge.

Detective Lieutenants Jarvis and Craig were at once assigned to investigate. They are interrogating friends of the woman in an effort to find some lead to place them on the track of her assailants.

BURGLARY VICTIM

Mrs. Williams also stated that she has a 10-year-old daughter. The child was left at home last night. She also told the detectives that she ran a dressmaking shop at the apartment-house where she lived and that a short time ago she operated another dressmaking shop at 1296½ Sunset Boulevard. This shop was burglarized some months ago, the detectives learned.

ROBBERS IN GUN BATTLE WITH POLICE

Running Conflict Ends in Escape of Bandits After Oil-Station Hold-up

A running gun battle between University police and oil-station bandits awakened residents in the vicinity of Slauson avenue and Brentwood street shortly before midnight last night. There were no casualties and the bandits escaped, according to the police report.

Officers Wansley and Schang, who ride the jitney out of University station, were making their rounds when the attendant at a Shell Oil Company station at Slauson avenue and Brentwood street hailed them, declaring that he had just been held up. Seeing a man enter an automobile parked on Brentwood street, which contained two or three other men, the officers gave chase. When the car refused to stop at the officers' command they opened fire, which was returned by the bandits. The car finally stopped at Fifty-ninth and Brentwood streets, according to the officers, who left their car and again opened fire, puncturing the pursued machine's gasoline tank. The bandit car again started ahead, without the occupants leaving the machine, and the officers stated they believe one of the men was hit, because they saw him crawl from the front seat to the back of the car.

At Sixty-third and Main streets the officers reported they lost the bandits' car, but had been able to secure the number during the wild chase.

Only a small amount of money was obtained from the oil-station attendant.

GOVERNOR TO URGE NO NEW TAXES

Executive Declares That State Must Live Within Income

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—Gov. Richardson announced today that he will not recommend to the Legislature any new sources of income for the operation of the various functions of the State government.

"The State," said the Governor, "must live within her income. I will not recommend any new sources of income. If any new taxes are to be imposed they must come from the Legislature or the people and not from me."

The Governor's announcement is significant in view of the fact that the highway committee of nine, which is preparing a report for the 1925 Legislature on future financing of highway construction, is understood to be in favor of an increased gasoline tax.

Some time ago Gov. Richardson publicly stated he had not declared himself in favor of increasing the gasoline tax and said that he would abide by the wishes of the people regarding such legislation.

Can You Beat This for Nerve?

STORM CEASES IN NORTH

Rail Traffic Delayed When High Waters Cause Landslides; Wire Service Hampered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO Dec. 30.—The extremely heavy rainstorm that appeared suddenly over Northern California last evening and which reached torrential proportions in a number of places ceased this morning almost as suddenly as it started.

At Eureka over an inch of precipitation was recorded in a short time. The sudden heavy downpour was too much for the railroad embankments in Mendocino and Humboldt counties to withstand. As a consequence numerous landslides occurred on the rail lines, passenger and freight traffic being delayed many hours at various points.

There was some anxiety at Eureka over the nonarrival of the passenger trains from San Francisco, because wire service as well as railroad service was interrupted and no one was able to learn what caused the delay. At Hanford in the lower San Joaquin Valley half an inch of rain fell during the storm, while nearly an inch was reported from Merced in the heart of the same valley.

The storm brought higher temperatures for the whole State, not a single station reporting freezing weather during the night, much to the relief of agriculturists who have recently been hard put to it to save their orchards by heavy smuding operations.

RAINFALL IN NORTH

Rainfall figures for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 o'clock tonight follow:

| | Last 24 hours | Seasonal to date | Seasonal last year |
|---|---|---|---|
| Eureka | .79 | 18.54 | 11.65 |
| Red Bluff | .31 | 10.08 | 5.05 |
| Sacramento | .28 | 7.35 | 2.64 |
| San Francisco | .21 | 11.36 | 3.62 |
| San Jose | .46 | 4.85 | 1.73 |
| Fresno | .44 | 2.93 | .98 |
| San Luis Obispo | .00 | 3.40 | 1.30 |

SHOWERS ARE FORECAST IN SOUTH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 30.—Occasional showers through the night and probably tomorrow were forecast by the Weather Bureau this afternoon. Only a trace of rain had fallen at 5 p.m.

Storm figures at 5 p.m. showed total for twenty-four hours to be trace; total for season to date, 2.22 inches; total this date last year, 2.17 inches.

THAW CAUSES FLOODS IN OREGON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 30.—Heavy rains and a general thaw of snow which fell during the recent cold spell in Oregon, have combined to cause high water in a number of streams. Roseburg this morning reported all rivers and streams in Douglas county at flood stage with damage threatened if the rise continues.

Medford reported Bear Creek overflowed its banks today and inundated lowlands in the center of the city. Several country roads near Medford are impassible and bridges have been washed away.

PACIFIC COAST GUARD VESSEL BILL PASSES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The House bill appropriating $925,000 for the construction of a coast guard vessel for the Pacific Coast to replace the historic old cutter Bear, was passed today by the Senate and now goes to the President.

ACTION ON SUPPLY BILL

House Moves Swiftly on Appropriation Measure Including Mail and Dry Law Matters

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Speeding along at almost an unprecedented legislative clip the House today passed the treasury-post-office supply bill which, with its $742,000,000 total, is the largest peace-time appropriation measure ever considered by Congress.

Sent to the Senate practically without amendment after only two days consideration, the bill provides among other things, $11,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, and $20,000,000 for the Coast Guard Service, half of which would be available during the coming fiscal year for use in curbing rum smuggling.

Other items in the bill include $2,650,000 for operation of transcontinental air-mail service, $526,373 for maintenance of pneumatic mail tubes in New York City, $16,656,200 for the customs service and $9,103,101 for the Public Health Service.

The fourth of the annual supply bills to go to the Senate which so far has failed to act on any of them, the bill's passage cleared the way for consideration by the House late in the week of the Army appropriation measure.

All sections of the treasury-postoffice bill dealing with mints and assay offices and concerning the upkeep and improvement of public buildings were approved by the House as drafted by the Appropriations Committee.

NO DECISION CONCERNING PICHILINQUE

State Department Gives Mexico Note for Return of Island Careful Study

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—State Department officials said today careful consideration was being given the note from the Foreign Office at Mexico City requesting the return to Mexico of the island of Pichilinque. The communication was received several days ago and has been the subject of study since but no decision on the question of transfer of the title has been reached.

While officials declined further comment, it is understood the Washington government has not consented to release control of Pichilinque nor is it aware that notification of any sort has been given the Mexican government that it intends to relinquish control of the island.

The question of transfer, it was suggested, involves more complicated issues that has been apparent in the dispatches from Mexico City.

Submarine Fired at in Mistake by Coast Guard Ship

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Mistaking the submarine F-9 for a small rum runner, the Coast Guard cutter Shawnee fired several blank shots and one solid shot in the direction of the undersea craft to "bring her to" for examination off Pigeon Point, fifty miles south of San Francisco last night, it was reported today by the Coast Guard headquarters here. After explanations were made, the submarine proceeded, accompanied by the Shawnee.

"It was the only way of attracting the attention of the submarine," Capt. James H. Moore, division commander of the Coast Guard, said. "It is the practice for the Coast Guard boats to halt smaller boats in this manner and no importance can be attached to the incident."

Shortridge Asks Federal Position for A. F. St. Sure

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The appointment of Justice A. F. St. Sure of the California District Court of Appeal to the vacant United States District Court judgeship in Northern California, was recommended to President Coolidge today by Senator Shortridge.

INQUEST CONDUCTED IN CAVE MYSTERY DEATH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 30.—An inquest conducted today at Tempe on the body of a man found tied hand and foot in a cave in the river bank found only a verdict that the victim could not be identified and that he had been murdered. Not a scrap of identifying material could be found in the dugout.

TWO BABIES PERISH IN FIRE ON LINER; TWO MAY DIE

Seventy-nine Passengers Saved by Freighter When Steamer is Swept by Flames

Direct radio advices received late yesterday from the fire-ravaged Japanese liner Ginyo Maru reported that two babies had been burned to death and two other children so seriously burned they may die in the flames which broke out aboard the liner early Tuesday morning.

The flame-swept liner, the radiograms stated, is being towed to Manzanillo, Mex., by the steamship City of San Francisco. Last reports gave her position as about 1500 miles south of this city and off the west coast of Mexico.

The liner Julia Luckenbach, which was first to reach the burning vessel in response to its distress calls, has taken seventy-nine passengers from the Ginyo Maru and is also steaming toward Manzanillo, where these will be landed.

Latest radio advices received by the Federal Telegraph Company here were to the effect that the fire seemingly was under control. The stricken steamer's own wireless was picked up through relays last night and the fact that it was again in operation was looked upon as an exceedingly hopeful sign of success in the battle against the flames.

Some hope is felt that the flames can be extinguished and the liner brought to Manzanillo in safety. Holds Nos. 4 and 5 have been seriously damaged, the radiograms said, but the officers believe that the fire may be extinguished if conditions continue favorable. The radiograms failed to mention the number of men engaged in the battle with the fire, although previous advices stated that all passengers and members of the crew had been removed from the flaming steamer.

The flames originated in hold No. 4, which was loaded with nitrates. Distress calls from the vessel were flashed early yesterday morning.

In response to these calls the Julia Luckenbach raced for the spot and was the first to reach the blazing steamer. Transfer of the passengers, numbering seventy-nine, who had taken to life boats, and most of the crew of 103, was effected shortly after the arrival of the Julia Luckenbach, but with the fight against the flames making headway, some members of the crew returned to the steamer and these are believed to be carrying on the battle while the liner is making all possible speed toward Manzanillo and safety.

The Ginyo Maru is owned and operated by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha line. She is operated in a triangular service between the Orient, California and South America. She was en route to Los Angeles Harbor when the flames swept her.

The passengers took nothing with them in their flight from the distressed steamer and were destitute when picked up and placed aboard the Julia Luckenbach.

LARGE-NAVY BLOC WINS

Committee Will Hear Wilbur

Effort to Keep Secretary from Detailing Naval Situation Defeated

Butler Hints Coolidge Will be Embarrassed in Calling New Arms Conference

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—"Big Navy" advocates, led by Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago, today overrode attempts of Chairman Butler of the House Naval Affairs Committee to forestall the appearance of Secretary Wilbur of the Navy Department before that body and forced the adoption of a motion calling the Secretary before the committee on next Thursday "to answer any questions the members may wish to submit."

Charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast during an hour of a spirited wrangling as Chairman Butler, aided by Representative Vinson of Georgia, sought to uphold the administration viewpoint that an inquiry into the condition of the Navy was inadvisable at this time.

Warning the committee members that he "did not want to do anything which would alienate any other nation from going into a conference on the limitation of smaller craft," which, he said, President Coolidge had in mind calling "within a year," Chairman Butler declared that he "didn't feel like going into an examination of the war preparations made by other nations." Secretary Wilbur had reported, he said, that "each of the signatory powers has carried out the treaty terms with scrupulous exactitude."

BUTLER DEFEATED

"If you want an investigation of the Navy introduce a resolution and let it take its course through the rules committee," Mr. Butler urged. Representative Britten and his coterie disregarded this suggestion and vigorously attacked the proposal of Representative Vinson that the routine equalization legislation which had been before the committee for weeks should be made the order of business.

He pressed for the attendance of Secretary Wilbur before the committee to furnish information concerning gun elevation on first line battleships and other subjects.

"There is a disposition among some members of this committee not to have the Secretary here," Representative Britten charged.

"There is a definite and avowed purpose and intent to keep him away for fear the questions might go too deeply into the condition of the Navy. The term 'investigation' is deemed too harsh. If the committee does not want the Secre-

City's Men Talk Over Canal Bill With Shortridge

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Senate Committee on Reclamation and Irrigation will conduct another hearing on the Boulder Canyon all-American canal bill tomorrow when witnesses from Arizona and other Western States will appear to testify in favor of the measure.

W. B. Mathews and Ralph Criswell, from the Los Angeles City Council, conferred with Senator Shortridge today on this legislation and will be present tomorrow at the hearing. In view of the opposing opinions to the pending legislation, most of the Senators in the Western States affected look for no legislation of this character at this short session of Congress.

M'CORMICK IN LOVE SUIT

Harvester Millionaire Made Defendant in Action Said to Charge Alienation of Woman's Affections

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Filing of an application for a transfer of the action from the State Supreme Court to the Federal court today revealed that Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago has been named defendant in a suit by Edwin W. Jacobs. The application for the transfer did not state the nature of the suit, other than it was for an amount in excess of $3000 but it is suspected Jacobs asked $500,000 of the Illinois harvester millionaire for alleged alienation of Mrs. Jacobs's affections.

Both the summons and the complaint have been served by Burger & Burger, counsel for the plaintiff, but the papers have not yet been filed in court. This is customary in the State Supreme Court.

Today's application for transfer was made by Barber, Packenthal & Giddings, counsel for Mr. McCormick. The reason assigned for the requested transfer was that Mr. Jacobs was a resident of New York, while Mr. McCormick lived in Illinois.

Mr. Jacobs is not actively engaged in business, having inherited an ample fortune from relatives. He is about 45 years of age and Mrs. Jacobs is 35.

Attorneys for Mr. McCormick issued the following statement tonight:

"From a complete investigation we are convinced that there is no basis whatever for the claim which Mr. Jacobs is making. We shall be prepared at the proper time to show that if Mr. Jacobs has lost the affections of his wife, our client was in no way responsible and that this fact is, and has at all times been known to Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Jacobs has repeatedly asked our client for money, pleading great friendship and admiration for him. When this method failed, a threatening letter was sent our client, after which this action was brought.

[Signed.]

BARBER PACKENTHAL & GLIDDINGS."

Cyrus H. McCormick is about 60 years of age. He is a son of the inventor of the reaper and founder of the McCormick fortune and is a brother of Harold F. McCormick, husband of Gana Walska, the opera singer. He succeeded his father as chairman of the board of the International Harvester Company.

of the Clemen(e) balance sheet incident. Had any member of the French Foreign office seen fit to inform this government of the circumstances attending the publication of the Clemenel report in an effort to prevent possible misunderstanding in the United States, Mr. Herrick would have communicated at once any such report to the State Department. Neither has any word reached the State Department from the French Embassy here regarding any of the many phases of the debt funding situation.

LOGAN TO ATTEND

It was made known at the State Department, however, that the Washington government had been informed of the subjects to be discussed at the forthcoming meeting of the allied and associated finance ministers. While no definite agenda has been prepared, it was said that the questions to be dealt with would relate to the definite allocation of the proceeds the various governments represented will receive from Germany under the Dawes plan.

The Allied and associated governments have been informed that Col. James A. Logan, American reparations expert, will attend the gathering of the Finance Ministers as the American representative, and notification of his selection has been received by the various powers with expressions of satisfaction.

IMPORTANT WORK

EXPECTED OF PARLEY

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The conference of Allied finance ministers here next week with Col. James A. Logan, Jr., American representative with the Reparations Commission, who will represent the United States, is expected by close observers to be far more important event than the original agenda indicated.

The conference, it is understood, will be called upon not only to establish a basis for sharing the proceeds of the Dawes reparation plan, but will be asked to revise the percentages of distribution of reparations among the Allies as fixed at Spa. An agreement between the French government and the leaders of the Socialist wing of Premier Herriot's majority in the chamber, as revealed in chamber debate and discussions in the lobbies, requires the French delegate to this conference to raise these questions.

Whether war debts will also be discussed at the meeting, depends, it is said, upon the plans of Winston Churchill, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is credited here with the intention of bringing up the much-talked-of matter in some form. Both reparations and war debts are now regarded in French political circles as having reached a point where they cannot longer remain without solution.

French business men, particularly, are anxious to get the debt question out of the way since, they declare, it is now the only element that prevents the final stabilizing of the international financial solution. The yield of the Dawes plan is still regarded as doubtful but it has the advantage, the business men say, of fixing definitely what France can count upon. They add that "when we know just what our creditors are going to insist upon we can arrange accordingly."

The official viewpoint is much the same as that of the business interests. It is generally admitted in official circle the debt question must not remain much longer in suspense, but there is a lingering inclination to link all war debts with reparations.

The question of war debts, if brought up in Paris next week, it is expected, will be technically outside of the Finance Minister's conference and confined to the French and British, as it is understood that Col. Logan will have no instructions to enter into any sort of discussion on this subject.

The exhibition at Dresden, Germany, in 1926, will be devoted to housing problems, settlements and city buildings.

FRATERNITY MAN URGES MORE STUDY

Banquet Speaker Says Societies Will Die Unless Scholarship Increases

Fraternities will become a thing of the past unless their college-going members devote more time to their scholastic work and less to social activities, Shirley E. Meserve, national president of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, told the Inter-Fraternity Alumni Association of Southern California at its third annual banquet and high-jinks at the Biltmore last night.

Mr. Meserve urged the alumni to get together and work for greater scholastic effort on the part of their members attending colleges and universities throughout the country. He cited facts revealed in a recent survey which showed that fraternity men were considerably below nonfraternity students in scholastic standing.

The address of Mr. Meserve was virtually the only serious note struck at the gathering. Dr. John W. Wilce, head football coach at Ohio State University, spoke briefly and also in a serious vein, urging the alumni to "soft-pedal" betting on university contests.

Among others at the gathering were Henry M. Robinson, Coach Glenn ("Pop") Warner of Stanford; "Gloomy" Gus Henderson of U.S.C., and Coach Ernest C. Quigley of Missouri.

RUM FLEET BLOCKADE TIGHTENED

Five Destroyers and Forty Coast Guard Vessels Draw Net About New York

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Rum Row was patrolled tonight by a flotilla of forty coast guard rum chasers and five destroyers under orders from Washington to dam the flow of New Year's liquor. The liquor fleet consists of eighteen schooners and steamers, having doubled in number since the capture Christmas Eve of the British schooner Patara. It was estimated by enforcement officials today that the rum ships are loaded with up to 500,000 cases of liquor valued at bootlegging prices as high as $40,000,000.

The government fleet, aside from the five destroyers, consists of three coast guard cutters armed with one-pounders and machine guns and thirty-seven speed boats with machine guns, rifles and sidearms.

One of the rum chasers was stationed close to each liquor carrier and the rest patrolled the waters of the bay to check the activity of small carriers. Today's action against the rum runners was characterized by coast guard officials as the most wide and sweeping and impressive gesture yet made by government agencies against the liquor fleet and it was believed the usual holiday rum flow would be effectually stopped.

tary let it go on record instead of resorting to a subterfuge for keeping him away by proceeding with the equalization bill."

Another storm of debate was provoked when Representative Andrews of Massachusetts called attention to the fact that the committee members at a previous executive session had voted to invite the Secretary to appear. Chairman Butler admitted the invitation had not been transmitted to Mr. Wilbur. It was this admission, apparently, that resulted in a weakening of the position of the committee chairman, who was fighting to head off the inquiry, and after mildly resenting the charge that he had sought to override the previous action of the committee Mr. Butler put the motion that the Secretary should be invited to appear next Thursday.

This motion was adopted and after voting to refer to the State Department a resolution by Representative Britten calling for information concerning the diplomatic angles surrounding the gun-elevation controversy the committee adjourned.

According to present plans of the "big Navy" men, the Secretary will be questioned concerning the Navy's status not only with respect to the 5-5-3 treaty ratio, but also as to the aircraft and gun-elevation situation.

The next move in the controversy between the administration and the "big Navy" bloc now depends upon the response which Secretary Wilbur may see fit to give it, and also the questions of members themselves.

COUNTY'S POWER TO CONTRACT IS UPHELD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—The District Court of Appeal decided in an opinion handed down today that county boards of supervisors have the power to enter into contracts with private parties for surveying timber lands as an aid to the boards in equalizing assessments.

The ruling was made in the case of H. D. Haley & Co. against N. G. McVay, auditor of Del Norte county. Haley & Co. was awarded a contract by the county supervisors to survey timber lands for equalization purposes but McVay refused to honor the company's claim.

In a suit by the company against the auditor, the Del Norte county Superior Court held the contract was invalid in that it was beyond the power of the supervisors.

BAD CHECK CHARGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VISALIA, Dec. 30.—Joseph Powelson, 48 years of age, a telegrapher from Los Angeles, who was brought to the Tulare County Jail yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ben Gurr, is being held awaiting arraignment on a charge of having passed a fictitious check last March on E. S. Boyd of this city.

Boyd declared he and Powelson had gone to school together in Dresden, Iowa, but had not met for years when the defendant appeared in Visalia renewing old acquaintanceship. Boyd was asked to cash a check for his friend, and did so, but the check came back.

RAIN DOUBTFUL MATTER TODAY

Weather Man Says It Will Be Cloudy But Showers Are Not Guaranteed

To rain or not rain? That's today's question. Being temperamental, the Weather Man refused last night to make a definite prediction.

It will be cloudy. Perhaps it will sprinkle. Perhaps it won't. Take your choice.

Yesterday's maximum temperature of 58, with a relative humidity of 59, indicated that it might be advisable to have umbrellas within range today.

MOVE MADE IN COURT TO HALT BONUS

Injunction Against Sending Out of Insurance Policies to Veterans Asked

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Benjamin Catchings, New York attorney, today asked the District of Columbia Supreme Court on behalf of thirty taxpayers to enjoin Director Hines of the Veterans' Bureau from sending out 250 mail bags of insurance policies to the World War veterans under the adjusted compensation law. Chief Justice McCoy will hear the petition tomorrow.

Earlier in the day the attorney asked the Supreme Court of the United States to compel the District of Columbia courts to pass upon the constitutionality of the law, charging that the bonus insurance is a "mere bonus gift, and not a provision for the payment of a moral, legal or equitable debt of the United States."

Secret Divorce is Reported for Mrs. Allan Ryan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Sarah Tack Ryan is reported to have obtained a divorce secretly from Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas Fortune Ryan. The decree is supposed to have been granted in a near-by State on July 10, last, but the first news of the court action was published tonight. Attorneys and principals declined to discuss the case, or to reveal where the proceedings took place. The papers have been sealed and the facts may never become definitely known.

Affairs of the Ryans became public in 1922 in connection with the "poison pen" inquiry conducted by the grand jury and involving George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Composers. Mrs. Ryan was mentioned in some of these letters, and Mr. Ryan testified before the grand jury that some of Mrs. Ryan's clothing had been found in Maxwell's apartment. Ryan denied at that time any intention of divorce. Mrs. Ryan admitted friendship for Maxwell, but declared he could not have written the "poison-pen" letters.

Minor Exports Indicate Good Times Overseas

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Secretary Hoover declared today that the most hopeful sign of beginning economic restoration in Europe is to be found in hitherto ignored statistics of minor exports from the United States. The figure to which he called special attention deals with the exportation of canned and dried fruits.

"During November from the United States there were 61,000 tons of dried fruit exported, against 14,000 during November, 1923. For the last eleven months the United States has exported 359,000 tons of dried fruits, against 161,000 tons during the same period in 1923, and 180,000 tons of canned goods against 121,000 tons during the same eleven months of 1923."

Rites for Trio, Killed in Fog, Set for Today

The bodies of the three Japanese fishermen who were drowned Monday when their boat, together with two others, piled up on the rocks at Point Vicente, have all been recovered. The remains of Capt. H. Yamasaki, skipper of the ill-starred fishing-schooner, was recovered late Monday night, and those of T. Yoshita and K. Hamada, who composed the crew of the small boat, were taken from the water yesterday.

The three bodies were all removed to the Gates mortuary at Redondo Beach. Funeral services for the three victims of the sea will be conducted at the Japanese chapel on Central avenue here today.

More than 500 Japanese fishermen abandoned work yesterday to seek the bodies of their comrades. They all returned to port last night after being informed that the bodies had been found.

The three boats piled on the rocks during the exceptionally heavy fog Monday.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES COMMON TO BE SOLD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Following the offering of $3,000,000 preferred stock of the Universal Pictures Company earlier this week, bankers announced today that additional issue of 20,000 shares of common stock will be offered for public subscription at about $27 a share. Net earnings applicable to the common stock this year, it was said, had been running at the annual rate of more than $4 a share.

CLUB WOMEN BAR CIGARETS

Feminine Smoker at Illinois Federation Offices is Ordered Out by Official

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Women who visit the headquarters of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, 127 North Dearborn street, must park their cigarets outside, according to a rule enforced by Mrs. Viola H. Burgess, who is in charge of the State headquarters.

Mrs. Burgess showed the door to a visitor who smoked a cigaret while waiting for the president of a well-known women's club.

"I have a date here with Mrs.—" said the visitor breezily. "May I sit down?"

"Certainly," answered Mrs. Burgess. "Make yourself at home."

The visitor took a chair near a window. Mrs. Burgess busied herself with some office details with which she was going over with her daughter, Miss Elisabeth Burgess.

SMELL SMOKE

After a silence of five minutes, Miss Burgess exclaimed:

"Mother, the building must be on fire."

Mrs. Burgess then observed that her visitor was enjoying all the comforts of home. Besides occupying the easiest chair in the office, she had her feet on a lounge stool. She was reading a magazine. She was puffing energetically on a monogrammed cigaret.

Mrs. Burgess plunged into action.

"Woman," she exclaimed, "do you know where you are?"

"Certainly," said the visitor.

AWAY SHE GOES

"Do you understand that this is the headquarters of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs?"

"Absolutely."

"Do you understand that the club women of Illinois are trying to set an example for the younger generation?"

"Certainly," said the visitor.

"Well, we don't allow women smoking in here," said Mrs. Burgess. "There is the door. You get out—quick."

"Oh, well," said the woman, "if that's the way you feel about it."

She dropped the magazine and departed muttering something about women's rights and freedom.

HOPKINS HEIRS PLAN SUIT

North Carolinans to Ask for Part of Pioneer Rail Man's Estate Given to Brother

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—A suit which, it is avowed, will bring to light a new story bearing on the early history of the late Mark Hopkins, one of the founders of the Central Pacific Railroad, and his brother, Moses Hopkins, is soon to be filed in either the Federal court or the Sacramento county Superior Court, it was declared here today by George A. Work, an attorney of this city, who stated that he and his law partner, Thomas Ashby, have been retained on behalf of heirs in Randolph county, North Carolina.

In line with his investigations, which have consumed several months, Work yesterday in Superior Court here took testimony from George Bray of Trowbridge, Butter county, as to his acquaintance with Moses Hopkins, years ago. Attorney Work had summoned Bray into court to perpetuate his testimony and in making his motion to have the testimony taken informed the court that a suit is to be filed by Hopkins heirs to recover their share of the estate of Mark Hopkins.

Attorney Work said the suit will be filed to impress the property of Moses Hopkins — property he received from Mark Hopkins in original or altered form—with a trust for the benefit of 120 Hopkins descendants.

Mark Hopkins died in 1878, leaving an estate valued at approximately $80,000,000. Moses Hopkins, a brother, acted as administrator of the estate.

Attorney Work said it will be asserted by the plaintiffs in the contemplated legal action that Moses Hopkins, as administrator, concealed from the court the fact that he and Mark Hopkins had three brothers and three sisters in North Carolina.

The estate of Mark Hopkins was distributed to Moses Hopkins and to his widow, according to Attorney Work. When Moses Hopkins died he left an estate valued at approximately $5,000,000. His widow, Mrs. Emily Hopkins, a resident of San Francisco, but said to be in New York City at present, is declared to have received the bulk of Moses Hopkins's estate. Work said she is to be made a defendant in the suit.

SLAYER OF FOUR GETS TEST

Woman Refuses to Tell of Killing of Relatives in Sanity Commission Hearing

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LOGANSPORT (Ind.) Dec. 30.—A sanity commission, appointed by Dr. J. J. Stanton, holds the decision upon which the State of Indiana will base its action in connection with Mrs. Mary Emma Hobough, held responsible for the murder of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bassler, her brother John, and her 3-year-old daughter, Viola.

Mrs. Hobough was taken before the commission this afternoon, but refused to answer questions propounded by the members of the commission and M. C. Beebe, justice of the peace, in whose court the investigation was held.

A history of the woman's life together with her record as an employee of a local factory, where she worked for a short period were presented to the board by relatives and others. H. F. Myers, manager of the factory where she was employed, declared that she had been discharged because of peculiar actions and because she threatened other employees. Relatives and neighbors declared before the commission that she had been considered a person of peculiar actions for the last several years.

SPEAKS AT RANDOM

In conversation with the county Sheriff, Walter Bowyer, previous to the sanity investigation, Mrs. Hobough spoke at random relative to her home life.

Mrs. Hobough seems wrapped in a shroud of melancholy. Under questioning by the Sheriff, however, she made statements regarded as important in completely clarifying the murders.

"Mrs. Hobough, you are certainly not guilty of murder," the Sheriff said.

"GOOD AT TIMES"

"I never handled a shot gun before in my life. I didn't even know how to open and close the breech. But I did it just the same.

"I should have did it nine years ago, but I was a fool. Mother was good to me at times, but most of the time she would stand up for Father because she was afraid of the old fool," asserted the woman.

When interrogations were advanced regarding who was the first member of the family she shot and just where the victim was standing or seated at the time of the crime, she absolutely refused to answer.

The blood-smeared dress which, it is believed Emma Hobough wore on Sunday night when she committed the ghastly crimes, is being held at the Sheriff's office as evidence in the case. In addition to this evidence an old pocketbook and several other articles are in the possession of the Sheriff.

FEARS FOR DAWES PLAN

Stresemann Says Failure to Evacuate Cologne Will Discredit Supporters in Germany

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—The refusal of the Allies to evacuate the Cologne area means the complete bankruptcy of the political leaders and parties in Germany who favored acceptance of the Dawes report, Foreign Minister Stresemann declared to the correspondents today. The whole work of internal pacification in Germany is endangered and Chauvinism is given new food, he insisted.

"If the decision of the Allies stands," Dr. Stresemann added, "the Dawes plan will simply be a financial and economic scheme of reparations, but not what was expected of it, namely, the beginning of a new era of peace in Europe."

He vigorously denied that Germany had not disarmed and he branded the refusal to evacuate Cologne as a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

The question of security, raised at the end of Article 429 of the treaty, Dr. Stresemann declared, refers only to possible measures to be taken at the completion of the whole evacuation period. In the opinion of the German government, he explained, the question of Germany's disarmament is a general one, which every military expert will answer in the affirmative. He insisted that it was against the spirit of the Versailles Treaty to make possible specific minor deficiencies in living up to the letter of the treaty an excuse for nonevacuation.

"Were there any real failure to disarm, the hostile press would long ago have set up a howl," the Foreign Minister said.

Dr. Stresemann demanded the publication in full of the text of the Allied Military Control Commission's report so that Germany might make a public reply.

Recurring to the deeper significance of the London conference the Foreign Minister said that those in Germany who favored the Dawes plan were now open to charges from the Nationalists that they were illusionists who preached the doctrine of international understanding in vain. He intimated that the only possible way to save the situation was for the Allies to negotiate with the German government, rather than to simply announce and impose decisions.

PARDON SOUGHT FOR HOP RIOTS CONVICT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—The office of Gov. Richardson is in receipt of an appeal for the pardon of H. D. Suhr, now serving time in Folsom State Prison with Richard ("Blackie") Ford, for murder in connection with the fatal Wheatland, Yuba county, hop-field riots of 1913.

Dist.-Atty. Manwell of Yuba county, father of the present District Attorney of the county, Ray Manwell, was among the victims of the riot. The petition bears the purported signatures of the eight surviving jurors who tried the case. That the bullets which killed Manwell came from the crowd and that Suhr did not actually kill the official is one of the arguments made in the petition.

SMALL IS HELD ACCOUNTABLE

Court in Making Decision Denounces Governor

Official Says Alleged Debt More Than Million

Effect on Second Inaugural Appears Uncertain

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SPRINGFIELD, Dec. 30.—Gov. Len Small was held accountable for "the entire interest" entrusted to him as State Treasurer in a decision made today by Circuit Judge Frank S. Burton of Carrollton. The decision was accompanied by a denunciation of the State official who sat before him.

Preparing the formal decree for presentation in court tomorrow morning, Asst. Atty.-Gen. Clarence N. Boord said tonight the amount of Gov. Small's alleged indebtedness to the State was "considerably more than $1,000,000." The case will be formally referred back tomorrow to the master in chancery for a definite decision of the amount of indebtedness.

PLEA IS BOOMERANG

Eleven days were spent by counsel arguing before Judge Burton over the report of the master in chancery which the judge approved today. Arguments of defense counsel, headed by Werner W. Schroeder of Kankakee, and Senator John W. Dalhi of Peoria, were chiefly to the effect that there was "not one iota of proof of money wrongfully held."

This argument turned as a boomerang against the defense. Pearing down at the upturned face of Gov. Small, the elderly jurist asked why there was no proof and added that "not only one but practically every item of evidence and proof . . . had disappeared."

"If there is anyone," he continued, "who should preserve a record of his administration, it is the public officer."

With Gov. Small, the judge held Verne Curtis and the heirs of Edward Curtis, former State Senator, accountable for interests on the packers' note, but added that men who signed the Governor's bond when he became Treasurer, are not liable. The Curtises were proprietors of the "Grant Park Bank."

How Judge Burton's decision may affect Gov. Small's second inaugural, which has been set for January 13, was uncertain tonight. The Attorney-General's force refused to say how they interpreted the law regarding it.

BILL TO CURB SENATE CONFIRMATIONS TOLD

MEASURE WOULD AFFECT STATE CHARITY BOARD APPOINTMENTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—A bill will be introduced into the Legislature which convenes here next Monday for the repeal of that section of the State law requiring the Senate to confirm the appointment of members of the State Board of Charities and Correction by the Governor, it became known today.

Aside from the Board of Charities and Corrections, the law provides for the confirmation of appointments to only two other agencies, the State Board of Prison Directors and the Board of Regents of the University of California.

The confirmation requirement pertaining to members of the prison board and regents is contained in the State constitution.

NEW M'CLINTOCK THEORY

State Officer Says Millionaire Orphan Died from Eating Typhoid-Tainted Oysters

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Support for the belief that William McClintock, Kenilworth's millionaire orphan, died of typhoid fever contracted by eating oysters was given today by P. H. Cooney, chief quarantine officer for the State Board of Health.

Questioned at the State's Attorney's office, Cooney said he had traced the history of the case and learned that McClintock had eaten oysters in an Evanston restaurant handling a brand that was found to be tainted.

There were seventeen cases of typhoid fever in the North Shore district in November, Cooney added, and virtually all of them were traced to the deadly oysters.

CONDUCTED QUIZ

William D. Shepherd, heir to the fortune, he said, told him his foster son had eaten the oysters. He conducted his own investigation, however, to learn how the infection occurred.

State's Attorney George E. Gorman, who has been in charge of the investigation since its instigation by Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal Court, was asked today if there was any likelihood of an indictment being returned.

"Perhaps," he said, "we shall indict an oyster."

Tomorrow Chief Justice Olson is expected to confer with Assistant State's Attorneys George H. Gorman and Joseph R. Savage. Coroner Oscar Wolfe, who threw a mysterious air about the partial report of the chemists engaged in making the analysis of the vital organs of McClintock, will probably be present.

INQUIRY HIT

William D. Shepherd, foster father of young McClintock, to whom the "millionaire orphan" bequeathed a fortune of more than $1,000,000, holds the complete report will demonstrate that the boy came to his death through entirely natural causes.

Shepherd and his legal representatives referred to the Coroner's mysterious air as another step in "the grotesque farce" masked as an investigation.

PASADENAN WILL CLAIM PART OF ESTATE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 30.—A relative by marriage of William McClintock, the millionaire orphan, whose death in Chicago caused an investigation, will claim a portion of the $2,000,000 estate, it was disclosed here today.

William Hickling, 1321 Huntington Drive, says he is a relative of McClintock and a legal heir to a portion of the estate. The millionaire orphan, as McClintock was known, died three weeks ago, on the eve of his marriage to Miss Isabelle Pope of Chicago. Under the terms of the will, Miss Pope will receive an annuity of $1000, the remainder going to William Shepherd, foster father of the dead man.

Hickling bases his claim for a portion of the estate on a distant marriage. He tells a story of how the "ill-fated" fortune was won and lost several times. It was first acquired by an uncle of Mr. McClintock, Kenilworth's millionaire orphan, who was president of the First National Bank of Chicago. The uncle's widow, after the death of her husband, married her attorney, William McClintock. Later she died leaving all the money to him. McClintock then married and their son is the William McClintock, who died three weeks ago.

BLACKMAIL INTIMATED IN SHOOTING

Phoenix Prisoner Delays Statement; Had Told of Domestic Trouble

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 30.—R. I. Woodson, held by the city authorities on a charge of killing Norman Mc-Kenzie last night, stated today that he would delay the full statement he had promised when arrested. He had intimated that domestic trouble had caused the action. The wives of both were friends, but knowledge of any cause for friction between the families, Mrs. Woodson today stated she had never heard her husband refer to the receipt of a blackmailing letter.

The shooting occurred at a combination line-filling station operated by Woodson at Seventh street and Roosevelt. The defendant claims he shot in self-defense after McKenzie had struck him on the head with something that looked like a monkey wrench. McKenzie died from a gunshot wound through the abdomen. He was a widower, 28 years of age, and leaves a mother and two small children.

Chief of Police George Ross stated that Woodson was one of two brothers sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary for an attempted robbery of a train at Maricopa Station. Both were released on parole, which the latter is said to have broken.

An inquest will be conducted tomorrow.

GENERAL ELECTRIC WILL CUT "MEAT"

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The General Electric Company announced today that it would dispose of its holdings in the Electric Bond and Share Company by organizing a new corporation which will distribute its shares to the General Electric stockholders. The distribution will represent a substantial "melon-cutting" for General Electric shareholders.

As Warm and Bright
As a Shaft of Sunlight

WELSBACH RADIANT HEAT is the closest approach of any form of heat to sunlight in quality and quick heating properties. Like sunlight, its generous, healthful warmth is radiated—thrown straight out to you from a row of red-hot clay glowers. It is thus the quickest of heat in getting into action, the freest from waste.

The wonderful convenience of Welsbach Radiant Heat accounts for its ever-increasing popularity as much as its speed and unusual heating power. There is no troublesome preparation and no waiting; you merely twist the self-lighter key, and a flood of glorious warmth is pouring out into your room.

The economy of Welsbach Radiant Heat is another point to be considered. There is none of the waste that occurs with other forms of heat—it is warmth just when and where you want it, the expense stopping when the need for the heat passes.

KARL DECLARES FRANCE HIS AID

Tells Horthy Briand's Word Given to Back Coup

Vice-Regent Apparently Won Over to ex-Ruler

But Move to Regain Throne is Delayed Again

[This is the fourth of a series of seven articles written by Baron Charles von Werkmann, secretary to former Emperor Karl of Austria when the latter was trying to regain his lost throne. Ex-Empress Zita helped in the preparation of the story. It is from the diary of the late Emperor, and other notes, covering the period to 1921, and from notes prepared after Karl's death in Madeira in 1922. Karl, in his diary, appears as a madcap. He accuses Admiral Nicholas Horthy of an attempt to barter an empire, and states, also, that he had the aid of France in his monarchial plot.]

BY BARON CHARLES VON WERKMANN
Secretary to the late Emperor Karl of Austria.

[Copyright in United States, Canada, Great Britain, Japan and South America by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

To prove his loyalty, Horthy now related that, when the putsch in favor of Archduke Joseph was announced, he had declared that he would nip it in the bud, even though blood should flow. He could not permit Archduke Joseph to have his way, on account of the King—nor could he permit the King to have his, on account of the country: "The Little Entente will come and entirely devastate poor Hungary, which has intrusted itself to me."

Horthy continued, saying that the people now had confidence in no one but himself, since he had not yielded to the storm, but had braved it. Folks were saying out in the country that nobody could any longer have confidence in the King, since he had fled in the face of danger.

"INFAMOUS FALSEHOOD"

I: Horthy! And you permit such an infamous falsehood to be said about your King? You yourself are my witness! You yourself were present at Schoenbrunn and saw everything! You tell the people whether I fled from danger or not!"

Horthy: Not in Austria.

I: And Hungary?—I wasn't here when the revolution broke out; I had been urgently called to Vienna, where things looked even more dangerous. But I went much farther in the case of Hungary than I did in the case of Austria; to my beloved nation I intrusted the safety, yes, the life, of my little children!"

I then explained to Horthy once more that I did not consider the danger threatening from the Little Entente to be serious, though at the same time I could give no guarantees if Horthy did not yield at once. I declared that I had the promises of leading men and told him in greater detail about them, though without mentioning any names. Then I again requested him to give up the regency. Horthy did not quite believe in the promises, saying that too many had already been made! He refused to budge. Suddenly he said he would like to know the name of the leading Frenchman.

I replied: I can't tell it: the name is absolutely confidential.

Horthy regretted this: It would have been the only possibility for me to yield the power, for if the name is really a weighty one . . . then, of course, the whole aspect of things is changed.

I grew hopeful again that Horthy might, after all, consider the country:

"If you promise to yield and to observe silence, I can tell you, the Vice-Regent, the name."

Horthy: Yes.

And so I mentioned the name. (Briand.)

[Editor's note — Karl's own memoranda do not name ex-Premier Briand. The name was added by the Emperor's secretary on what is said to be verbal authority of Karl himself.]

Horthy, joyfully: Yes, but why didn't Your Majesty say this right away? That, of course, is something entirely different.

PROMISES TO YIELD

I: Then you will yield now?

Horthy: Of course, I shall yield—but now—momentarily—it is impossible. I haven't the whole apparatus under control. Your Majesty appeared too suddenly."

I: But I sent word to you as far back as last autumn that I would certainly return this spring.

Horthy opined that he could get the whole situation in hand within a very few weeks, on the one presupposition, however, that I would take Lehar's troops and march against Vienna.

"Your Majesty would reconquer 'good old Vienna' and we shall have 'our dear Austria-Hungary' again."

Horthy had evidently realized that I was not to be persuaded to turn back, and he therefore fell back upon his pet idea, that of marching upon Vienna. He repeated his suggestion that I attempt the conquest of Vienna with Hungarian troops, by which fact the question of the King would be automatically solved for Hungary.

I have always considered Horthy's plans, looking for action beyond the confines of Hungary, as the traditional maneuver of illegitimate heads of states for distracting attention, and have regarded it as a mistake. For this reason I urged him even months before to re-establish ordered, lawful conditions in Hungary, and not on the one hand to carry Bolshevism into Czecho-Slovakia and on the other to fight against disguised Bolshevism in Austria. I therefore rejected Horthy's plans now, too, all the more so as I might well fear that Horthy was merely concerned about getting me out of Budapest.

It is also quite possible that Horthy hoped thereby to compromise me. In a personal letter written to Admiral von Horthy and Herr von Rakovszky on November 8, 1920, I had declared that Hungary's blood and substance must be expended solely in the interests of Hungary and not for other purposes, foreign to the country. I would therefore have proved untrue to myself, had I set in scene the recovery of Vienna merely in response to Horthy's unmotivated wish.

HORTHY DEMANDS DELAY

Horthy, however, professed to be very enthusiastic now, and bore in upon me. He would bid me come to Budapest after but a few weeks, he said; meanwhile order would be established here.

I declined: The question at issue now was not Austria, but Hungary. Horthy should yield.

Horthy declared it was impossible to turn the government over to me before three weeks were up, for he had nothing in hand sufficiently.

I now proposed to remain in the country and to hide at Szombathely. Horthy is meanwhile to get a firm grip on affairs, and after three weeks Horthy is to appear in Szombathely and request me to return to Pest.

I pulled out my calendar:

"This is the 27th of March. Three weeks are over on April 17. (Then with emphasis:) Look here, Horthy, if on that day you are not at Szombathely, I shall that very day be in Budapest!"

Horthy at first agreed, but pretty soon the three weeks seemed too short to him; he could not manage matters by then; anyway, the plan was not a good one; the Entente people would surely get wind of the King's presence in Hungary, and he could then no longer deny it. That would mean the ruination of the country!—"No, the plan is impossible! Your Majesty must return to Switzerland at once."

I: I have told you before that that is impossible."

We were now back to where we started. Every appeal to love of country and fidelity to the King had failed; all arguments had been exhausted. I now grabbed at the last straw. I took up Horthy's suggestion of an advance upon Vienna via Steiermark, but declared that I must make the execution of the plan dependent upon a conference with Lehar regarding its practicality (Horthy was not every enthusiastic about this "conference.") And I closed: You remain here as my general.

To which Horthy replied affirmatively.

If the diplomats were to come then, he was simply to say that there was no reason for them to protest, for His Majesty had already left Hungary. In case, however, the advance upon Vienna proved impracticable, I would simply remain in Szombathely and wait for the three weeks to pass, after which Horthy would come to call for me. In this Horthy acquiesced, albeit with reluctance.

After Horthy had finally agreed to this, he declared that he was now in accord with everything, and expressed his joy again and again that everything was so well regulated and therefore gave promise of being most successful.

ANOTHER DECORATION

There was one more thing he asked for: The chapter of the Order of Theresia, which had to pass upon the claims of applicants for admission to this knighthood, had reported favorably upon his case. He would be very happy, however, if his Supreme Warlord were to present the decoration to him, just as had happened to the Knights of the Order of Theresia in the years '17 and '18. Thereupon I decorated him with the Order of Theresia.

I now bade him farewell and hurried away, lest the project be betrayed or the Vice-Regent regret his decision.

I had appeared in the castle in the uniform of Lehar, as a colonel. I left the room through a side door and, with Magashazy, proceeded to the auto as unobtrusively as possible. I did not even ask the guards of the castle to present arms, and commanded the aide-de-camp, Magashazy, not to walk by my side too conspicuously at attention. The old guards had nevertheless recognized me. They were forbidden, however, to speak of my presence.

The following little episode is of interest: Before I left the study of the Vice-Regent I asked him whether Magashazy, who escorted me, was dependable; that I had often heard the contrary. The Vice-Regent assured me, however, that he was dependable and silent—"as we all are."

I was happy to find myself outside the castle. In fact, from the moment that I set foot upon it I had regretted having accepted Teleki's advice, instead of carrying out my plan as conceived in Switzerland. But, after all, I had to assume that Horthy's own Premier must know better what the condition of affairs about him was than I could know, coming out of Switzerland.

In case Horthy were again to change his mind, I now reflected, I would be better able to compel him to yield if I were backed by West-Hungarian bayonets than I could by exerting ever so great will power and evincing the utmost self-control here, in the Ofen Castle, alone and unarmed as I was.

About 4:30 p.m. we departed hurriedly from the ministerial chancellory.

KARL ADDS TO NOTES

[Note by Baron Von Werkmann: Later, as the Emperor went over this part of his notes he completed his observations on the meeting and negotiations with Horthy as follows:]

In consequence of the long journey and the mental strain under which I had been living I was tired by the time my auto journey neared its end. As soon as I reached Budapest, however, my fatigue was over. I considered myself not only at the end of my journey, but also at the goal of Hungary's and my aims. After all, I did not doubt for a moment that Horthy would turn over the government to me.

In the castle everything seemed at first blush to have remained as of old. As I walked toward Horthy's apartment the guards presented arms just as though it were natural for me to pass them. To me these motionless guards in the aisles and before my door were something to which I was so used that I believed all the events of these last years to have been but an ugly dream.

My illusions were dispelled, however, the minute I reached Horthy's apartment in the Christinenstadt wing. Until the year 1918 it had been my apartment. The Vice-Regent now thought it in good taste for him to occupy it.

Repeatedly, urgently and exhaustively I explained to the admiral the reasons why it was necessary for him to yield the power. An objective estimate of the domestic and foreign situation compelled him to yield the power in the interests of Hungary—so I argued.

The conditions in Hungary as he represented them were the logical consequence of the country's being without a King. Nobody but the crowned monarch, who was not raised to his exalted place and kept there by the favor of parties, could bridge over the chasm caused by the revolution and could gather all Hungarians about his banner. No foreign power would seriously undertake anything against a Hungary united under its King. The actual foreign opponents of the restoration were weak, as was shown by their very fear of a restoration.

Various great powers—especially those that were of chief importance for this project—favored the re-establishment of the legitimate monarchical power. With its restoration these powers would be won for Hungary, and Hungary would therefore be freed from the pressure of unfriendly succession states. I informed Horthy in detail of all the assurances I had been given on this point, but emphasized the strictly confidential character of this information, which precluded that even the respective diplomatic envoys should know about them.

"SCRAPS OF PAPER"

Of course, protests would be made on every hand, just to save face. But "paper doesn't hurt," as I had been significantly told in important quarters. The decisive point in determining the further attitude of those who were friendly to the restoration was the creation of a fait accompli here in Budapest. It was up to him, the Vice-Regent, to make it succeed.

The Vice-Regent professed to entertain doubts as to the foundation of my hopes. But after I had explained my direct connections to him he could not possibly entertain doubts any longer.

In the agreement reached at the end of my discussion with him I was justified in seeing the Vice-Regent's acceptance of the idea of restoration, and I therefore parted from him in the hope that we might yet reach a complete accord.

I lost this faith entirely, however, as soon as I learned that the Vice-Regent had on that very day summoned the Entente diplomats to him and was informed of what he discussed with them in violation of his obligation to observe silence.

When in Tropics Dress Like Adam, Says Professor

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—White men and women must revert to Gardan of Eden costumes if they are to be successful in colonizing tropical countries, according to Prof. P. F. Fyson of Berhampore, Bengal.

If the European is to stand tropical temperatures, says the professor, he must get over his idea that the exposure of naked skin is indecent and he must follow the example of the Indians, who wear no clothing above the waist or about the legs and feet.

European clothing, Prof. Fyson maintains, interferes with natural regulating action of the skin, and makes it impossible for Europeans to endure tropical climates for long.

JUDGE REFUSES CASES OF SEVEN PRISONERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 30.—At Prescott today Superior Judge Sweeney refused to take jurisdiction over the cases of seven Federal prisoners who had been sent from Globe to Prescott for incarceration. Counsel for the prisoners asserted that the committments were addressed only to the Sheriff of Gila county and hence were illegal elsewhere. Insecurity of the Globe jail is said to have caused the transfer.

HUNT INAUGURAL ARRANGED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, Dec. 30.—Announcement has been made that Gov. Hunt's fifth inaugural will be held in the House chamber in the Capitol on January 5, next, and will be very informal.

Pacific Company Directors Change Personnel

H. D. Pillsbury Will Assume Post of President

Powley, General Manager of Southern Division

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Important changes in the personnel of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company were announced here today after a special meeting of the board of directors.

H. D. Pillsbury, for many years vice-president and general attorney of the company, will assume the position of president, succeeding G. E. McFarland, who has been chosen chairman of the executive committee. McFarland has been president of the company for twelve years.

A. H. Griswold, vice-president of the Southern California Telephone Company at Los Angeles, will become vice-president in charge of operations, a newly created office. N. R. Powley succeeds Griswold in Los Angeles as general manager of the southern division of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. All appointments are effective on January 1. J. C. Nowell continues as general manager of the northern divisions of the company, including Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Northern California.

Changes in the organization were made necessary, according to the announcement, by the expansion of the company's business. At present the company operates nearly 1,000,000 telephones and employs approximately 30,000 people, officials of the company stated, and represents an investment of approximately $250,000,000.

Texas Robbers Set Sixth Fire to Hide Crimes

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FT. WORTH (Tex.) Dec. 30.—For the sixth time in ten days, Texas robbers early today pilfered a business establishment and set fire to it to hide their crime. The Fall Merchandising Store at Chireno in East Texas was looted and fired. A drug store and lodge hall also were destroyed with loss estimated at $50,000.

Early Monday a band of torch raiders robbed two stores at Pottsboro in North Texas and started a fire, which destroyed the post-office and nine buildings with loss more than $100,000. Last week two banks at Valley View, near here, were robbed and a fire started which destroyed the entire business district with a $250,000 loss.

No trace of any of the raiders has been found.

Fokker Concern to Build Russian Fighting Planes

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The Russian soviet government, it was announced here today, has ordered 100 fighting airplanes from Fokker, the airplane builder.

The machines are to be built in Holland and fitted with British engines.

STEINWAY
THE INSTRUMENT OF THE IMMORTALS

Olga Steeb, Los Angeles resident and one of our best American pianists, appears as solo artist with the

Philharmonic Orchestra at the Philharmonic Auditorium

Friday Afternoon and Saturday Evening this week (January 2 and 3), playing the Brahms Concerto in D Minor, No. 1.

This affords a fine opportunity not only to hear this great work, but to hear Miss Steeb's rendition, her wonderful understanding, interpretation, technique and tonal color—only to be fully consummated and appreciated through the extraordinary vitality of the Steinway Piano, which amazes and exalts every true lover of music.

Miss Steeb received all her training upon the Steinway, the only Piano that offers constant advancement in musical culture, and attributes much of her success to it. She says:

"It is because I love the full, rich, sustaining quality of the tone that lives and sings and gives one command over power and brilliancy as well as the most delicate shadings—and because the action responds to one's every desire, that I have chosen to use the Steinway in concert and in my studio."

In both Concert and Studio Miss Steeb uses the Steinway Piano exclusively.

GOMEZ GANG COMPLAINTS ARE ISSUED

Organized Forgery Laid to Three Asserted to be Members of Band

Three asserted members of the notorious Gomez gang of forgers who were rounded up in a police raid last week were accused of forgery in three complaints issued yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Lucas.

According to Detective Lieutenant Hickey, who has been investigating the activities of the gang, more than $25,000 has been obtained from business firms in Southern California by the gang in an organized fictitious-check campaign within recent months.

Those named in the complaints are Jose Alvarez, Carlos Carvajal and Gabriel Perez. They are charged specifically with the forgery of checks for $12.50, $26.75 and $26.50, respectively. The three are held in the City Jail.

More than sixty checks have been traced to the gang in the investigation, Detective Hickey stated. A complete outfit for preparing checks was found at the time of the raid by police, it was asserted.

High Way Site Sought for Slab for Malholland

Site for a heroic statue of William Mulholland, builder of the Los Angeles Aqueduct, for whom the Mulholland High Way was named, will be selected today along the new scenic road by officials of the Hollywood Foothills Improvement Association, a body organized to promote the highway.

Those who will make the tour over the highway are Harry H. Merrick, president; W. D. Longyear, treasurer; Louis Evans, senior vice-president; Alphonzo Bell, Arnold Krockman, secretary; Alvaro Pratt, vice-president; F. C. Wood, Marlowe M. Merrick and Stanley Anderson, directors; Dewitt L. Reaburn, field engineer, and Wilkie Woodard, vice-president in charge of engineering.

Arrangements have been made with Sally Farnum, widely known sculptress, to execute the statue. A model has been made and actual work will start in her New York studio within a short time, it is stated.

The statue will stand at some commanding point on the highway between Cahuenga Pass and Calabasas.

Head Takes Part in Legal Branch of "Dry" Office

D. R. Head, assistant legal adviser in the office of S. R. Rutter, prohibition director at San Francisco, has been assigned to duty as assistant legal advisor in the Los Angeles office of the prohibition force. He began his duties here yesterday. His work will be chiefly concerned with hearings involving the issuance of permits to sell intoxicating liquor.

Mr. Head is a member of the Ohio bar. He was graduated from the law school of the University of Colorado with the class of '24. He began his work with the prohibition department last October after being appointed assistant legal advisor by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

CITY EARNINGS HEAVY

Interest on Loans to Banks for Six Months Equals $525,000

City Treasurer Powell announced yesterday that the earnings of the City Treasury from interest on idle city funds loaned to banks for the first six months of the present fiscal year ending today, were $525,000, or at the rate of $1,100,000 a year. The City Treasurer said that the interest earnings during the next six months will exceed $525,000.

The interest earnings are placed in the general fund and used for the support and maintenance of the city government. It was estimated in May that the City Treasurer's loans on idle city money would be $554,000 for the entire twelve months beginning July 1, but the actual earnings will be twice the amount estimated by the City Auditor.

CATHOLIC FILM GUILD TO STAGE EGAN PLAY

The Catholic Motion Picture Actors' Guild will present Thomas Egan's production of "The Minstrel Boy" at Philharmonic Auditorium, February 2, 1925, at 8:15 p.m. It will be the annual benefit of the organization to obtain funds to carry on its charitable work. The program will include western numbers, appearance of film actors and actresses. The guild has issued New Year's greetings in the form of a pamphlet, which contains a resume of the year's work and announcement of plans by Rev. Michael J. Mullins, chaplain and founder.

PALESTINE CAMPAIGN CHIEF DUE

Jews Here Plan Welcome for Bernard Stone, Who Will Talk January 12

A delegation of the city's most eminent Jews will greet Bernard Stone, a leader in the campaign to rebuild Palestine as a national Jewish homeland, upon his arrival in the city today to organize the local Jewish community in behalf of the international movement.

Mr. Stone is a veteran leader in the movement, having worked for the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine for the past two decades. He has been particularly active since Great Britain accepted the mandate for Palestine with a view to facilitating the settlement of Jews in that country.

Mr. Stone will address a mass meeting of the Jewish community here January 12, at the Friday Morning Club. The meeting will be conducted under the auspices of the local committee of the Palestine Foundation Fund, of which S. Markowitz is chairman.

Matthias Dalton Funeral Service is Set for Today

Matthias Myers Dalton, for sixty-nine years a resident of Los Angeles, will be buried today in Evergreen Cemetery. He was said to be the first baby to be born in Los Angeles in a home not built of adobe. Funeral services will be held in the mortuary establishment of Breese Brothers, at Ninth and Figueroa streets, at 1:30 p.m.

The son of George Dalton and Elizabeth Myers Jenkins, his wife, Matthias Dalton was born here April 2, 1855, and lived here all his life. Death came to him last Wednesday. Not long before his birth, his uncle, Henry Dalton, had brought an iron house around the Horn in a sailing vessel from New York. It was the first dwelling built of anything but adobe to be erected in the Mexican pueblo of Nuestra Senora la Reina de Los Angeles, and under its roof Matthias Dalton was born.

The boy's early life was spent on his father's ranch at what is now Washington street and Central avenue. Forty years ago he served as a mounted police officer and his "beat" extended from Main and Washington streets southward and eastward to the city limits.

Two brothers, two sisters and twenty-five nieces and nephews survive him. The next of kin are W. T. and Charles Jenkins Dalton and Mrs. Mary A. Crum, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Josephine S. Hall of Tulsa, Okla.

IRRIGATION AREA HELD NOT UTILITY

RAILROAD COMMISSION WILL NOT FIX RATES FOR TURLOCK DI...

Holding that an irrigation district is not a public utility, the State Railroad Commission yesterday refused to fix a schedule of rates under which the Turlock Irrigation District has contracted to supply electric power to the San Joaquin Light and Power Company.

The district entered into an agreement on March 11, last, to supply the power company with any surplus energy generated at its hydroelectric plant located on the Tuolumne River and applied to the commission for approval of the contract and the proposed rates. While sanctioning the contract because it involves a public utility, the commission refused to approve the rate schedule suggested, declaring that it has no authority to fix rates in the case.

TUNNEL IS PROPOSED

Subway With Escalators Under Second Recommended

Construction of a subway tunnel with escalators to carry passengers under the present Second-street tunnel was recommended to the City Council yesterday by the Board of Public Utilities.

The tunnel, as proposed, will be eight feet below the floor of the present tunnel and will be equipped with escalators to carry passengers at two rides for 5 cents. The subway tunnel will also have two sidewalks for the accommodation of pedestrians who prefer to walk instead of riding on the escalators.

The proposal was taken under consideration by the Council.

WOODS FILLS VACANCY

Hotel Man Named on Chamber's Board of Directors

James Woods, vice-president of the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel Company, was yesterday named a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce for 1925. He takes the place of J. E. Fishburn, who declined on account of ill health. The appointment was announced by President Lacy by authority of the board.

Mr. Woods was named chairman of the transportation committee on his election to the directorate.

KIWANIANS TO INSTALL NEW PRESIDENT TODAY

Sam Bishop will be installed as president of the Los Angeles Kiwanis Club today, succeeding Clyde Shoemaker, who was the local Kiwanis head during 1924. The initiatory ceremonies will take place at the luncheon at the Biltmore at noon, the past presidents participating. The other officers are Brook Hawkin, first vice-president; Charles E. Milliken, second vice-president; Charles Arms, secretary and treasurer; Dr. Ernest Brashour, district trustee; Herbert Bigelow, Charles L. Morris, Harold Ferguson, Roy Taylor, Hon. Ira F. Thompson, Joe Light and Bill Bottom, directors.

SCIENTIST HITS BRYAN'S VIEWS

Wesleyan Faculty Member Addresses Convocation

Says Commoner's Arguments Dangerous to Religion

Delegates to be Received by Coolidge Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Advances in psychology, medicine, biology, chemistry and physics were disclosed in hundreds of papers read today before the fifteen sections of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the seventy-ninth annual meeting of which is now in full swing.

Thirty-one hundred members were registered during the day and a flurry of interest was caused by a report that William J. Bryan would arrive in time to listen to a criticism of his views on evolution, but he failed to appear.

The largest audience of any sectional meeting thus far held attended that addressed by Dr. Edward L. Rice, professor of zoology at Ohio Wesleyan University, a Methodist institution. Choosing "Darwin and Bryan" as his text, Dr. Rice, in a paper characterized the views of Mr. Bryan on evolution as "dogmatic" and "dangerous to religion" and urged more unprejudiced co-operation in scientific and religious study.

BRYAN'S ARGUMENTS

Mr. Bryan's arguments, he said, were deduced "from the assumption of the literary accuracy of the Bible in general, and of the first two chapters of Genesis in particular." This assumption was "not biblical" nor was it "accepted by leading Bible scholars of today."

Darwin's work on the contrary, was represented as having been based upon a hypothesis "followed by the most complete verification and leading to a degree of probability amounting to practical certainty."

Members of the association and their guests will be received by President Coolidge at the White House tomorrow.

Chimpanzees not only appear to think, but do think, Dr. Robert M. Yerkes of the Psychological Institute of Yale University, declared in a paper read before the psychological section. He based his conclusions on studies made of two young chimpanzees which, he said, knew how to study a problem presented to them in a way essentially like that of man and quite unlike that of any other animal.

APES' INTELLECT

"The great apes are intellectually closer to men than we have hitherto imagined," Dr. Yerkes stated. "The evidence for their solution of problems 'ideationally' is now abundant and convincing."

Dr. Yerkes said one of the characteristics of the solving of problems by chimpanzees was that the solution seemed often to come suddenly to them after a period of quiet reflection.

The aims of the proposed oceanographic research by the Navy were summarized by Dr. Austin H. Clark of the Smithsonian Institution in a general address. They include the discovery of new fishing banks and an increase in food resources; better understanding of climatic conditions which will aid in weather forecasting and in marine and aerial navigation; fuller knowledge of ocean currents and of the drift of icebergs; knowledge of ocean depths and contours which will aid navigation, fishing and the laying of telegraphic cables, and knowledge of the composition of sea water which will lead to greater accuracy in the use of the sonic depth finder.

JAPANESE ARE SHAKEN DOWN

Race Shorter and Broader Than Before Quakes, Savants Say

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TOKIO, Dec. 30.—An earthquake phenomenon is puzzling medical men and scientists of Nippon, this being that since the earthquake children have lost inches in their stature, but have grown broader. Not only post-quake babies, but also school-going boys and girls.

The Ministry of Education recently held a physical examination of all the primary schools of the city and discovered that children are shorter in stature, but have made up for this with a greater girth and weight. About 200,000 pupils were examined, boys and girls being in almost equal proportions.

OREGON GIRL WINS HOME IN CONTEST

Lighting Educational Body Awards $15,000 Building as First Prize

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Miss Julia Groo, 18 years of age, of Portland, Or., has been awarded a $15,000 model home as first prize in a home-lighting essay contest in which 1,000,000 school children in the United States and Canada competed, the Lighting Educational Committee announced today.

Ten other boys and girls received scholarships ranging in value from $300 to $1200. George R. Pincaroe of Oakland, Cal., and Dorothy Lathe of Quebec, were given $1200 scholarships. Awards worth $600 were made to John P. Crawford of Kokomo, Ind., and Lucille Brewer of Gainesville, Ga.; Joe Kelly of Martinsville, Ind., and Irene Ilene of Lowville, N. Y. Scholarships valued at $300 were given to Roswell E. Brett of Watertown, N. Y.; Mary W. Holman of Huntsville, Mo.; Everrett E. Wigger of West Alexandria, O., and Eleanor Link of Lancaster, N. Y.

The scholarships may be used in any American or Canadian college or university.

RECALL ELECTION IN CRESCENT CITY FAILS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CRESCENT CITY, Dec. 30.—A recall election yesterday against Dist.-Atty. James Davis failed by approximately 120 votes, it was indicated today. Davis's opponents for the office were George W. Howe and Edward C. Hersch, both former District Attorneys. The principal charge against Davis was that he failed to prosecute a statutory charge against a Crescent City man.

REFORMATORY BILL GOES TO PRESIDENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A House bill for the establishment of a Federal industrial reformatory for first offenders was passed today by the Senate and sent to the President. The legislation was urged by the Department of Justice because of present congestion in prisons and for other reasons.

HOPE FOR MODIFICATION

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CALEXICO, Dec. 30.—Members of the Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to appeal to the Treasury Department to modify the 9 o'clock closing order in effect nightly on the border have been encouraged by the announcement that the order in effect at Douglas has been discontinued. The local committee has forwarded to Washington petitions asking that two or three hours more be allowed for the public to cross the line at will in the evening, it being argued that business in Calexico has been hampered by the 9 o'clock order. No official word as to the intentions of the Treasury Department has been received here yet.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

En obsequio a nuestros numerosos amigos de habla española, y para beneficio de los lectores americanos de "The Times" que estudien esa lengua, publicamos diariamente esta columna en castellano, con un extracto de las más importantes noticias de última hora.

Buena parte del futuro progreso de Los Angeles, que es la metrópoli de los Estados Unidos que más cercana se halla a territorio latino-americano, habrá de depender de las relaciones que logremos establecer con nuestras hermanas, las repúblicas del sur. Para que lleguen a ser enteramente cordiales, no hay nada tan importante como que nuestros ciudadanos se familiaricen con la lengua castellana. Tan se dan cuenta de este hecho nuestros habitantes, que hay al presente más de 25,000 personas que estudian español en Los Angeles. A ellas les conviene leer todos los días esta columna, en la que encontrarán español correcto y enteramente moderno.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

El Nuevo Gobernador de Sinaloa Instalado

CULIACAN (Sinaloa, Méjico) Diciembre 30. — Mañana tomará posesión del gobierno del Estado de Sinaloa el nuevo funcionario, recientemente electo, Sr. Alejandro R. Vega, siendo el acto inaugural del nuevo jefe del Ejecutivo local uno de los más interesantes que han tenido lugar en la costa Occidental por muchos años. Muchas personas de nota asistirán a la ceremonia, contándose entre los presentes al general Alvaro Obregón, ex-presidente de Méjico. En la noche del día de la toma de posesión, se celebrará un suntuoso baile, al que se darán cita todas las familiar distinguidas de la localidad, habiendo la certidumbre de que la belleza femenina será reina suprema en esta fiesta.

La capital del Estado se ha venido preparando para celebrar este acto trascendental, y como a las fiestas inaugurales se unen las de Navidad y de año nuevo, resulta que todas las clases sociales han puesto algo de su parte para que la ciudad presente un aspecto inusitado de gala, viéndose por todas partes adornos e iluminaciones, descollando las banderas y estandartes con los colores nacionales de Méjico. Los hoteles están llenos de pasajeros que han llegado de todas partes del país para dar la enhorabuena al nuevo gobernante.

El nuevo gobernador, señor Vega, es el primer gobernante civil que ha tenido el Estado en muchos años. Sustituye en el puesto al general Angel Flores, quien se presentó candidato presidencial en las ultimas elecciones, habiendo resultado vencido. El general Flores goberó el Estado por el período anterior, que duró cuatro años. Ha dejado buena impresión de su gobierno, habiendo iniciado importantes mejoras y echado los cimientos para el progreso del Estado. Se cree que el nuevo gobernador seguirá el ejemplo progresista y patriótico de su antecesor, cuyo nombre quedará en lugar prominente en la historia del Estado de Sinaloa.

El gobernador Vega pertenece a una de las mas antiguas y distinguidas familias de Sinaloa. Sus antecesores han sido agricultores y hombres de negocios. El nuevo funcionario recibió una esmerada educación en Méjico y en los Estados Unidos. Habla el inglés con facilidad y como esta muy familiarizado con las costumbres y sistemas americanos, teniendo en grande estimación a los ciudadanos de los Estados Unidos, se tiene la seguridad de que su administración fomentará eficazmente el buen entendimiento entre los ciudadanos de ambos paises, en su esfera de acción.

El gobernador Vega tiene la intención de fomentar las inversiones de capital americano en negocios en el Estado que va a gobernar y se empeñara en encontrar los medios para lograr este propósito, que tan significativo será para el progreso del rico Estado de Sinaloa.

NOTAS LOCALES

Seis Victimas de los Calefactores de Gas

El monoxido de carbono que forma el gas de alumbrado al encenderse, ha causado ya seis victimas en estos últimos días. Los calefactores de gas, sin respiradores, son la causa de estas desgracias.

Seis personas, residentes en Hollywood, Glendale y Long Beach, fueron necontradas muertas, habiéndose comprobado que dejaron encendidos los calefactores de gas, sin tomar las precauciones necesarias de arreglar la ventilación debida en sus dormitorios, ya que ninguno de los calefactores que usaron tenía respiradero.

Con este motivo, las autoridades han tomado cartas en el asunto y tanto los funcionarios municipales como los del condado, han estado en conferencias para idear una reglamentación, a fin de que se eviten en lo futuro casos semejantes. Se espera que inmediatamente se dicten medidas para que las instalaciones de calefactores domésticos se hagan en las condiciones que establezcan las autoridades, que serán las de arreglar respiraderos para todos ellos, evitando así la acumulación del mortífero monóxido de carbono que ha hecho sus primeras víctimas en este invierno.

El Abogado Torchia Está Mejorado

El abogado Ernest M. Torchia, victima ultimamente de un atentado dinamitero, por medio de un pretendido obsequio de Navidad, que no era sino una bomba explosiva que estalló en sus manos al abrir el paquete en que se la enviaron, ha sido entrevistado en el Hospital de Glendale por un reportero de The Times y ha manifestado que tiene la convicción de que el remitente del explosivo no es otro que un sujeto a quien el referido abogado derrotó en un pleito judicial y que juró vengarse del abogado triunfante.

El Sr. Torchia esta mejorado de las heridas que sufrió, aun cuando tiene todavía una gran debilidad y sus médicos le prohiben que hable por mucho tiempo con sus visitantes, razón por la que la entrevista con nuestro representante no pudo prolongarse por más tiempo.

MAIL HEARINGS TO END TODAY

Plan is to Have Senate Get Increase Bill Monday

Cent Letter League Asks Cut in First-Class Rates

Postal Official Explains Care on Cost Report

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Protests from business, publishing and other national organizations against the proposed increases in postal rates were made before the joint Congressional subcommittee today as it practically concluded hearings on the administration bill providing for increased rates to meet the cost of proposed postal salary advancements.

Chairman Moses announced tonight the hearings would be finished tomorrow morning and that the Senate subcommittee would be asked immediately to consider the bill with a view to getting it before the full Postoffice Committee and reported to the Senate by Monday. At that time the Senate is scheduled to take up President Coolidge's veto of the postal pay bill.

FOR ONE-CENT LETTERS

While representatives of various organizations were declaring before the subcommittee today that the proposed increases threatened the future of their business, J. L. Suter, representing the National 1-Cent Letter League, urged the committee to consider a reduction in first-class mail rates.

Wallace O'Dell of the National Editorial Association, in a statement read by William L. Daley, informed the committee that an increase in second-class rates would imperil the existence of 12,000 weekly and small daily newspapers.

The American Farm Bureau Federation in a statement placed in the record by E. B. Reid, its Washington representative, protested vigorously against the proposed advance in parcel-post rates.

TIME ASKED

The increases in second-class rates would boost the postal bills of the National Geographic Society, the American Medical Association and the National Education Association by 445 per cent, Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the Geographic Society, declared in a statement read to the committee. He urged, however, that if the increases were approved, sufficient time be given for the magazines to rearrange their advertising contracts to help meet the added cost.

William R. Denny, executive assistant to the Postmaster-General, explained the care used in working out the cost ascertainment report on the cost of handling each class of mail to show that nothing but actual service given by the department was charged against any class of mail users in compilation of the report. Joseph Stewart, who was in charge of preparing the report, will appear before the subcommittee tomorrow in defense of the report.

LPH COMPANY TS NINE SHIPS

ing Board Sells Cargo Boats for $1,200,000

e and Hoyt Sailings to stralia Taken Over

Traders Guarantee Five-Year Service

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Sale cargo ships for approxi-$1,200,000 to the Pacific Steamship Corporation, organized in California, roved today by the Ship-ard. The company will the government service rated by Swayne & Hoyt Pacific Coast to Australia and New Zealand, and to the east coast of South America.

The sale was closed after a month of negotiation by Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, a veteran shipping man, on behalf of the new organization. The terms call for 25 per cent cash on delivery and the balance in ten equal installments.

Five of the vessels, of the 8800-ton type, to be selected by the purchaser, are involved in the sale of the South American trade route. Twelve sailings a year are guaranteed on this route.

In the Australia-New Zealand service ten yearly sailings are assured and the new company guaranteed to maintain both services for at least five years.

The purchase price of the South American craft was $17.50 a ton, while $12.50 a ton was fixed for the Australian vessels. A substantial reduction from basic prices was allowed because the purchaser agreed to maintain the trade routes for a five-year period.

Delivery of the first vessel on each line is to take place before March 31.

OIL SWINDLER'S FIGHT ON TODAY

Argument for New Ballard Trial Scheduled

Tales of Brutality Make Case Sensation

Former Angeleno is Held on Stock Sales

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—The argument for the motion for a new trial for Howard W. Ballard, convicted of an oil stock swindle, formerly of Los Angeles, will come before Judge Ward here today. The case has proven a sensation in regard to the testimony of inhuman brutality in swindling poor folk.

Ballard operated, it was testified, by using the name of the La-Fayette Oil and Gas Company. He was convicted on the 23rd inst., by a jury before Judge Ward on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The original charges included grand larceny and violation of the Corporate Securities Act.

The shocking nature of the testimony led William Haggerty, deputy District Attorney, trying the case, to employ opprobious terms to the defendant of a kind that, he said later, he never before had employed in trying a case of this kind.

SAVINGS TAKEN

The complaining witness was H. A. Johnson of Oakland, for years a deck hand on a ferryboat plying between San Francisco and Oakland. Ballard, he said, traveled in a costly automobile and had every evidence of being a prosperous business man of stability and integrity. He cultivated Johnson's acquaintance, Johnson said, and professed to have a concern about his welfare. Johnson is an elderly man, whose wife at the time of the transaction was 81 years of age. She recently died, grieving over the loss of their nest egg.

The testimony showed Ballard told Johnson and his wife:

"There is a stockholders' meeting today in the Lafayette Oil and Gas Company. You must give me $1000 immediately and I will guarantee that for every dollar you give me, you will have $5 to $6 within six months." He painted a verbal picture of the old ferryman living in luxury and his wife riding in a limousine.

PROFITS PROMISED

Johnson gave Ballard $1000, it was shown, for which he got a preorganization subscription in the Lafayette Oil and Gas Company. Ballard, it was shown, made several other calls on the Johnsons, asking for more money, assuring them huge profits were in sight, and each time they got the same types of agreements.

Ballard's only stock in trade, it was shown, was an oil lease to certain properties in Contra Costa county. The Bureau of Mines of California made an adverse report on this property, and it was shown at the trial that it had been operated at a loss theretofore.

Ballard, it transpired, had never put a single dollar in the property, but raised about $3000 alone from the witnesses that testified at the trial. The information had been filed a year and a half ago, but the fear that a conviction could not be obtained led to frequent postponements.

At various times, it was shown, Ballard used the names of the Contra Costa Oil Company, the California Oil and Gas Company and the Lessors Oil Company.

In addition to Johnson, two persons testified they had given Ballard money for this oil property, and the records of the State Corporation Department show that there were at least a half-dozen others. It was shown he generally approached persons advanced in years, who were for the most part unsophisticated in business affairs.

Walter Duane defended Ballard. Detectives Curtiss and Wiskotchill were the investigators assisting the District Attorney's office.

PARIS TORSO IDENTITY IS IN QUESTION

Belief That Bay City Man Was Victim Now Upset by Report of Return Here

[BY CARLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The French police authorities believed for a time today that they had identified the torso of a man found the 19th inst., wrapped in a copy of the Echo de L'Oeust, a San Francisco paper, as that of L. Pichon, a French war veteran, formerly employed in a San Francisco hotel. Further investigation this afternoon, however, led to the discovery, the Matin states, that Pichon had taken a third-class ticket on the steamer La Savoie, sailing recently for New York, and is believed to be in the United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—The presence of L. Pichon, victim of the Paris murder, in San Francisco at any time in the past could not be established today. Michel Weill, prominent merchant, said that a man of that name was employed as his valet previous to last August, and left in that month for Paris.

Adrien Esmiol, mentioned in the Paris dispatches as a friend of Pichon, is a drygoods merchant here. Esmiol is now touring Europe.

MEXICO EXTRADITES KIDNAPING COUPLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 30. Pedro Labansat and Ernesto Lopez, charged with kidnaping Julio Saldivar, young millionaire of the City of Mexico, were turned over to Mexican judicial police at the international bridge at Brownsville and taken to the City of Mexico for trial. This is the first extradition proceeding that has been carried through since the United States recognized the present regime in Mexico.

Lopez and Labansat are said to have seized the young millionaire as he was coming from the home of his sweetheart and held him prisoner in the wilds of mountain caverns near the City of Mexico. He escaped after several days of rough treatment, with scant food, and made his way back to the city. The two men were arrested here six months ago.

Bill Regulating Irrigated Lands Sale is Offered

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A bill to regulate the sale of government land in western irrigation projects was introduced today by Senator Kendrick, Wyoming.

The farms will be sold at not less than the appraised value. The purchasers will be required to pay in eighty-one equal semiannual installments and to live on the property at least eight months in a year. The applicants will be required to have at least one year's experience on a farm and possess farm equipment valued at $1500.

The Secretary of the Interior will be authorized to advance $3000 to farmers for improvements and purchase of live stock. Laborers also could be provided places to live with lesser outlay.

NEW BANK FOR VISALIA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Comptroller of the Currency has received an application to organize the new First National Bank of Visalia (Cal.) with a capital of $100,000. The correspondent is H. B. McClure of Visalia.

Good-Bye, Old Top!

It took Father Time a long while to decide that "the old buggy top" must go. But finally it has fallen in the path of his scythe. Which means:

No more clumsy side-curtains.

No more getting drenched while trying to put the right pieces in the wrong places.

No more "buttoned in" motorists sitting in damp gloom whenever the weather is off.

"Good-bye, old top" is a literal truth—and a happy farewell. * * * * * *

This change has come about with the advent of the Duplex Phaeton. A feature of the 1925 Studebaker line, it has brought a new joy to motoring.

With the Duplex, one has all the freedom of an open car one moment, and the next moment—if desired—all the cozy comfort of a sedan.

The change takes less than thirty seconds. It requires but an arm-motion on either side.

Christine of the Hungry Heart

by Kathleen Norris

THE STORY SO FAR:

After a few years of married life Christine Knight, young, beautiful and rich, realizes that she is desperately unhappy. However, because she does not believe in divorce, she decides to quietly live out her life with her adored little daughter, Betty Lou, and her overworked and neglectful husband, Stuart. It is also said that Alan Montcastle, who have recently met, find themselves so torn with each other, decide not to see each other again.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

Betty Lou was to have new photographs taken for "Gap's" Christmas gift. Gaps himself, the genial old colonel, was not supposed to know anything about it, but Gamma and Mummy and Betty Lou and Cordelia were all in the secret, and all went together, upon a certain bitter cold morning in early December, to the photograph gallery.

The sky was low and heavy, and there was no wind. There was snow heaped upon the edge of the sidewalk, and ice underfoot. Christine felt dazed and quiet, after a bad night, and the elder Mrs. Knight was rather silent, too. Stuart had not been at home at all since yesterday morning, and even his mother's tenderness was feeling the strain. This dear, good wife of his, expecting another baby, and this darling little girl—it was too bad of him to treat them so indifferently!

"Not that there is any real harm in Stuart," thought his mother. "There are certain things he never would do—I know that. But the gambling—and the drinking—! I suppose gambling isn't in itself wrong——"

Betty Lou was an enchanting model; everyone in the studio was captivated by her. But for that very reason the session was unexpectedly long and tiring; the photographer wanted her in every pose and frock, he begged for a new one of her beautiful mother: "New administration coming in, you know, and we shall have a gay winter!" And, of course, he pleaded for the usual "three generations."

The whistles were shrilling 1 o'clock and Cordelia, thinking of Betty Lou's inviolable routine and the baked potato getting soggy, and the creamed carrots drying fast at home, was somewhat snappy when at last they bundled down the stairs to the street and looked for Ryan and the car.

"Go very slowly, won't you, Ryan?" Christine said, getting in. "It's such a horribly skiddy day!"

"I've the chains on, ma'am," Ryan said, flirting with Betty Lou. He took them along Ninth street as if driving on glass. "Look out where you're going, young feller——!" Christine heard him mutter suddenly his eyes on the traffic ahead.

It all happened at once. There was a hideous sideways, and a grinding and splintering, and Betty Lou's shrill clamor, and Mrs. Knight's heavy scream. "Oh, my God—save us! Oh, my God, save us!"

Christine felt her whole body wrenched, and blackness danced in great blots before her eyes. She thought Stuart ghastly, and with blood running across his face, was staring at her, and that a woman in a blue hat was shrieking, at his shoulder. She was on her knees, pressed against some horribly unstable wall or floor that was slowly collapsing. She thought of her baby—"ah, my poor little baby!"—and then, as the black blots united, and she felt the darkness falling, and heard wood split and glass clatter again, her soul reached for the old, school-day prayer, "Oh, my God, I am most heartily sorry for ever having offended Thee——"

Then there was silence; long and deep, exquisitely creeping over the helplessness and the pain. Blackness. Blackness. Deeper and deeper blackness. The most horrible screams of all died away—that had been poor Christine Knight screaming——

A little red pin-point of agony began far, far away—she felt that she must keep it as far away as she could. The nearer it came, the more somebody seemed to be suffering—agonizing——

Hands were hauling gently upon some broken thing—a body. There was an effect of tender lifting—shoving——

Why—when she was not conscious of any emotion—was she screaming so? It was silly, but she could not stop.

"He ought to be hanged——!" It was a woman's whisper.

"Then hang him!" But Christie's mouth was thick, and the words were only a blur.

"I think she tried to speak——" said the whisper again.

Then a sort of flurry and confusion, Christine opened her aching eyes, and saw dark shapes against a square of clear, uncurtained window, and immediately sank into unconsciousness again.

This was later, for the window was dark, and there was a light in the room somewhere. Her head ached as if it had been split and her body was sore from head to foot. To open her eyes sent waves of nausea over her, and she closed them again.

Somebody was holding her wrist too tight. She felt an overwhelming desire to explain.

"Sorry—so much trouble——"

"Doctor, she is trying to speak!" said a low voice. Immediately a man's tones added, firmly and gently, "Don't make any effort. Keep perfectly still."

This was Christie Knight lying here, and this was a hospital, and these were doctors and nurses. But what had happened? Was she having her baby? Betty Lou——

"Betty Lou!" she said sharply.

"Perfectly safe. Not scratched!" said the man's voice.

"Thank God!" Christie whispered weakly. And she began to cry.

"Dr. Monteagle! She is conscious!" somebody murmured.

"Yes, well, then, we will not lose another instant!" said Alan's voice, unexpectedly close. "I want to talk to her."

He was kneeling beside her. He sounded infinitely cool and far and big.

"Chris, this is Alan," he said. "Can you hear me? You've had a bad accident. I've come down immediately to make you well. Don't worry about it don't even think any questions—just do as I tell you. Will you do what I ask you, Chris?"

"Maybe," she said, her lips trembling.

"We're going to take you up to the surgery, Chris, and make you all well. Will you remember that it's Alan who has charge of you—and Chris, will you try to get well—for my sake?"

"I can't," she said, still with unopened eyes. "You did make me take ether before," she said, "confused memories coming pitifully.

"That was yesterday; now we want you to be brave, just once more—just once!—and then it'll all be over, and you'll have nothing to do but get well!"

She lay silent; she felt the fingers of her right hand in his.

"I'll try, Alan."

The doctor instantly rose to his feet, and the head nurse, who saw him through tears, thought that she had not known that a living man could wear so ashen a face.

"Right away, then, Miss Glaspell!" he said, briefly and coldly.

BALLASTING OF DIRIGIBLE IS TRIED OUT

Los Angeles Makes Short Flight; Water-Recovery Defects Are Found

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LAKEHURST (N. J.) Dec. 30.—The dirigible Los Angeles made a successful local flight of three hours in order to test again the water-recovery system by which water ballast is provided to take the place of gasoline burned by the engines.

Without the additional ballast the ship will be difficult to bring to land unless expensive helium were valved into the air.

With Commander J. H. Klein, Jr., in charge the ship left the ground at 10:15 a.m. It circled over a wide area in this locality and got as far north as Asbury Park. The vessel maneuvered over Barnegat Bay and passed above Tom's River and other towns in this part of the State.

Difficulty was experienced in bringing the ship to earth and the ground crew did not get the ropes into their hands until the third attempt.

Officers on board said the trouble was occasioned by the fact that the air 1000 feet up was 14 deg. warmer than the temperature at ground level. The ship was in the hangar thirty-five minutes after it landed, ten minutes less than the previous record for dirigibles here.

The water-recovery apparatus functioned well, but some defects became apparent.

LONDON IS IN FLOOD GRIP; GALE-SWEPT

Thames Rise Alarms Folk of Valley; Channel Craft Periled; Wires Down

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—London was gripped in the worst combination of flood, gale and rain in many years today. The Thames continued to rise at an alarming rate, flooding wide areas throughout the valley. Lord Desborough, chairman of the Thames Conservancy Board, predicted that the flood will be worse tomorrow, with probable grave results.

A sixty-mile wind, which kept Londoners awake last night, lashed the Channel, buffeting steamers and boats dangerously. Oil boats were tied up, and twelve of fourteen telephone lines to Paris, besides hundreds in the London district, are not working. Torrential rains made the conditions worse among the marooned residents of the Thames Valley, whose homes were suddenly found in the middle of lakes. Many mail carriers carried on their routes in rowboats, while men, women and children used boats and rafts of all sorts for shopping for food and other necessities.

A strange paradox occurred in Woolwich, where ferry service was delayed for hours because there was not enough water, due to the extremely low tide caused by the terrific winds. All air services from Croyden to Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam and Cologne have been canceled. Railway services are delayed to the north and south.

WILL NOT CONTEST MISSOURI ELECTION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.—After several weeks of inquiry into reported vote frauds, Dr. A. W. Neison, defeated Democratic candidate for Governor, has announced, through Joshua Barbee, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, that there will be no contest of the election of Sam A. Baker.

"I have made a thorough inquiry in both St. Louis and Kansas City, where irregularities were reported to me," said Barbee, "and while I have discovered several technical violations of the law, I have not been able to obtain sufficient evidence to conclude that fraud was practiced to such an extent that a contest would be justified.

"HANGING AROUND" LITERAL WITH HIM

ROCHESTER (Minn.) Dec. 30. Some time ago a man known as Cornelius Neeley, who lived at a hotel, placed most of his baggage in storage in the hotel, saying he was going into the country "to hang around a while." Nothing was heard from him by his friends until word came from George H. Slocum, corner of Dodge county, at Mantorville, that Neeley had been found hanging in an old building near there.

Ten Experts to Report New Year's Day Football Games for "The Times"

Never before in the history of local newspapers has such an array of talent been assembled to cover from all angles the intersectional tanbark struggles between Stanford and Notre Dame and California and Pennsylvania. Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame squad, Glenn "Pop" Warner, mentor of the Stanford eleven. Walter Eckersall, former All-American quarterback and head-linesman of the Pasadena game and Eugene Nixon, coach of Pomona, Southern California conference champions, relate their versions of the Rose Bowl game. In addition to these celebrities Bill Henry, Paul Lowry, Charles West and Braven Dyer, Times staff sport experts, will report the Pasadena game minutely. Lou Young, Pennsylvania team mentor, has been specially engaged to graphically describe for The Times readers the Berkeley game and will be assisted by George Schaefer, sport writer of the Chicago Tribune. A corps of camera-men will be on the job at Pasadena to snap all of the feature plays for reproduction in The Times complete page of pictures of the New Year Day classic.

CARDS GAIN IN BETTING ODDS

Notre Dame Team Now Only 8-to-5 Favorite

Some Stanfordites Demand 2 to 1 on Irish

Eckersall Discusses Outlook for New Year's Day

BY WALTER ECKERSALL,
Former All-American Quarterback and official in the New Year's game at Pasadena

Since the arrival of Stanford a slight switch in the betting odds has taken place. Instead of Notre Dame ruling a 2-to-1 favorite and Stanford demanding 14 points in addition, the Irish eleven is now only 8-to-5 favorite. There is quite a lot of wagering at these prices, but the prevailing odds at game time are expected to be 2 to 1 on Rockne's eleven. In fact, many Stanford rooters demanded 2 to 1 today after the Notre Dame special from Chicago had arrived. Those who made the trip on this

TEAMS ARE COMPARED BY YOUNG

Penn Coach Says Eastern Elevens at Disadvantage Playing on Coast

BY LOUIS A. YOUNG
(Pennsylvania Football Coach)
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Any time that an eastern football team travels across the country to compete against a Pacific Coast team in a post-season game, it loses, to my way of thinking, just about one-fifth of its efficiency. I base this opinion on the following factors: Change of climate, lack of facilities for training en route and lack of interest shown by members of the team who are usually "fed up" on football after playing nine or ten games during the months of October and November. Of course, it might be said that the same holds good for the Pacific Coast season, but this much can be said: The Coast teams are usually on their own grounds with their own following, a fact which is bound to be a greater incentive to the whole team.

The above is not written in the spirit of an alibi, but I consider that we have somewhat of a hardship to overcome in meeting California day after tomorrow.

With regard to the system used by both teams, there is a

HE LEADS THE IRISH AGAINST STANFORD TOMORROW

Behold Harry Stuhldreher, All-American quarterback, Notre Dame's booter, field general and captain. He is said to be the cleverest thing on bow legs that ever pulled on a pair of cleated shoes. He arrived in Los Angeles this afternoon with Coach Rockne and the rest of the South Bend pig-skinners who will battle the Cards in the great East vs. West classic.

FOOTBALL SCOUTING HIT HARD

N.C.A.A. Rules Against Use of Photography by Schools to Gain Information

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Roundly scoring the use of any type of photography for football scouting, Prof. James P. Richardson of Dartmouth, introduced a resolution at the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association today that will go a long way toward ridding collegiate football of what he termed was the game's greatest menace.

As chairman of the committee to investigate the use of photographs in football scouting, Prof. Richardson presented facts which disclosed an intense feeling of antagonism, especially among the smaller colleges, against the use of the camera for scouting purposes, and the convention went on record as unanimously opposing the employment of such means of gaining information.

So convincing was the chairman's data and information that there was not one dissenting voice when the resolution to notify each college affiliated with the N.C.A.A. of the convention's action. Prof. Richardson disclosed the result of a personal canvas and a canvass by correspondence, and the reports showed that two institutions employ moving pictures, seven use still photographs, forty-two institutions are highly against the idea, six would use photographs for such a purpose if the practice became general, and there were many institutions that believed the N.C.A.A. committee was making a "mountain out of a mole hill."

The gathering marked the nineteenth annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and was held at the Hotel Astor, with a session at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and a short business meeting and dinner at 7 p.m.

Oregon Aggies in Casaba Win Over Grizzlies

After trailing 9 to 4 at half-time, Coach Bob Hager's Oregon Agriculture College quintet came to life in the second half and succeeded in shooting enough baskets to be on the long end of a 21-to-15 score in their game last night with Caddy Works' University of California Grizzlies. The game was played at the Manual Arts pavilion and witnessed by a packed house of more than 2000 fans.

The Grizzlies, although they had plenty of chances to score, were unable to cage the casaba when opportunity presented itself and missed enough shots to win several basketball games. While they were leading the Grizzlies seemed to play steady ball, but once the Aggies took the van in the second stanza, the home guards apparently went to pieces.

Center Riddings of the Aggies was the high point man, counting

FANS OUTSIDE LOCKED GATES

Stanford Footballers Work Out in Secret

Coach Warner's Charges Run Into Chilly Clime

Palo Altans Step Through Snappy Grid Drill

BY PAUL LOWRY

As far as a palpitating public was concerned the second day's workout of the Stanford red shirts in the balmy Southland, which wasn't balming yesterday, was a total loss. Pop Warner locked the gates of the Rose Bowl and excluded all the inquisitive except bona fide Cardinal alumni who had a copy of their pedigrees with them.

Incidentally, Pop delayed the hour of the Cards' exercises and it was a cold, shivery gang that huddled outside the barbed-wire stockade waiting for the Stanford whales to appear. Such celebrities as Mickey McClure, Phil Wilson and even Jim Reynolds had to wait for Pop and his assistants to appear and put their stamp of approval on their entry into the sacred practice pen of the Cardinals.

And what was most mortifying was the blithe entrance of Les Henry, a California alumnus, who dashed through the guarded gate without even stopping for breath. Les got away with what would have been murder for anybody else for the simple reason that he happens to be the gent who guides the destinies of the Tournament of Roses football committee.

CHILLY PRACTICE

Since Stanford's arrival in the south the weather has had as many variations as Pop Warner has gray hairs, yesterday being no exception. Whereas, the Cards oozed perspiration in bucketfuls on Monday, they had a tough time getting up a good sweat yesterday. Pop put them through a snappy signal drill and then herded them down into one corner of the field, where

PENN GRIDS SHAKE OFF TRAIN LEGS

Quaker Gang, 125 Strong, Arrive in Berkeley for Date With Bruins

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BERKELEY, Dec. 30.—An invading party of some 125, consisting of the Pennsylvania varsity football squad, its coaches and trainers, the campus band and a number of fervid rooters, arrived here today on the Overland Limited and made the final preparations for battle with the University of California New Year's Day. More than 500 California students met the Quakers and cheered them as worthy foes. The Pennsylvania band led the march to a hotel.

NOTRE DAME PLAYERS WEIGH IN FOR INNOCENT BYSTANDER

BY BILL HENRY
"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 30.—Having read in the papers that Pop Warner was inclined to be a little skeptical of the weight of the various Notre Dame stars, Coach Knute Rockne invited Coach McKale and the writer to weigh the boys in before today's final practice. Here is the way they joggled the bar on the Fairbanks scales in the University of Arizona training quarters this afternoon right after lunch and just before their final workout: Right End Collins, 179; Right Tackle Bach, 184; Right Guard Weibel, 170; Center Walsh, 185; Left Guard Kiser, 169; Left Tackle Miller, 182; Left End Hunsinger, 170; Quarterback Stuhldreher, 156; Left Half Crowley, 165; Right Half Miller, 161; Fullback Layden, 164.

The team is in great spirits after the four days of work at Tucson and has every expectation of being able to do its stuff in its accustomed scientific manner. The boys haven't a word to say about themselves, in fact, are the most modest outfit of stars it has ever been our pleasure to run across. The only question they ask is regarding the effect of the climate and they figure that if they aren't hit by it they will win.

CARDINALS READY FOR BIG GAME

Warner Says Stanford in Best Condition of Year Right at Present

BY GLENN S. WARNER
Stanford Football Coach
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Stanford's players, after two days of practice here, are, generally, in better physical condition than they were at any time during the regular season. The hold-over injuries have all had a chance to heal and there will be few bruises, bumps and sprains in evidence. Stanford therefore, will be able to throw its full playing strength into the game New Year's Day with Notre Dame. It may be that some of the boys will have to be replaced, especially if the former sore spots are rebuilt, but that is a part of the luck of football.

I am a little undecided yet about the wisdom of our having come here so much in advance of the game.

The cancellation of the Southern California game kept our Stanford alumni who live in this vicinity from their chance of seeing the team. The opportunity to meet Notre Dame, represent the Pacific Coast and at the same time favor our alumni therefore was too good to be overlooked.

At first thought I favored remaining at Palo Alto until the day before the game, as practice could be carried on there under more favorable circumstances. But it was the vacation period, and it was asking a lot of our boys to give up their chance to go home for at least a part of that time. So many of the players live in this vicinity that I sort of compromised, by bringing them down far enough in advance of the game so that they could spend their Sunday at home. I still feel we could have accomplished more at Palo Alto. Here the social activities interfere to a certain extent. However, our

"Times" Staff Correspondent
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 30.—Crammed to the eyeballs with enthusiasm, football knowledge and Arizona good, Knute Rockne's galloping gridiron troupe from Notre Dame pulled out of here late this afternoon for Pasadena. Four days of good practice and lots of rest and sleep have put the team, or rather, the teams, in such shape that even Rockne himself is only half-heartedly telling everybody what bum shape they're in. They are as full of zip and ginger as a lot of young colts and certainly are rarin' to go.

The last workout, which was originally scheduled to be just a limbering-up formality, developed into an hour and a half of lively work, including dummy scrimmage and some genuine tackling and blocking. And those 170-pound linesmen certainly do tackle. The squad may not have had enough hard scrimmage to harden it up to the point where the players would laugh off a collision with a switch engine, but it looks to be in better shape than either Syracuse or Missouri.

Rockne himself spent a large part of the morning opening and

BRITISHERS IN BRILLIANT WIN

California Players Defeated by 9 and 8

Gallery Treated to Amazing Golf Exhibition

English Face Dr. Hunter and Armstrong Today

BY CHARLES WEST

Giving the most astonishing exhibition of golf shots seen in Southern California, in the memory of the oldest inhabitants, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell found themselves yesterday for the first time since they arrived in our occasionally sunny Southland, and simply overwhelmed Macdonald Smith and Hutt Martin in a 36-hole match at the Brentwood Country Club, 9 and 8.

Thirteen birdies and an eagle were recorded by the brilliant Britishers, who had a best ball of 63 for the morning round, and went out in 32 in the afternoon, the match ending on the twenty-eighth hole, which was halved in birdies.

DUNCAN STARS

Duncan was the outstanding individual of the foursome, his card reading 65 for the first eighteen, while he had a 32 for the first nine in the afternoon. Mitchell wasn't far behind, as he scored 33-36-69 in the morning. Although Smith and Martin had a best ball of 70 for the morning half of the match, they were eight down at the turn, and it was only a question of time before he affair finished.

It was a match in which 320-yard drives, bee-line iron shots, approaches which split the pins, and thirty-foot putts figured prominently, not only the winners, but Mac Smith and Hutt Martin as well playing spectacular golf. Duncan's irons featured his game, while Mitchell's tee shots gained more distance than they have in previous exhibitions, and his putting was uncanny.

Today the English professional combination, once more firmly established as golfing immortals after slipping in the estimation of the public following their two defeats over the week-end, will appear in a private exhibition at the Midwick Country Club. In the morning they will play Chick Fraser, Midwick pro, and his assistant, Jimmy Duncan, over eighteen holes. In the afternoon the Southern California amateur champion, Dr. Paul Hunter of Annandale, and E. S. "Scotty" Armstrong, who with Norman Macbeth subdued the British professionals Saturday at Wilshire, will test the golf of Duncan and Mitchell. Both combinations should give the famous British team some hot competition. The match will be closed to the public, only members of Annandale and Midwick and their guests being invited.

SENSATIONAL

The match at Brentwood yesterday started, continued and finished amid a wild series of sensational shots which kept a gallery of 500 spectators open-mouthed and gasping for the duration of the match. Par golf didn't have a chance, and many a hole was divided in figures which bettered perfection. Smith and Martin played golf yesterday which would have defeated almost any team in the country, but Duncan and Mitchell hit a streak and couldn't be headed.

On the first hole Mitchell dropped an eleven-foot putt for a birdie and a win. He sank a thirty-footer on the second green, and the Englishmen had a lead of two holes. The next four holes were halved, the long sixth in birdies, and then Duncan made three threes in a row, a birdie on the tough seventh, a par and an eagle on the ninth, when his approach halted ten feet from the cup, which put the Britishers four up at the turn.

Duncan again laid an iron up on the pin on the eleventh for a birdie win, and padded this lead with a par on the thirteenth. Mitchell drove 320 yards on the long fourteenth, and was fifty yards past the pin with a mashie iron. Duncan was on with a spoon and won the hole with a birdie. Mitchell's three on the fifteenth was good for another win, and although Mac Smith laid his iron shot from the rough against the pin for a birdie win on the sixteenth, Duncan won the seventeenth with a birdie, and after halving the par-four eighteenth in threes, the invaders had a lead of eight holes at luncheon time.

Mac Smith won the second and last hole he and Martin took during the match on the first hole of the afternoon round, dropping a fifteen-footer for a birdie three. A tremendous drive, which halted only fifteen yards from the green on the fourth hole, paved the way for a birdie three by Mitchell, which won back the eight-hole advantage. Duncan's approach hit the pin on the sixth, and he got his birdie, but Hutt Martin saved the hole with a beautiful twenty-five-foot putt. Duncan again lay close to the pin on the seventh and got his second birdie of the match on this hole for a win, which put the Britons 9 up. A par and two birdies on the next three holes by each team ended the fireworks, and the Southern California open champion and the California open champion had been submerged.

IRISH ROOTERS ARRIVE

Notre Dame Men in Town for Big New Year's Battle With Stanford at Rose Bowl

Preceding the Four Horsemen and shock troops of Notre Dame University by exactly twelve hours, more than 150 Notre Dame rooters, students and alumni, arrived in Los Angeles on the Golden State Limited at the Southern Pacific station at 7:30 o'clock last night, and four hundred knights from Hollywood and Los Angeles.

The group was led by Ed Gould of the Chicago Alumni Association and Joe Sutliffe, student manager. They were taken immediately to the Los Angeles Council of the Knights of Columbus Hall, 612 South Flower street, where a rally was held.

Joseph Scott, former K. of C. State leader, gave the address of the evening. Former Notre Dame athletes were presented to the audience. Plans for a rooting section were made and the Irish yell rehearsed.

After meeting Coach Knute Rockne and his men this morning at 7:30, the Irish roosters will tour the city and probably take a trip to Catalina Island.

Among the party that landed last night, were John Hanousek and William McMullen, fathers of the two men who will play at the Rose Bowl against Stanford tomorrow.

Emmett Burke, star yell-leader, immediately warmed up with a big "U.N.D." from the top of a baggage car while several hundred Angelenos looked on.

At the Knights of Columbus Hall, the eastern rooters were officially welcomed by D. O. B. Ward, president of the Los Angeles Council.

RAINBOW CLUB READY FOR TROUT SEASON

Word was received yesterday from Leigh Garnsey, manager of the Rainbow Angling Club, saying that the shipment of Golden Brown trout eggs, from the [illegible] have arrived. The eggs are unusually large, in fact almost as large as salmon eggs.

New members continue to turn out cards in the club. The season is expected to be a banner year at Rainbow with the improvements under way and many members being enrolled.

MIDWICK LEAD CUT DOWN

Los Angeles Country Club's Fair Golfers Gain by Blanking California Representatives

The Los Angeles Country Club's feminine representatives in the interclub golf competition climbed a half-point nearer the leading Midwick Country Club team yesterday by overwhelming California Country Club players, 9 to 0, at California, while Midwick was taking 8½ points from San Gabriel.

San Gabriel's lone fraction of a point came by virtue of the strong finish of Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Sheppard, who won the last nine holes from Miss Mildred Landreth and Mrs. Guy Cochran. Miss Dorothy B. Hill and Miss Margaret Cameron downed Mrs. J. Clark, who played alone, 3 points, while Miss E. Bush and Mrs. McWilliams also won their match.

At California Mrs. Weber and Mrs. Midgley, Los Angeles ranking combination, won from Mrs. Noon and Mrs. Green, 3 points. Mrs. H. D. Hammond and Mrs. J. Worley, Jr., defeated Mrs. Lifur and Mrs. Nelson, and Mrs. C. K. Moore and Mrs. H. Voorhees defeated Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Converse.

Brentwood won from Hollywood, 5 to 4, in a close match at Hollywood, which saw the defeat of Brentwood's famous combination of Miss Mary Browne and Mrs. C. P. Thomas, at the hands of Miss Ruth Killian and Miss Ann Webster, who won, 2 1-2 to 1-2. Mrs. J. B. Baer and Miss Maude Kegley of Brentwood won from Mrs. E. F. Stanton and Mrs. A. E. Trabue of Hollywood, 3 points, while Mrs. W. P. Lohman and Mrs. A. C. Lillie tied with Mrs. Dudley and Miss Hebbard, each team winning 1 1-2 points.

Flintridge and Hillcrest put on an interesting battle on the latter's links, Flintridge winning, 5½ to 3½.

Mrs. Grossman, who played alone, won ½ point from Mrs. E. S. Hardin and Mrs. W. T. Bishop, who scored 2½. Mrs. Hunter Robbins and Mrs. Witmer of Flintridge lost to Miss Marion Adler and Mrs. Frankel of Hillcrest, 3 points, while Miss Julia Lockwood and Mrs. A. W. Maine won the day for Flintridge with a 3-to-0 victory over Mrs. Saenger and Mrs. J. Grossman.

At Annandale the home team won a hard-fought match from Wilshire, 5 points to 4, in spite of the fact that Miss Kathleen Wright, their star player, was unable to compete. Mrs. Glen Duncan and Mrs. C. H. Belden won the bulk of Wilshire's points with a 2½-to-½ victory over Mrs. Overbury and Mrs. Westerbrook.

ROCKNE TROUPE IS IN TOP FORM

reading his mail. In this particular he makes the average movie star look as popular as a guy with smallpox. He received somewhere in the neighborhood of 100 letters this morning from such distinguished citizens as Ring Lardner down to the plain, simple nuts who wrote to ask him if he thought he was going to win.

NOT BOTHERED

An excited local journalist rushed in with some kind of a wire story to the effect that Stanford's team had been assigned the job of "getting" the Four Horsemen. He wanted Rockne to make some kind of a statement. Rockne couldn't be bothered. He didn't think anybody had made such a statement and didn't care if they had.

As to his plans for the game Rockne hasn't a word to say. He may start any one of the three teams he has brought along with him. They are used as units. He doesn't mix up the players in any way, but yanks a whole team at a time. The teams are known, respectively, as Walsh's team, Maxwell's team and Edwards's team, first, second and third. Walsh and Maxwell are both centers and Edwards is a quarterback. All three teams have started games for Notre Dame this year and all will play Thursday.

Rockne was right after the players in today's workout. When a player would make a particularly vicious tackle he'd say, "That's the boy. Let's see you tackle 'em like that Thursday." He gave a little work against Stanford formations—not much, got off a few punts and went through the customary calisthenics.

Rockne doesn't say much about it, but he is particularly glad to see Layden, his fullback, in shape again. Layden was injured playing against Northwestern and this is his first game since then. He seems to be in splendid shape now and was punting wicked spirals today. Yesterday he booted some lengthy place kicks.

When the team arrives in Los Angeles tomorrow it will have its cars transferred to the Pacific Electric and whisked over to the Maryland in a hurry. The train is due in at 7:30 and the boys will not get their breakfast until they reach Pasadena. They will have a very short workout in the afternoon just to stretch their legs.

The Notre Dame party, which pulled out of here at 5 o'clock tonight on three special cars, consisted of nearly sixty people. Besides the squad of some thirty-three players, there were Coaches Knute Rockne, Tom Lieb and Capt. Edwards, accompanied by his two small sons, and Student Manager Sutliffe. Father O'Hara, Notre Dame chaplain, is also along.

Not so closely connected with the team are Coach Slip Madigan of St. Mary's, "Corky" Courtright of Colorado School of Mines, and formerly of Nevada; Broderick of Harverill prep in Massachusetts; J. F. McKale of Arizona; Graduate Manager A. L. Slonaker of Arizona, former star quarterback, and the innocent bystander himself.

Angus McDonald, comptroller and vice-president of the Southern Pacific, and a trustee of Notre Dame, has a party on his private car. The whole show is being managed by C. E. Darkus, traveling representative of the Southern Pacific, who is busier than the celebrated one-armed paperhanger with the seven-year itch, looking after everybody's welfare.

YOUNG DRAWS COMPARISON

marked similarity in both offense and defense. Andy Smith being an old All-American fullback at Penn in 1904 and 1905, and afterward a coach at Penn while I played on the team, would naturally result in a similarity of systems.

These systems embrace the kicking game, low charging defense and offense with an equal mixture of strong running plays and forward passes. The end play which is very important in the success of any team is the same with both teams. To my way of thinking the game should be a close one and due to the style of end play, there should be a low score. I might say at the time that no team during the past football season crashed over our goal line on a running offensive strength. The two touchdowns that were made against us were made by the run-back of a kick-off in the Columbia game, and a thirty-five-yard forward pass in the Swarthmore game.

California, in its splendid record of the past and also of this season, was notable for the small number of points scored by opposing teams. Their greatest weakness during the past year was their defense against worward passes which cheated them of a clear title to the Pacific Coast Conference championship.

If California plays the tackling game, we will be well equipped to meet them. Mugger McGraw is our safety man. McGraw has the unique record of only dropping one punt in his three years of varsity football. McGraw, like Dixon, is a triple-threat man; kicks, passes and runs the ball. He also is an inspiring leader, always cool under fire. In Douglas, Penn has the open-field runner, the type of Imlay. Douglas is a Washington State boy, and made two of the touchdowns against Cornell.

Wives Watch Secret Work Out of Cards

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Coach Glenn S. Warner conducted secret practice for the Cardinals at the Rose Bowl this afternoon, only two "civilians" being able to satisfy requirements for admission to the stadium. They were Mrs. Fred Swan, and Mrs. Murray Cuddeback.

Swan and Cuddeback, guard and halfback, respectively, are said to have done unusually fine work.

Jim Kelly, left halfback, who started against California, worked for a time today at the position generally believed to be Ed Walker's, and it may be that Warner plans on using Kelly.

Cliff Hey, first substitute for Ernie Nevers, did not appear at practice. Side pains at first believed to be appendicitis were diagnosed as less serious, however, and physicians state that Hey will be ready to play Thursday.

CARDINALS SET FOR GRID GAME

boys are conscientious and reasonable. They are on their honor, and I am sure they have done what is fit and proper. We never have had any hard and fast rules about hours and the like on this team anyhow.

Our practice Monday was taken at a time corresponding to the hour of the game. We found that in the Rose Bowl it was much hotter than outside and the players were affected to such an extent that today and tomorrow we scheduled practice for a later hour.

The mental attitude of the team is just about right for this game.

The boys realize that it is something of an honor to be asked to represent the Pacific Coast in a game against a team that has come to be considered the finest in the United States.

The players are going in it for all they are worth, just as they have gone into every game this season.

Reverting to the weather question, which seems to be one of the chief topics when the game is under discussion, it is my opinion that the effect of the climate on the players, as well as the effect of the long journey here, is being greatly overplayed in the papers.

I am not unacquainted with the conditions which obtain in this. I brought the Carlisle Indians to the Coast in 1899 and again in 1903. In the latter year they played both in Northern and Southern California. I brought Pittsburg out here in 1922. I failed to observe any noticeable let-up in the playing of these eastern teams when they went on the field in California.

It is reasonable to suppose that a football team, if it has the stuff, can show it, whether the game is on the Atlantic or Pacific Coast or in the Middle West.

Strictly speaking, Stanford is as much a stranger to conditions here as Notre Dame is, if one wants to be exact about it.

We are coming down from the north to play on what amounts to neutral ground. I have pointed out already that this venture has not been without its handicaps, yet no notice appears to have been taken of this phase of the situation.

As a matter of fact, Stanford in coming here has taken aboard just as much of an assignment as Notre Dame has, and the handicaps each must face about equalize themselves.

The victories scored by Southern California over Syracuse and Missouri have had a helpful effect on the mental attitude of our players. Those splendid wins have shown that the teams of the East and Middle West are not invincible, that they are football teams, just the same as those out here, and liable to the same fortunes, good or bad, that our Pacific Coast teams are.

Purses Nabbed by Long Shots at Tia Juana

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 30.—Long-priced horses took seven of the eight races on today's card at Tia Juana, Little Beach at 60.70 to 1, topping the list. This long shot came over largely because of trouble experienced by other horses in the race, the sixth, three of the main contenders experiencing interference which eliminated them. Little Beach romped from fifth to first position and had better than a length margin over Bodyguard which placed.

Jockey Kiniry, aboard John S. Reardon, which was third, protested that he was fouled by Jockey Fredericks, astride Little Beach, but the claim was disallowed by the stewards. However, Fredericks was suspended for general incompetency.

Sly Fox, in the first race, started the long-shot list by galloping in ahead of Little Less, another outsider. Sequan, at about 40 to 1, chalked up a victory in the fifth with Not Enough second and the favorite, Publisher, third.

Speedball, in the seventh, was the only favorite to come through. Summaries:

First race, five furlongs: Sly Fox (Baker,) won; Little Less (Edwards,) second; Luck Ledi (O'Donnell,) third. Time: 1:02 2-5.

Second race, five furlongs: Kirkwood (Barnes,) won; Scamper (Cowan,) second; Norford Honey (Fredericks,) third. Time: 1:02.

Third race, mile and 70 yards: Will Jack (Barnes,) won; Pembroke (Fisher,) second; Bantan (McHugh,) third. Time: 1:48 4-5.

Fourth race, mile and 70 yards: Zinz (Edwards,) won; Freddie Fear (Fredericks,) second; Donatello (Pendergrass,) third. Time: 1:49.

Fifth race, five and one-half furlongs: Segnam (Edwards,) won; Not Enough (Gormley,) second; Publisher (Barnes,) third. Time: 1:08.

Sixth race, six furlongs: Little Beach (Fredericks,) won; Bodyguard (Taplin,) second; John S. Reardon (Kinary,) third. Time: 1:15.

Seventh race, mile and 70 yards: Speedball (Roberts,) won; Sister Josella (McHugh,) second; Halo (Creery,) third. Time: 1:47.

Eighth race, four and one-half furlongs: Star of Eve (McHugh,) won; Grayson (Corbett,) second; Al Hotfoot (Lee,) third. Time: :55 2-5.

Business Manager Oscar Reichow announced yesterday that the Angels had signed up two young right hand hurlers to report to the Los Angeles club during spring training. H. A. Sanders, who pastimed with the Mexia club in the West Texas League last season, and C. W. Johnson, a youngster recently arrived here from Denver who has been setting the local semipro circles afire while hurling for the Blue Diamonds, are the two embryo mound stars picked up.

However, according to Harry Nelson, Johnson will not be able to play for the Seraphs because he has previously signed a contract to play for Seattle next season. Johnson can't play for both teams, so it will probably have to be threshed out at the Coast League meeting, January 12, which club is to get his services.

Providing Johnson joins the Angels, Marty Krug has eight hurlers signed for the 1925 season. The others are George Payne, Doc Crandall, Elmer Myers, Tom Hughes, Buck Ramsey, William Gould and Sanders and Johnson.

Gould is also a young right-hander. He comes from the University of California and was given a tryout by the Seraphs last summer. Gould made such a good impression on Skipper Krug that he was promptly signed to do his future hurling for the Seraphs.

CARDS GAIN IN BETTING ODDS

train have plenty of money given them by Notre Dame enthusiasts back home to wager on the result.

During its stay on the Coast Notre Dame will be entertained royally. Knights of Columbus are taking a keen interest in the team and so are other organizations in the Coast cities. In fact, Rockne must take his squad to San Francisco to be entertained and he may also have to take a rattler for San Diego. Notre Dame is extremely popular out here and its supporters hope the team will play one of its typically eastern struggles.

FACE SPLENDID TEAM

Although the Hoosiers met some good teams in the East during the regular playing season, they will face a splendid eleven on the first day of the new year. Stanford is big, fairly fast and well fortified in all departments of play. The Cardinal players are not afraid of Notre Dame. They firmly believe they are just as good a ball club as Rockne's team and, with an even share of the breaks, expect to win.

There is one important department of offensive play which is going to be a mighty important factor in this battle and that is punting. Layden of Notre Dame will meet his equal in Cuddeback, the Stanford booter, who got away some beautiful punts in yesterday's practice. The Cardinal punter gets his attempts away quickly and they are high. He works with center while practicing and has his timing down perfectly.

In addition to punting, Cuddeback is an accurate place-kicker. With Solomon, the quarterback, holding the ball after receiving passes from Baker, the center, Cuddy drove the ball between the posts without scarcely a miss in yesterday's practice. He will be dangerous at all times inside the 40-yard line and the result may be decided by one of his boots.

RAIN PREDICTED

To offset Cuddeback's place-kicking, Notre Dame will have Harry Stuehldreher to drop-kick. Jimmy Crowley and Elmer Layden are also accomplished field-goal kickers, and it is a certainty the kickers of both teams will not overlook any chances to score from the field when they are within kicking range.

Rain is predicted for the next few days and is expected to fall at any time today. The field, however, will drain nicely, according to Les Henry, chairman of the Tournament of Roses football committee, so that neither eleven will be placed at a serious disadvantage. Hotels in Pasadena are filled and the same is true of most of the hostelries in Los Angeles. Special trains are arriving from all sections of the country with persons who will take in the game and Roses Carnival in the Crown City. All buildings have been decorated with colors of the two universities and this little city will hum with excitement until the night of the struggle.

SWEDES WILL ERECT ATHLETIC BUILDING

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 30.—Another result of the great wave of interest in Swedish athletics is the decision to construct a huge sporting palace at the Saint Erik bridge in the heart of Stockholm, to be opened for use in 1926. The building will be one of the largest and best equipped of its kind in Europe. It will contain facilities for all sorts of indoor sports and for many games usually played out-of-doors such as tennis.

FUENTE, SMITH FIGHT IN MEXICO TOMORROW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Tony Fuente, the Mexican heavyweight whose quick knockout over Fred Fulton stirred up a boxing scandal in Los Angeles, will make his next start in the city of Mexico on New Year's Day. Fuente's opponent will be Homer Smith, a bulky heavyweight of Kalamazoo, Mich. The contest is scheduled for ten rounds. Smith two years ago gained a reputation by sticking ten rounds with Luis Firpo at Omaha, when Firpo was supposed to be good.

SHIPPING HUMS AT LOCAL PORT

Business for Day is Among Best of Year

Forty-five Vessels Loading and Discharging

Commission Orders Rush Job of Dredging

With the arrival yesterday of eight big foreign freighters with huge cargoes, eight American freighters and passenger carriers in port, twenty lumber carriers discharging $0,000,000 board feet of lumber, nine tankers loading 1,000,000 barrels of oil and arrival of four coastwise liners, Los Angeles Harbor reached one of the high marks of 1924 yesterday.

The foreign vessels were the Norwegian motorships Beulah and Borgaa from Scandinavia; the departing German steamer Hessen, and the arriving German motorship Osiris; the Japanese steamer Mayebashi Maru, en route from New York to the Orient; the British steamers Canadian Coaster and City of Vancouver, and the French freighter Ontario from Bordeaux.

SEEN AS SIGNIFICANT

With the exception of two, each vessel is discharging several thousand tons each at the harbor, and taking on cargoes which indicate sudden huge growth in water shipments in and out of this port.

Among the large American ships in port are the Mystic, Eagle, Silvermont, Annette Rolph, Diana, Dollman, President Hayes, Suralico and the City of Los Angeles. The Diana Dollar has more than 3,000,000 feet of lumber, bound for New York.

DREDGING ORDERED

A rush dredging job was ordered by the Harbor Commission yesterday at Berth 232 B, where the Julia Luckenbach grounded a few days ago, while loaded and drawing thirty-one feet, two inches. Capt. S. S. Sandberg, traffic manager, said the terminal was useless until corrected, and a repetition of such incident would serve to give the port no "black eye." Luckenbach freighters, loaded, dock at the berth both eastbound and westbound constantly. Capt. Sandberg also called the board's attention to benches in the outer harbor fairway, which made the port's boast of a thirty-foot channel untrue, and the board acted to apprise the government now dredging nearby of the menace to deep-water shipping.

CARGO OF PEANUTS DISCHARGED AT HARBOR

Tons of food for baseball fans and workers arrived yesterday when the United American Line steamer Mystic arrived from New York and Savannah with a large cargo of peanuts. The Cosmos Line motorship Osiris, also operated by the same line, put into port with 4000 tons of European merchandise for local discharge.

Word was received yesterday that the Shipping Board has approved the sale to Mayor Rolph's San Francisco Navy Yards of 15 ships, all of which it is believed these include ships now operating to this port by Swayne & Hoyt and Struthers & Barry between Pacific ports and Australia and South America. While no statement was obtainable, it is understood the vessels may be operated on the same runs by the new private owners.

The Harbor Department had a cash balance on hand November 30 of $6,764,277.15, according to a report to the harbor commission yesterday by Burt Edwards, controller. Gross revenue for November were $134,821; operating and maintenance expenses, exclusive of depreciation, were $30,636.03, and property additions for the month $462,850.27.

The position of assistant harbor engineer was created by the Harbor Commission yesterday, to carry a salary of $6000. It was not indicated whether the holder of the future status of Acting Harbor Engineer Ludlow, whose appointment terminates January 1, 1925, or at the pleasure of Chief Engineer J. E. Meiss, Capt. Danskanson, or George Nicholson, who is expected from Seattle today and will assume his duties tomorrow.

The steamer Dakotan of the American-Hawaiian Line from the east coast is due today with nine huge turbines lashed to her deck. They are consigned to the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company at Seal Beach, the largest turbines weighing fifty-one tons. Heaviest equipment in the harbor will be required in unloading them.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—The resignation of Alfred F. Zipf as Pacific Coast manager of the Williams Steamship Lines was announced here today. It will become effective next week. F. C. Bennett, now manager of the Los Angeles office, will assume the duties of Pacific Coast manager, it was said. Zipf has made no plans as to his future, except to say that he probably would not leave the shipping business.

Consolidation of the McCormick, McPherson and Lapham Steamship Company with the shipping and commission firm, Williams-Dimond Company, was announced today by Harry Poett, president of the latter concern. The firm are agents here for various foreign steamship companies. Under the new arrangement the Williams-Dimond Company will absorb the business of the McCormick firm both in San Francisco and Los Angeles. At the latter city, however, operations will be continued under the name of McCormick & McPherson, it was stated. Ernest L. McCormick, head of the company which bears his name, will become a partner in the Williams company.

SEATTLE, Dec. 30.—In anticipation of a record year during 1925 in passenger and freight business, a heavy program of ship repairs and overhauling is to be started immediately by the Pacific Steamship Company, R. F. Alexander, president, announced today.

"The entire business outlook for Seattle spells prosperity," said Mr. Alexander. "The coming year will break all previous records for travel through the Seattle gateway to the Orient and Alaska. We did not handle the volume of business during 1924 anticipated, although the number of passengers carried and tonnage handled by our company exceeded the figures of 1923.

"In 1923 there will be twenty-five conventions in Seattle. This means that thousands are to come to the Pacific Northwest and many of them will arrive here by water to or from Pacific ports.

"Arrangements have been made with the railroads to enable tourists to visit the Pacific Northwest at the same rates as formerly enlisted when going directly by rail from eastern points to San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. The arrangements will enable eastern tourists to travel to California from Puget Sound without any extra expense.

"A heavy program of repairs and overhauling of the company's ships has been planned and work is to start at once."

The steamship Admiral Rodgers of the Pacific Steamship Company arrived today from South Atlantic ports with cargo, passengers and a large cargo consisting of canned salmon and frozen and fresh fish.

The steamship Admiral Dewey, operated by the same company, arrived from San Francisco and Los Angeles with a large cargo and sixty-one passengers.

Two freighters of an idle fleet of war-time vessels in Lake Union here, the steel steamships Jeptha and Depere, have been sold by the United States Shipping Board to the Porto Rican-American Line of Baltimore, it was announced today.

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 30.—Charter of the Norwegian steamer Dagfred and the Japanese steamer Kamo Maru on a long-time basis for the C. K. West Company was made known here today following the return of C. K. West, head of the company, from New York. Both of the vessels will load ore and lumber for United Kingdom and continental ports, while the other will take a cargo of lumber to Mediterranean ports. The C. K. West Company will have the Katsura Maru here for early January loading; the Hanna Nielsen for late January or early February loading and the Kurohime Maru for February, and the Dagfred for late January or early February loading.

YEAR ENDS WITH STOCKS SOARING

Railroad Shares Leaders in Phenomenal Advance

Defeat of Radical Bloc at Polls Releases Funds

Professional Traders Caught Unawares by Gains

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—A post-election boom of unprecedented proportions carried stock prices to the highest levels in years in the closing weeks of the year.

Railroad shares were foremost in the advance, many of them touching the highest prices ever recorded. Not since the early part of the present century, when Harriman and Gould struggled for the control of the leading western transportation systems of the country, has Wall street witnessed a railroad market of such breadth and volume as took place in the last two months of the year.

An enormous investment demand, apparently pent up for years through fear of adverse legislation, broke forth like a flood in the few weeks following election, when it became apparent that the so-called radical bloc had lost the balance of power in Congress, that the administration looked with favor upon railroad consolidations, and that the roads had been successful in increasing their net earnings through a reduction in operating costs. Tangible evidence of this improvement, furnished by the resumption of dividends on stocks of some of the southwestern carriers, stimulated the demand, which came from large institutions and wealthy individuals, as well as a myriad of small investors.

Industrials shared in the advance, the largest gains being recorded by the securities of those companies, whose earnings gave definite indications of business improvement.

Professional traders admittedly were surprised at the magnitude of the buying power, as indicated by the fact that stocks in which they had built up large paper profits in the early fall were sold heavily in the few days following the election on the theory that they could be repurchased later at lower levels. The advance, however, once it got started, was an almost perpendicular one for about six weeks. The market was taken away from the professionals, who were forced to bid for stocks several points above what they sold them for in order to participate in the upward swing.

STOCKS GO OUT OF "STREET"

One of the curious features of the rapid advance was the fact that it was accompanied by a relatively slight increase in brokers' loans, which was construed as an indication that the stocks were being taken out of the street and put in strong boxes. Wall-street brokerage houses actually found themselves with more business than they could conveniently handle, despite an average increase of 11 per cent in brokerage commissions, which added millions of dollars to their coffers.

Fluctuations of the steel shares reflected the course of business, the low state of operations reached in midsummer forcing the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to suspend its dividends on its common stock. The United States Steel Corporation paid its regular quarterly dividends of 1¼ per cent, and an additional extra of one-half of 1 per cent each quarter, the stock selling at the highest level since 1917.

Most of the oil shares lost ground, due to the unsettled trade conditions caused by the overproduction of crude. The Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, one of the largest of the independents, cut its common dividends in half, and several others were forced to omit their payments.

Copper shares showed signs of activity and strength as the year closed after a long period of relative depression, due to the inability of the producers to earn substantial profits because of the low prices of the red metal and the stiff competition afforded by the African product. With Europe again a large potential buyer of copper, the outlook for the industry is one of the best in years.

JORDAN AND NASH MOUNT

A slight falling off in production and sales below the record-breaking year of 1923, combined with increasing competition, naturally had an adverse effect on many motor shares, although Jordan, Nash, the Maxwell and Pierce-Arrow issues developed considerable strength in the last few weeks. One of the principal developments in this group was the scaling down of the number of shares of General Motors through the issuance of a new common stock, which was exchangeable on the basis of one share of new for four of the old.

Textile, chemical and packing shares suffered as a result of adverse trade developments, necessitating the omission of the American Woolen common dividend and the institution of receivership proceedings against the Virginia Carolina Chemical and the Wilson packing companies. Equipment continued to benefit from the large orders received from the leading railroad systems. Public utilities developed exceptional strength in reflection of a progressive increase in earnings by most of the principal companies, and of economies effected through several mergers. Sugars were depressed because of the competition afforded by the European beet product, which was sold here at concessions below the prices quoted for the Cuban and domestic crops. Chain store and merchandising issues recorded substantial gains during the year, some of the larger companies splitting up their stock in order to secure a better market and wider distribution.

DIVIDENDS SCARCE

Stock dividends were not so numerous as they were the year before, but the increasing agitation for the taxation of undisturbed surplus led to a belief in some quarters that a number of the larger industrial companies would make some special distribution to stockholders in the coming year. An increasing disposition was shown during the year to resort to stock financing, particularly by the railroads, whose poor earnings of previous years had made such financing impossible.

Among the active issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the widest fluctuation took place in Nash Motors, which rallied from a low of 96 1-2 to close to 200. The narrowest fluctuation was in Alaska Gold, which sold between 10 and 25 cents a share.

Total stock sales during the year approximated 275,000,000 shares as compared with 235,000,000 in 1923; 260,000,000 in 1922; 171,000,000 in 1921; 223,000,000 in 1920, and 307,000,000 in the record-breaking year of 1919 when the postwar inflation boom was at its height. Total sales in November exceeded 40,000,000 shares, making it the largest single month's business since April, 1901, when sales ran above 42,000,000 shares in the wildly excited trading that preceded the Northern Pacific panic.

BAD CHECKS

The forgery detail of the Los Angeles police department detective bureau yesterday issued the following bulletin on spurious check writing:

Merchants are warned regarding the activities of a man known as R. P. Roberts, formerly residing at the Marion Apartments, who has been issuing fictitious checks recently in this vicinity. In most cases he makes such checks payable to himself and signs the name of G. D. Salisbury.

Roberts is described as follows: American, dark hair, dark eyes, 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighs about 145 pounds, approximately 30 years of age, slender build, smooth shaven, medium light complexion and generally wears a dark suit with light Fedora hat.

The utmost discretion should be exercised in accepting checks from strangers, and if the above-described man makes his appearance call a police officer or notify the forgery detail at Central Station, telephone MEtropolitan 6100.

MERCHANT FORECASTS YEAR

George J. Whelan, Tobacco Pioneer, Predicts Period of Prosperity; Comments on Stock Market

BY EARLE E. CROWE

From a man who developed the cigar store into a merchandising house for all kinds of men's goods and established these retail stores on thousands of advantageous corners in many cities in the United States, a forecast of the course of business in 1925 ought to carry some weight. And especially so when to this qualification is added the reputation of being one of the shrewdest and most successful stock market traders in Wall street. This description applies to George J. Whelan, who with his brother organized the United Cigar Stores Company of America, and has figured in several other tobacco company combinations.

Mr. Whelan is spending the winter in Los Angeles and at the same time is closely watching the pulse of the stock market in which he is popularly supposed to have large holdings. At the Ambassador yesterday he expressed himself as entirely optimistic over the business outlook in the coming twelve months, although he professed to see something of a struggle for a few of the industries that have especially prospered in the current year.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

Mr. Whelan looks for a continuance of a plentiful supply of money at comparatively easy rates and in an amount sufficient to insure general prosperity. Earnings of the majority of corporations will run along moderate levels, in his opinion, even though commodity prices and the cost of living may appreciate considerably. In fact, he holds the viewpoint that most producers of consumers' goods are entitled to higher prices and business will benefit by such a development if the rise is held in sane limits. Likewise, he believes that rates for call and time money around or just under 6 per cent will contribute to a wider measure of prosperity than the present low prices.

Like Judge Gary, Mr. Whelan is a bull on the steel industry. No period of prosperity can make headway, he contends, unless the steel companies point the way. Iron is the barometer of trade in his eyes, and in the quickened note of activity in the production of pig iron, he foresees a substantial demand for new building construction in 1925. In consonance with the increase in the production of iron and in the unfilled orders of the steel companies, the prices for these products are advancing. Mr. Whelan maintains that a considerable portion of these advances represent profits, as the costs of operation are being controlled satisfactorily.

Unlike some observers, Mr. Whelan is unable to discover any portents of disastrous competition from the foreign steel interests. Most of these producers are planning to enter the American market on a considerable scale in 1925, but the tobacco merchant is of the opinion that the domestic corporations have the market well in hand and can easily meet the prices of the foreign interests.

Tobacco companies, the business in which Mr. Whelan is principally interested, have had their best year in 1924. Cigarette and cigar sales have exceeded the brightest expectations, and the successful distribution by the retail stores of razor blades, watches, handkerchiefs, smokers' supplies and other articles, has materially swelled net income. The coming year is forecast by the United Cigar Store executive as at least the equal and perhaps better than 1924 for the tobacco industry as a whole.

COPPERS LOOK GOOD

Railroads should experience satisfactory earnings, although he is somewhat dubious of a repetition of the salutary performances of 1924. The copper industry looks to be in good shape, with perhaps a gradual scale of improvement.

Mr. Whelan's forecast of the oil business is somewhat of a wet blanket to the enthusiasts who proclaim the early emergence of the industry from its long session of troubles. He ventures the prediction that the oil companies still have considerable in the way of difficulties ahead of them, and will not join the ranks of the prosperous until the crest of the bullish movement has been passed.

Mr. Whelan's remarks with respect to the stock market are of interest because of his reputed operations in many of the leaders on the board. He now owns control of Universal Pipe, at present one of the speculative performers in the market, and which has worried quite an army of short traders in the past few weeks.

"It looks to me," he says, "that the common stocks have been overlooked in this market of inflation. The preferred stocks and bonds have benefited considerably, but the buying of common stocks has been speculative and not enough attention paid to intrinsic worth. Some of these companies are going to do a big business next year and the common stockholders, as the owners of the largest equity, will get the reward."

ATTORNEY IS NAMED BANK VICE-CHIEF

Edward J. Nolan Elected Officer of Merchants' National

The election of Edward J. Nolan to vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles was announced yesterday following a meeting of the board of directors. Mr. Nolan is a member of the law firm of Page, Nolan, Rohe & Hurn.

Mr. Nolan, who for ten years has been legal counsel for the Merchants' bank, is 36 years of age. He is a director of the Banks-Huntley Company, Guaranty Discount Corporation, Mortgage Surety Company, and the Bank of San Fernando, and is a member of several local clubs.

He came to Los Angeles from Rochester, N. Y., twenty-five years ago, and during the past ten years, with the exception of seventeen months spent as a lieutenant in the Air Service overseas during the war, he has been actively identified with the Merchants' National Bank.

COTTON FUTURES FALL IN LISTLESS TRADING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Cotton futures declined in quiet, featureless trading today. Profit-taking caused irregularity from the outset, and the market's technical position was easier. Some southern selling, predicted upon the favorable weather in the South, was evident in October, but this had only a moderate effect on the list. Professional operators were somewhat more cautious than of late. Final prices were just above the day's low levels and 27 to 32 points net lower.

METAL MARKETS

Daily Review

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—The Daily Metal Trade today reported:

"First intimation of possible steel shortage developing early in new year is seen in Middle Western mills holding stiffly to established steel supplies for use of old customers. Chicago steel makers are expected to furnish 500,000 tons of plate, shapes and bars for railroad cars already placed. Sheet mills in Youngstown and Pittsburg districts get ready to start on heavy rolling schedules after New Year's, while blue annealed sheets are likely to advance $2 per ton at Chicago. Copper, unchanged at New York at 15 cents. Zinc, firm at 7.85 cents. Lead, strong at 10 cents, St. Louis Tin, steady at 59 cents."

MACBETH HEADS MINES CHAMBER

Oil Man Selected President of Oil and Mineral Body

Reginald C. Jenkins Named Brokerage Partner

Pacific-Southwest Branch Bank Installed

A. B. Macbeth, vice-president and general manager of the Southern California Gas Company and Midway Gas Company, was elected president of the Chamber of Mines and Oil yesterday. Mr. Macbeth has been connected with the oil and gas industry, both in the East and on the Pacific Coast, for years.

Before coming west he had experience in drilling and operating gas and oil wells in Kansas and Oklahoma, and held the positions of superintendent and engineer of the Kansas City Gas Company, Kansas City, Mo., and general manager of the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

Upon coming to California ten years ago he became vice-president and general manager of the Southern California Gas Company and the Midway Gas Company.

In addition to being president of the Chamber of Mines and Oil he is on the board of directors of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, the Union Bank and Trust Company, the Union Oil Company of California and is on the executive committee of the latter corporation.

He is internationally known in oil and gas circles, was president of the Natural Gas Association of America during 1911 and was a director of the American Gas Association.

STOTT TO RETIRE

Reginald C. Jenkins, manager of the San Francisco office of Logan & Bryan, will become a general partner in the firm on January 2, according to an announcement made yesterday. Mr. Jenkins will take the place of Louis N. Stott, for years a general partner in the company and in charge of the Los Angeles office of the organization, who will resign today.

Mr. Stott has been connected with Logan & Bryan for a long period of time.

NEW BRANCH BANKS

The Ninth and Figueroa branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, now located at 858 West Ninth street, will open for business in its new quarters at 729 West Ninth street on Monday, January 5. Fred C. Warner is the branch manager and G. W. Helsig is assistant manager.

Two new branch banks of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank will be opened in Los Angeles shortly. They are the Larchmont Square branch, 219 North Larchmont Boulevard, Elmer Blake, manager, to open on January 17, and the Forty-seventh and Moneta branch, Hugh M. Evans, manager, to open at a date undecided.

WIRE CIRCUIT TO OPEN

A. A. Housman & Co. yesterday announced that, with the opening of their new transcontinental telegraph wire, which goes into operation about January 2, via Chicago, Winnepeg and Vancouver, supplementing their regular circuit by way of Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City, they will have installed a telegraph relay office in Chicago. This office will handle the Housman company grain business and will act as a distribution point for business of the organization north and south of that city.

BONDS CALLED

E. H. Rollins & Sons have received the called numbers of the Delmonte Properties Company first mortgage 6 per cent bonds in the amount of $23,000. The bonds have been called for payment next March 1. They also have been advised that the entire issue of H. Liebes & Co. 6 per cent serial notes has been called for payment on next February 1 at the Anglo-California Trust Company, San Francisco, at 101 and interest.

LISTING APPROVED

Stock of the Marine Corporation, an oil company operating in the Southern California fields, yesterday, was passed for listing by the board of governors of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, and will be called the 31st inst. The company has a capitalization of 5,000,000 shares authorized of which 2,797,000 are outstanding. There is no funded indebtedness.

Wells are owned and operated in the Long Beach, Athens-Rosecrans, and Torrance fields, and the monthly production is over 200,000 barrels. Leases total slightly over fifty-four acres. Dividends are paid monthly at the rate of 1 cent, and total disbursements now amount to $109,377.98.

Officers are D. M. Scott, president; J. R. McKinnie, vice-president; E. D. Marr, vice-president; D. L. Maynum, secretary-treasurer; R. L. Mack, assistant secretary-treasurer; and Ed McAdam, director.

MINING ASSESSMENT

Officers of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange have been notified of the levying of assessment No. 7 by the Richmond Consolidated Mining Company. Assessments are delinquent January 23, and public sale for unpaid stock will be held February 24.

FLAXSEED MARKET

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

Knowledge through Experience

TWENTY years specialized handling of Street Improvement Bonds has given us the knowledge that justifies our belief that Street Improvement Bonds, properly selected, are the best tax free investment in California.

Street Improvement Bonds are a first lien on a specific piece of property for the exact amount of the improvement.

The amount of the bond is a very small part of the value of the property assessed for the improvement which will in turn enhance the value of the property, thereby increasing the security of the bond.

Every bond offered by us has first been purchased for our own account after searching investigation, expert appraisal and approval as to legality.

Bonds offered by us combine ample security, 7% yield and complete tax exemption.

BOND QUOTATIONS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Uneven price fluctuations marked today's trading in bonds. Operations reflected the year-end readjustment of accounts and the retarding influence of firmer money rates. Liquidations of French and other foreign bonds continued as the situation regarding Allied debt payments remained clouded and reports gained circulation that the United States would curb private loans to France if funding of its debt were evaded.

The greatest activity centered in the foreign group. French government 7½s and 8s lost further ground, and the German 7s at one time dropped to 93. Good buying support was in evidence, however, and net losses for the day were mainly fractional.

Price movements in the domestic list were insignificant, with buying and selling orders fairly well balanced.

Copper company bonds, yielding to further profit taking, were the chief individual weak point in the industrial list.

New financing was held back by the approach of the New Year holiday.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange, and the total sales of each bond. This market is over Associated Press wires and is exclusive transmission. The closing is omitted when it is the same as the low, and bonds low and close are omitted when they are the same as the high.

NEW YORK CURB

Losses Exceed Gains

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Uneven price movements characterized today's curb market, with net losses exceeding net gains at the close. During the accumulation of several of the popular oils on the "Big Board," most of the petroleum issues on the curb lost ground, although, with the exception of Prairie Oil and Gas and Standard Oil of Kentucky, each of which closed 1¼ points lower, the changes were held to fractions.

Public Utilities showed considerable irregularity. National Power and Light broke six points to 239, Middle West Utilities closed 1¼ higher and moderate changes were made by some of the other inactive issues.

Following are the closing quotations on the New York Curb Market, furnished by Logan & Bryan, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 638 South Spring street:

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE: Hardly enough were offered to really interest buyers. However, a fair demand developed and the small supply was cleaned up readily at steady to strong prices. Common steers composed the bulk and cleared from 6.00 to 6.50, two loads averaging around 1100 pounds going over at the smaller price.

Heifers topped in the she stock division at 5.75, a load of 828-pound Utahs making that price. Several loads of fat cows cleared for 5.50, while a small lot of weighty kinds sold upward to 4.25. Common and medium cows, mostly odd head and small lots, sold downward to 3.75. Canners and cutters were scarce and went over mostly from 2.00 3.25. Bulls ruled fully steady, the best bolognas clearing from 3.70 to 4.25, while thin kinds turned from 2.50 to 3.00.

CALVES: No load lots of calves arrived on today's market and the few small lots offered sold around steady. Three cleared largely from 6.25 downward.

HOGS: Active demand developed for today's moderate supply of butchers and a good clearance was effected on generally a steady to 10 cents lower basis. However, most sales were made on the steady mark, with only spots showing the decline. Extreme top was 11.00, paid for a load of 198-pound Nebraskas. The bulk of good and choice 180 to 195-pound butchers cleared from 11.50 to 11.80, while mixed butchers, light lights and strong weight slaughter pigs turned largely from 10.25 to 10.50, while a load of light weight pigs averaging less than 100 pounds sold downward to 9.00. Packing sows ruled fully steady, the bulk going over at 9.00, while a few rough kinds sold downward to 8.50.

SHEEP: Today's total offerings in the swine division was one deck of holdover lambs. These graded medium to good, averaged 82 pounds, and sold for 14.70 straight. In the general opinion of the trade, strictly choice handy weight wooled lambs are quotable upward to 16.50.

STOCK PRICES SHOW DECLINE

Year-End Profit-Taking is Bearish Factor

General Electric Features Industrial List

New Highs Are Scored in Many Issues

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—With only one trading day remaining in 1924, stock prices today developed considerable irregularity in reflection of the usual year-end readjustment of speculative accounts. Both the rail and industrial averages showed net declines on the day, although gains of 1 to 4 points were scattered through the list. Total sales fell slightly short of a million and three-quarter shares.

General electric was the day's spectacular feature. It opened fractionally higher at 300, sold down to 297, rallied to 304, slipped back a couple of points, moved up to a new peak price at 307½, broke to 296 in reflection of speculative disappointment over the company's announcement of the proposed segregation of its electric bond and share holdings, and closed at 297.

Despite the stiff call money rates, bullish operations were vigorously conducted in a number of issues throughout a greater part of the session, thirty-two stocks being elevated to new high levels for the year. The list included General Asphalt, common and preferred, Shell Union common and preferred, Barnesdale "A," Radio Corporation, American Express, American Metals, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Continental Can, Wrigley, United States Industrial Alcohol and Tobacco Products.

Famous-Players issues also were lifted to new peaks in response to the announcement that all bank loans have been paid and that this year's earnings will approximate $117 or $118 a share on the common. S. S. Kresge recorded a gain of 10½ points on a few sales.

Good buying was noted among the food shares, Beechnut Packing closing nearly 3 points higher at 70 after having sold as high as 72 7-8. California Packing showed a net gain of 1¼ points at 105. Further accumulation took place in the oil shares with Skelly, one of the new favorites, closing a point higher at 22 3-4.

Most of the standard industrials lost ground. U. S. Steel common and Studebaker each closed about a point lower at 118 7-8 and 44 3-4, respectively.

The rails continued sluggish. Net losses of a point or more were recorded by many of the popular issues.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent and then advanced to 5½. Time money and commercial paper rates also showed a hardening tendency with business quiet.

Demand sterling touched another new high above 473 but the other European rates showed only nominal changes. Argentine and Uruguayan exchanges developed marked strength.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The Union Oil Company yesterday had apparently effected a water shutoff in its Trust No. 1 well in the western part of the Rosecrans field, according to official reports. A test was made yesterday morning, after the well has been bailed all night, and the shutoff was approved officially by inspectors of the State Mining Bureau. Last night the crew was preparing to run tools into the hole and drill out the plug below the shoe, preparatory to a production test.

The Union's feat in shutting off water in this well at 5775 feet establishes a new world's record in oil-well cementing, according to available records. The well was cemented three times at this point before the water was effectually excluded.

Bottom of the Trust No. 1 is at 5801 feet, the hole between this point and the shoe of the casing at 5775 feet being filled with cement. When this plug is drilled out, and possibly a few feet more hole drilled, tubing will be run, and a production test made. The result may be known tonight, but the final test is not expected until tomorrow.

Unless water breaks in after the plug is drilled out, officials of the Union expect to place the well on production without further trouble. If they are successful the Union will have the deepest producing oil sand in the world in this well.

Gets Results

The Barnsdall Oil Company yesterday placed its O'Dea No. 2 in the Rosecrans field on production for the second time, getting an initial output of 1776 barrels a day. The well flowed for nine hours, making an actual gauge of 664 barrels of 42.4 degrees gravity oil. Cut was said to be 0.1 per cent. Bottom is at 4142 feet.

The O'Dea No. 2 was brought in barefooted during a water test about two weeks ago, and flowed at the rate of about 700 barrels a day the first day. The production then jumped to 2500 barrels a day under heavy gas pressure, and the well flowed at that rate for several days. Water then broke in and the well had to be killed and recemented. It is supposed that the heavy gas pressure tore the cement loose from around the shoe of the casing, as the original test showed a satisfactory water shutoff.

Sentinel Recements

The Sentinel Oil Company did not get a water shutoff in its Brown No. 1 well in the northwest part of the Athens district, as was originally reported. It developed yesterday, and a second cement job will be necessary before further drilling can be done, it is said. The well still showed signs of life yesterday morning after gassing for a night and a day and the crew was engaged in pumping heavy mud into the hole before drilling out the sand bridge in the bottom of the hole.

Two More Wells

The Mohawk Oil Company is preparing to drill two more wells in the Athens district of the Rosecrans field, according to reports. Both the new wells will be located near the present Mohawk projects, one of them offsetting the Federal Drilling Company's Kanady well.

The Mohawk's two drilling wells are down 4274 feet, and 400 feet, respectively.

Gets More Sand

E. J. Miley's Athens No. 1 cored nine more feet of oil sand in the new zone discovered Monday morning, it was officially reported yesterday. The drill went to 5118 feet, and found shale streaked with saturated sand. No attempt will be made to make a test at present, according to Miley officials, and the well will be drilled ahead to explore the new formation.

To Recement

The Pacific Petroleum Corporation's Rosecrans No. 2 made a short flow during a combination of water and production test, it was reported yesterday. For a short time the well made oil at the rate of 1500 barrels a day, but water broke in, and the well was killed to recement. It is 4808 feet deep.

Cleans Out Well

The Mohawk Oil and Gas Syndicate is still trying to complete its wildcat well southeast of Culver City. According to field reports, the well shows comparatively little pressure, but is expected to make about 100 barrels a day on the pump after it is cleaned out. Plenty of oil shows during the swabbing process, it is said.

To Skid Rig

After three months of unsuccessful fishing in its Ducommon well in the northwest part of the Athens field, the Petroleum Midway Company is preparing to skid the rig and start a new hole, according to field reports. A string of tools was dropped in this well at 3400 feet, and efforts to extract it, or drill past, have proved futile.

Setting Casing

The Union Oil Company is setting casing in its Trust No. 2 in the central part of the Rosecrans field, on the east line of the Trust lease, it is officially reported. Bottom of the well is at 4560 feet, and cores just above that point indicate good production, it is said.

Blizzard Halts Wortham Field Oil Operations

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXIA (Tex.) Dec. 31.—A blizzard accompanied by intense cold has caused the shut-down of 90 per cent of the operations in the Wortham field and will delay the completion of many wells due to be finished before the New Year.

The production of the field on Sunday, ending at 7 a.m., was 46,916 barrels from eight wells as follows: Boyd Oil Company's No. 1 Boyd, 771 barrels; Boyd Oil Company's Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Simmons, 22,108 barrels; Mrs. J. K. Hughes's No. 1 Simmons, 7000 barrels; Kirby Petroleum Company's No. 1 Bounds, 4527 barrels; Atlantic Oil Producing Company, Penn and others No. 1 McCorkle, 8700 barrels; E. L. Smith's No. 1 Beall, 3809 barrels.

For the twenty-four hours ending Monday at 7 a.m., the production was 46,135 barrels from eight wells.

The ninth well in the field was E. L. Smith's No. 1 Edwards, in Freestone county, which started at 8500 barrels from sand at 2990 to 3015 feet.

The tenth well completed was that of the Pure Oil Company, on the Bounds farm, offsetting the Boyd Oil Company's No. 4 Simmons. It got sand at 2897 to 2961 feet and started at 6000 barrels a day.

The estimated production from ten wells on Tuesday was 59,200 barrels a day.

VARIETY OF SALES ON INCREASE

DRUG STORES REPORT PROSPECT EXCELLENT FOR 1925; PRICES MAY RISE

Sales of drug store commodities, which include drugs, hospital supplies such as cotton and rubber goods, patent medicines, toilet articles, candies, tobaccos and soda fountain merchandise, while showing a decline for the year just ending, are taking a spurt ahead that augurs well for 1925, according to the district manager of a national chain of drug stores with eighty-seven stores in twenty-four cities.

While there has been no decrease in the variety of goods sold, the executive yesterday reported, the volume has declined slightly as compared with the peak year of 1923.

"It is unfair to gauge business with 1923," the official said, "as there has seldom been witnessed in any city the hectic trading which Los Angeles experienced in that year. The year 1924 has been a normal one in every respect, the only difference noted being an absence of wasteful purchasing.

"Representatives of our organization who have just returned to Los Angeles from the East report prosperity in evidence in all lines of business. The rising raw material market, particularly cotton, is bound to be reflected in retail prices here eventually, but probably not before April 1."

OPTIMISM IN RANKS OF FURNITURE DEALERS; AMPLE STOCKS HELD

Despite a reduced volume of retail furniture trade in Los Angeles during the six months starting March 1, last, 1924 is closing with a decidedly more optimistic tone than dealers have felt since the heyday of "flush" times in 1923, E. C. Mitchell, secretary of the southern division of the Retail Furniture Association of California, yesterday reported.

An ample supply of stocks which for a time worried house managers may now prove a boon, it is held. With increased costs on all basic materials going into effect daily at the manufacturing centers, the present prices can be continued for some time, it is believed, even in the face of a demand of unprecedented proportions. However, nothing of this nature is expected, rather a steady growth being anticipated and desired.

Sales of furniture were reported spotty in the city one large store calling for more employees to handle a turnover that is a continuance and an increase over the Christmas rush, and another organization of equal size reducing its staff.

San Francisco furniture sales are reported falling off, and San Diego has enjoyed a consistent measure of steady gain.

OBLIGATION TO AUTOIST FORGOTTEN

Party is Sought as Lost When Passersby Fail to Notify Friends

Sometimes obliging motorists forget their obligations.

In the case of James E. Venables, Bakersfield salesman, and his wife and two children, the oversight resulted in a search that extended over three counties and came to an end yesterday only because Venables reappeared at his Bakersfield office while two separate searching parties were scouring desert roads from Palmdale north.

The entire party had been reported unaccountably missing. Venables yesterday declared motor trouble had resulted in a breakdown of their automobile. He asked several passing motorists to notify his Bakersfield office. They said they would, but they didn't.

WIFE CHARGES BROKER KICKED AND BEAT HER

Dorothy J. Reimer filed suit for divorce yesterday against George F. Reimer, real estate broker. She charges cruelty. She declares that he frequently kicked, cuffed and beat her and that in 1920 he was arrested on a charge of attempted assault on a young woman, while on his way from Los Angeles to Long Beach. She also says that her husband has a monthly income of from $500 to $1000 and that the community property is worth in excess of $100,000. This includes their home at 1740 Morgan Place and the Devonshire Apartments. She asks $500 a month alimony and a fee of $3000 for her attorney, William Ellis Lady.

HARMONY URGED BY REPUBLICANS

Eleven Counties Represented in Southland Parley

More Than 150 Are Present; Many Make Talks

Suggestions for Co-operation Are Indorsed

BY THE WATCHMAN

A conference unique in the history of Southern California and one that promises to result in more active co-operation, a better understanding and greater harmony of action throughout the southern portion of the State occurred here yesterday under the auspices of the Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee.

The occasion was a "get-together, get-acquainted" meeting of more than 150 State Senators and Assemblymen, newspaper editors and other representative Republican men and women of eleven Southern California counties—San Diego, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside, Los Angeles, Ventura, Imperial, Fresno, Kern, Santa Barbara and Stanislaus.

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Los Angeles Republican County Central Committee, presided. He opened the conference with a brief address of welcome in which he explained that Los Angeles county, the most populous of the State, proposes to aid and serve the whole Southern California region in all matters relating to the progress and prosperity of the people and the industries of the Southland.

MANY BENEFITS

He asserted that not only Southern California, but the State as a whole will receive tremendous benefits through a better understanding and a readier spirit of

BANKRUPT PLEA FILED BY LEWIS

Promoter Admits Insolvency by Stipulation

Declares Debts Half Million, Assets Twice That

Referee's Hearing January 5 at Santa Barbara

E. G. Lewis, promoter of Atascadero and Los Angeles, filed a bankrupt's stipulation with the United States District Court yesterday agreeing to an order adjudging him a bankrupt. His action was taken as part of the bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him two weeks ago by five creditors whose claims amount to $9236.50. Lewis admits that during the last year he has owed more than $500,000 that he has not been able to pay. His assets, he says, are in excess of $1,600,000.

On petition of the creditors bringing the bankruptcy proceedings, Federal Judge James appointed A. R. Rutherford receiver of the properties owned and controlled by Lewis. January 5, next, was set as the date for a hearing of the cause before W. Preston Butcher, Jr., referee in bankruptcy, at Santa Barbara.

In their petition for a receiver, the creditors—Carl Belmont, Paul Spicer, B. C. Jewett, Mrs. R. C. Jewett and H. S. King—entered in particulars regarding asserted transactions whereby Lewis accumulated liabilities which they say amount to more than $3,000,000. They charge Lewis with converting assets into cash and concealing them for the purpose of defrauding creditors. Lewis denies this.

PROPERTIES LISTED

The petitioning creditors say the assets of Lewis consist of a controlling interest in the Atascadero Estates, Inc., Atascadero Beach Land and Improvement Company, Atascadero Mercantile Company, Atascadero Mill and Lumber Company, Atascadero Press, Atascadero Copper Company, Caladero Products Company, Lewis Foundation Corporation, National Graphite Company, Permanent Residence Apartment Corporation, the Woman's National Publishing Company, and certain minor interests in other corporations, and contingent fees and interests in the Palos Verdes project, oil properties in California, Montana and Wyoming, an insurance policy for $560,000, and mailing lists containing thousands of names of "potential investors" all over the world.

According to the petitioning creditors, appointment of a receiver was necessary because Lewis has received in connection with his transactions in California more than $23,000,000 part of which, they aver, is invested in the above named concerns. "These corporations," the creditors assert, "in fact are corporations of E. G. Lew-

ALL READY FOR ROSE PAGEANT

Fete Expected to Surpass Any Yet Presented

Floats in New Year's Parade Will Number 125

Governor to be Among Guests at Pasadena Fiesta

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Final preparations for Pasadena's thirty-sixth annual Tournament of Roses parade, held New Year's Day, are now practically completed by tournament officials in their effort to have the coming pageant surpass any yet presented. Already 125 cities, organizations and individuals have entered floats in this world-famous parade. Beauty and splendor, such as have made the Pasadena affair famous in years past, will again feature the 1925 parade.

LEWIS H. TURNER

Many new features and events never before seen in the Pasadena tournament have been arranged. While the throng of 500,000 people expected to gather for the parade is waiting for it to begin, eight girls from the University of Southern California will travel up and down the line of march playing classical music. A like number of boys playing jazz-band instruments will do likewise.

Honor guests of the day, which include Gov. Richardson, J. A. Drain, National Commander of the American Legion; John G. Price, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks; John R. Quinn, Past National Commander of the Legion; Nathan Coombs, State Commander, and George Hatfield, National Executive of the Legion, will make up the first division of the parade. A special reviewing stand has been provided at Hill avenue and East Orange Grove, from where the city's guests will see the parade. Prizes will also be awarded from this point.

Malcolm Fraser.

Lewis H. Turner, Pasadena business man, has been chosen as grand marshal of the pageant. This is considered the highest honor Pasadena can bestow upon one of its citizens. M. S. Pashgian will participate for the twenty-fourth consecutive year as marshal of the civic division.

The civic division, in which the largest and most gorgeous floats are entered will be made up of twenty floats and five bands. Glendale, winner of more first prizes than any other city in the State, will again make a strong bid for first honors. Another beautiful float from Catalina Island will also come up for consideration as the most gorgeous float in the parade. Other civic entries include Los Angeles, Santa Rosa, Anaheim, San Bernardino, Ontario, Upland, Redlands, Long Beach, Culver City, Tujunga, Pomona, Stanford, Flintridge, Ventura, Pacific Palisades and Temple.

WM. F. CRELLER

As in years past the parade will form on South Orange Grove avenue at 9:30 a.m. New Year's Day. The parade will start promptly at 10:30 and will proceed down Colorado street to Hill avenue and then north to East Orange Grove avenue. From this point the parade will go west to North Lake avenue, where it will disband.

Decorators started transforming the city of Pasadena into a huge flower garden today. An entirely new scheme of city decoration is being carried out. In addition to the hundreds of thousands of American flags, Notre Dame and Stanford banners and streamers that are hung on buildings, street lights and other fixtures, quantities of ferns, greenery of all kinds and palm branches will be used. The buildings in the business district will be virtually covered with decorations never before seen. The city of Pasadena will itself be a scene of beauty on that day.

Marshals and aides who will cooperate with the grand marshal in forming the parade were named today. There will be seven divisions, a marshal and several aides for each. Three special aides to the grand marshal will be W. F. Creller, president of the Tournament of Roses Association; B. O. Kendall, director of the organization, and Col. George S. Parker, a past grand marshal.

B. O. Kendall.

Lewis Turner, the grand marshal, will head the first division and will be aided by Dr. George Sharp, Dr. Leroy Sherry, Dr. J. Tyler Parker, R. D. Davis, Jr., Dr. William Boucher and Max H. Turner. Aides to M. S. Pashgian, marshal of the second division, include C. E. Hill, M. W. Atwood, G. M. Wilson, Dr. C. C. Wiggins, Harry Koenig and Arthur Norburg. Dr. Joseph D. Condit will be marshal of the fourth division. His aides will be Clark Millikan, Robert Hal-

PROMOTED LEADER OF WORLD FLIGHT

Capt. Lowell Smith

Lowell Smith, commander of the world flyers, who is enjoying Christmas leave in Los Angeles received a telegram from the Adjutant-General yesterday stating that he has been promoted to captain effective the 6th inst. The appointment was due to the officer's seniority and not as a reward for successfully commanding the world flyers. Capt. Smith also was notified that he has been detailed to Rockwell Field, San Diego, as engineering officer.

A good rest will be enjoyed by the air hero after the first of the year when he will go on a leave of absence for three months and twenty-eight days. Capt. Smith is visiting his parents here and is a guest at the Ambassador.

Capt. Smith took occasion to make a vigorous denial that recent bombing attacks by aircraft on the battleship Washington showed that planes could have little effect on warships.

"The aviators were not permitted to use bombs with sufficient charge to blow up the ship," he said. "That was not the purpose of the tests."

He also attacked the naval ruling that air officers must have a sea experience before they pilot seaplanes. Such experience is unnecessary, he declard, speaking with experience gained in flying over thousands of miles of water himself.

Tree and Dinner Given Disabled War Veterans

For eighty-five disabled service men who had no Christmas, there was a tree last night at California Hut, 1028 South Figueroa street. There was also a dinner, an entertainment and a gift distribution. The guests were mainly men on home treatment, some of whom are receiving no government compensation. The party was arranged by Mrs. R. D. Shepherd, as chairman, and she was assisted in the gift distribution by Mrs. Boyle Workman, president of the Hut, and Mrs. H. W. Wellington, its manager. Others who helped were Miss Vera Bassett, Miss Levis and C. S. Smith.

Among the larger gifts were the decorations by the Philanthropy and Civics Club, 120 pairs of hose by E. H. Turman, and ninety neckties collected by Mrs. Harcourt Hervey. The Elite furnished the dishes for the dinner and Breese Brothers the chairs. On the program were Miss Genevieve Church Smith and others.

At the Hut are displayed articles for sale, made at all the service hospitals in California.

GROWERS JOIN IN FRUIT PACT

Will Hold Frosted Oranges That May Dry Out

Hundreds Unanimously Vote for Present Laws

Many Face Loss to Sustain State Reputation

Several hundred orange growers and shippers from all of Southern California met yesterday in the offices of the Fruit Growers' Exchange and by unanimous vote indorsed the existing county ordinances designed to prevent the shipment of fruit that may dry out in transit to the eastern market. Moreover, it was agreed not to ship any oranges except what the County Horticultural Commissioners shall pass under the existing ordinances.

The recent frosts have aroused the fear that the reputation of California fruit may be injured if frost-damaged oranges find their way to the consumer in the East. It has been the determination of the growers themselves for many years to prevent this at whatever necessary loss to themselves. There is a State statute to prevent the shipment of oranges showing a drying out before shipment.

A State law to prevent the shipment of oranges that do not yet show drying out but may dry out before reaching the consumer, was declared void some time ago, and the only existing statutes are ordinances which, in 1922 were passed uniformly in Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside and Ventura counties.

TESTS VAGUE

These ordinances make it unlawful to make orange shipments that contain "15 per cent or more showing in two or more segments of each fruit marked evidence of frost injury." The Horticultural Commissioners of the five southern counties at the meeting yesterday asked the representatives of the industry whether they wished this ordinance enforced in the present emergency, and, if not, to ask the Boards of Supervisors to repeal the law, since, on the books, it must be enforced.

Commissioner Ryan and the other county horticultural commissioners admitted that they knew of no definite test of "marked evidence of frost injury." In this connection, the meeting decided to ask the University of California to hasten the completion of scientific inquiry, already begun, to detect the initial stages of frost damage.

The discussion was so heated that E. M. Lyon of Redlands, who presided, at times had to call a halt to personalities. And yet at no time was there any question raised that it was the duty of the growers themselves to indorse legislation to protect the consumer against bad fruit, both as a matter of fair play and as the best business in the long run. E. G. Dezell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, called attention to the Florida competition.

The damage of the recent frosts is not considered disastrous, if the frost-damaged fruit can be kept from the consumer.

LOSSES FACED

Enforcement of the legislation unquestionably will work a hardship on some small growers in localities where the cold was very great or where firing was not carried on successfully. But one of the small growers rose and said that he for one would "take the gaff" so that the good name of California and her fruit might not be injured. This spirit prevailed to such an extent that there was no dissenting vote to the resolution, which was made by C. S. Whitcomb.

B. C. Winslow, chief of the local Bureau of Chemistry Department of Agriculture, will co-operate with the county authorities in preventing the shipment of oranges that may become bad after leaving the State. The Food and Drug Act, Winslow explains, is similar to the southern counties ordinances in this regard, and in addition it may apply to confiscations of fruit after it has left the State.

It was the sense of the meeting that the good judgment of the county horticultural commissioners will be trusted to stop the shipment of fruit that unquestionably will dry out before reaching the consumer.

The matter is complicated by the freezing of fruit in the cars while in transit, resulting in the easterner blaming California growers for what is out of their power, but the railways have perfected the cars so that this danger is not so great as in previous years.

TORCHIA TELLS OF THREATS

Brother of Bomb Victim Reveals Part of Contents of Menacing Letters Sent to Attorney

The contents of two threatening letters attributed by Ernest M. Torchia, Los Angeles attorney, to the same source as the nitroglycerin bomb which exploded and maimed him Christmas morning, were learned in part yesterday by investigators following a conference with Joseph A. Torchia, brother and law partner of the injured attorney.

The letters are said to contain such phrases as "I'll get you." "I'll keep you from practicing the kind of law you do on innocent people" and "I don't like your method of trying cases."

They are also said to have been written in a small hand, which is considered an important clew by officers because the handwriting on the wrapper of the bomb package also was small.

The writer of these letters—his name has been turned over to the authorities—is believed by the injured man to have been the sender of the bomb. In an exclusive interview with a Times reporter Monday, Torchia for the first time voiced his suspicion as to the identity of his assailant. He provided valuable clews that have been placed in the hands of the official investigators.

A cursory search of the cor-

SHERIFF IN RAID DEATH QUIZ

Sheriff Traeger was the principal witness yesterday before the grand jury in its investigation into the killing of William Halbe, a Pasadena chauffeur, during a raid recently by a squad of deputy sheriffs on an asserted gambling den at Pasadena.

Sheriff Traeger stated that he informed the inquisitorial body that Deputy Sheriff Bond, head of the county dry squad, who led the raiders, was fully authorized to make the raid and that it was the Sheriff's duty to see that such raids were carried out. Members of the grand jury, he said, told him they had intended to ask for the removal of Bond but after learning the facts decided not to do so.

As a result of the complaint evoked by the killing of Halbe, Deputy Sheriff Bond yesterday also tendered his resignation to Sheriff Traeger to take effect on February 1, 1925. Traeger refused to accept the resignation and indicated that he would do all in his power to cause Bond to reconsider his move. Bond is a veteran in the service and has been head of the county dry squad for fourteen months, during which time he has established an enviable record.

John G. Hamill, chauffeur for the Sheriff's office, who is said to have fired the shot which killed Halbe, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Hahn of the Superior Court on a manslaughter charge, and his trial set for February 16, 1925.

"TIMES" LIMERICK HOPPER POPS AGAIN

Fans Meet Up With a Hard Nut to Crack; What To Do? Today Comes the Lancer, and Harry Carr, So Smiles Are Trumps Once More

Touching on and appertaining to last Wednesday's bobtailed fling at the Florida climate, the Limerick Editor has only to repeat a remark made earlier in this space, that even the strangle hold is barred in this contest. In proof the first prize of $25 has been awarded to J. A. Witham of 1420 West Twenty-eighth street, whose completion reads:

J. A. Witham

There once was a man went to Florida
But the weather it kept getting torrida;
So he came to L. A.
Where the breezes that play
Make torrida Florida horrida.

Horrible dictu! But there it is. G. P. Clark, Ash and Edgmont streets, San Diego, who has been with the contest since it started, is rewarded with second prize of $5. Mr. Clark wrote:

Made him say that he'd reached Heaven's corrida.

A great many of the fans picked out "horrida" as the rhyme, including Henry M. Cook of 1116 East Tenth street, Long Beach, who said he had taken out a dog license to do it. He wrote:

Made Florida seem ten times horrida.

Another good one came from Sue C. Hall, 239 Buena Vista street, Redlands:

Wafted far every fear from his foreheads.

Dr. E. J. Dean, 500 Auditorium Building, was also resourceful:

Showed him beauties quite hidden beforida.

And Joanna Hoffman, 1 Victoria Court, Santa Barbara:

Gently blew through his whiskers begorrada.

The recent permission of the Limerick Editor for fans to drop into foreign language to relieve their feelings was accepted by L. M. White, Owensmouth:

Caused him to say "Eureka Primordia."

Harold Honberger, 6134 Monte Vista street, found this:

Made him feel that he had been a soreheada.

While J. F. Kelly, 521 North Avenue 53 wrote:

Could blow him success and he scored-a.

Miss Ruth Painter, 533 West Dryden street, Glendale, is resourceful also:

And there he met sweet Isadorida.

As for C. A. Lillie of Campo:

Found his wife, another had borrowed her.

All last lines for THIS Limerick must reach The Times not later than midnight, January 3. All Limericks MUST BE SENT BY MAIL and no others will be considered. Today's winners will be announced one week from today.

THE RULES:

The first four lines of a Limerick will appear daily in The Times. A first prize of $25 will be paid daily for the best line completing the Limerick, and a second prize daily of $5 for the second best. You can use the blank above, or a separate sheet of paper, but if a separate sheet is used, be sure to write all five lines, signing your name and full address. Limericks must be sent by mail, and no others will be considered. Send to Limerick Editor, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles, Cal. You can submit as many last lines as you wish, but each must be on a separate sheet or blank. This offer is open to everyone except employees of The Times and their families. No manuscripts can be returned. As the rules completely cover the contest, no additional information can be given by telephone, letter or in person.

ANOTHER CONTEST TOMORROW!

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THERE is no need to hurry. We have more time than any of us suspected.

Scientists have discovered that our days are a tenth of a second longer than they were 10,000 years ago.

OH, HAPPY OUTCASTS!

Pola Negri's picture, "East of Suez," presents, in an odd way, an Englishman's viewpoint on life.

It seems to be the idea of Somerset Maugham, the author, that the most awful calamity that can fall upon any human soul is social ostracism. That is to say that no Englishman dare marry a charming and highly educated Eurasian girl because nobody of his set would come to call on him.

I can think of nothing of less importance than to be socially ostracised.

Looking at the picture last night—seeing this young Britisher alone in a quiet home with his wife—the river rippling past the foot of their garden, Chinese servants pattering softly and silently about—nobody on the telephone, no Christmas celebrations, no New Years' parties—

How wonderful to be ostracised!

PRIZE FIGHTERS' TEARS

Kid McCoy's copious tears seem to have surprised some people; they didn't surprise me.

For some reason or other, prize fighters are just naturally weepy. I never saw one who wasn't.

The dressing-room of a defeated bruiser fairly swims with tears. All the trainers and seconds and the rubbers and the rest of the royal entourage are always blubbering all over the place.

THE WOMAN JUDGE

A woman police judge for Los Angeles is a step forward in common sense.

Women are better adapted for this work than men; they are harder, less sentimental, not so easily fooled, more practical and quicker of decision.

MADALYNE KNEW

I always remember the first day of Madalyne Obenchain's trial.

Thinking she was going to be tried by men, she came into court shabbily dressed—a pitiful, shrinking figure.

When she found that the jury would be mostly women, Mrs. Obenchain hurried back to her cell, got dressed up like a plush horse and swept into the courtroom, perfectly groomed and with a regal walk. She knew it was no use trying to put over that pitiful stuff on women.

FOOLISH NOVELISTS

I always wonder where the novelists get all these funny ideas about the bride who longs for sentiment and kisses, but is repulsed by the practical-minded business-getter husband.

WHY MARRIAGES FAIL

The real truth is that most marriages fail because the wife is too infernally practical.

When he wants to sit poetically holding hands on the rocks by the sobbing sea—forgetting all the world—her feet get damp, or her attention wanders to some other woman's hat.

SENTIMENTAD MEN

The only reason why there are Ku Klux Klans in nighties and mysticism is that men, being incurably romantic, want to play games of pretend where there aren't any women to jeer at them.

WOMEN AND KNIGHTS

In days of old there weren't any women knights, wandering around in iron clothes pretending to be looking for dragons.

One woman on a crusade would wreck the expedition. She would ask "Why?"

PLAN JURY QUIZ ON M'COY TRIAL

State Officers Sift Evidence on Approach of Juror

Kid Still Faces Assault and Robbery Charges

Retrial of Slaying Case to be Asked by Defense

A county grand jury investigation of an attempt to influence the vote of one of the jurors who found Kid McCoy guilty of manslaughter probably will be started at the next meeting of the grand jury, Chief Trial Deputy District-Attorney Fricke intimated last night.

John Apffel was the juror accosted by a man who promised a large sum of money if Apffel would vote a certain way. The juror reported the incident to Dist.-Atty. Keyes and an investigation was started. The investigation has since been completed and enough evidence gathered, according to Chief Trial Deputy Fricke, to place the matter before the grand jury.

This information, coupled with the revelation that Apffel was the one juror whose opinion kept the McCoy jury locked up for seventy-eight hours, has again brought the affair to a head when it was believed it had been discarded.

ROBBERY CHARGE

As a result of the verdict returned against McCoy, the former champion of prize fights and feminine hearts, must serve a term of from one to fourteen years in Folsom Prison. In addition, he also may be found guilty on seven counts included in a second indictment. This indictment charges him with robbery on four counts and assault with intent to kill on three other counts. The seven charges were based upon the result of McCoy's rampage in the Mora art shop on August 13, last, when he robbed four men and shot two men and one woman.

McCoy will be tried on the seven charges at one trial, the date of which will be set by Superior Judge Crail next Monday morning. The trial actually will begin during the first week of February, according to the court calendar.

PLANS NEW TRIAL

If McCoy is found guilty on all of the seven counts, his total prison term will consist of from seven years imprisonment to approximately 300 years. Each of the robbery charges carries a sentence of from one year to life imprisonment. Each of the assault charges carries a sentence of from one to fourteen years' imprisonment.

In the event he is convicted on all seven counts, McCoy cannot apply for parole before seven years have elapsed. The manslaughter sentence will run concurrently with the robbery and assault sentences, while the latter two kinds of sentences must run consecutively.

McCoy believe he will be granted a new trial for the death of Mrs. Teresa Mora, his sweetheart, and the women he was found guilty of killing. Chief Defense Counsel Giesler spent the day yesterday in looking up the law for a strong appeal of the verdict to the Appellate Court, expressing the opinion that the manslaughter verdict was unfair and a compromise verdict which should not have been returned in a case such as McCoy's murder trial. If a new trial is to be granted to McCoy, he can be tried for the second time on no charge more serious than manslaughter.

HACKED BODY UNIDENTIFIED

Nearly Thousand View Norwalk Murder Victim Found in Deserted House; Clothing Studied

Nearly 1000 people filed through the undertaking establishment of Thomas L. Miller at Downey yesterday seeking to identify the body of a young man found murdered Monday in a deserted house a mile from Norwalk. Many of those who came feared that they would find a missing son or brother, but last night no one had been able to recognize the remains.

The man was killed by several blows on the head and the body later charred. The face, however, was not injured.

Deputy sheriffs under Capt. William Bright spent yesterday in and about Norwalk, but were unable to obtain any clew to the man's identity. They photographed the head and today will make a tour of places where the youth is likely to have been before the murder, showing the picture in an effort to identify him.

The shoes and other pieces of clothing, the kerosene can and the bloody hatchet, with which the murder was committed, were brought to the Sheriff's office and an attempt will be made to trace them.

Various theories were considered and then discarded yesterday, the investigation hinging upon the identification.

The house where the body was found has been untenanted for about two years. The grewsome discovery was made by two workmen.

FREIGHT MOTOR TRUCK FRANCHISES GRANTED

Franchises to operate freight motor trucks between Los Angeles, Los Angeles Harbor and Wilmington were issued to ten carriers yesterday by the State Railroad Commission. The companies are:

White Truck and Transfer Company, Pacific Transportation Company, D. H. Schiffman, Diamond Transport and Storage Company, C. C. Transfer and Garage Company, Scandia Truck and Transfer Company, A.B.C. Transportation System, Wade Shipping Company, Thomas & Son Transfer Company, and Associated Transit Company.

HUGHES-DIAL KNOT TO BE TIED TODAY

Author and Film Director Will Wed Screen Actress This Morning

Rupert Hughes, novelist, dramatist and motion-picture director and executive, and Elizabeth Patterson Dial, known on the screen as Patterson Dial, will be married at the bride's home, 310 North Lucerne Boulevard at 11 o'clock this morning.

Judge Avery, who lives next door to Mr. Hughes at 204 North Rossmore avenue, will perform the ceremony, which will be attended by a small circle of personal friends and relatives.

Following the marriage ceremony, the couple will entrain for a three weeks' honeymoon in New York. Upon their return to this city, and until a suitable home has been located, Mr. Hughes and his bride will establish a residence in a local hotel.

Plans for the immediate wedding were announced by Mr. Hughes yesterday. Their engagement and approaching marriage was announced several weeks ago and close friends predicted at that time that the wedding would follow very soon.

BENEFIT DANCE TONIGHT

The Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians and Catholic Order of Foresters will join in a benefit dance tonight at Eagles' Hall, 617 West Sixteenth street. The proceeds will be used for a charity fund.

CONSPIRACY BY GROCERS IS CHARGED

Salesman Testifies Salt Company Was Boycotted by Wholesalers

Decision of the Diamond Crystal Salt Company to sell its product to the chain-store grocers of Southern California resulted in the wholesale grocers and jobbers refusing a year ago to handle that product, Pearl Mayberry, a salesman for the salt company, testified yesterday before Federal Judge James. Mayberry was the only witness examined by the government in the case against leading wholesale grocery concerns charged with conspiracy to violate the Sherman antitrust law. The action grows out of information given government investigators by the so-called chain-store grocers, who charge their business has been hampered by unfair practices on the part of wholesalers.

The defendants are represented by Oscar Lawler, J. E. Degnan, Leroy A. Wright, Alfred E. Dennis and Robert B. Jackson. The government is represented by Henry A. Guiler, H. N. Ellis and Harry H. Atkinson, special assistants to the United States Attorney-General.

HARMONY URGED BY REPUBLICANS

co-operation on the part of the southern counties.

The response to his remarks was enthusiastic and in many instances took the form of specific and practical suggestions for county co-operation.

Among those welcoming the suggestion for concerted action by the southern counties were: Mayor McNab of San Bernardino; Mayor Evans of Riverside; C. C. Teague, president of the California Citrus Exchange and the California Walnut Growers' Association of Santa Paula; Assemblyman Foster of Fowler, Fresno county; Louis B. Mayer, president of Mayer-Metro-Goldwyn Studio of Culver City; State Senator Ralph Swing of San Bernardino; Chairman Finney of the Imperial County Republican Central Committee; Dr. Crease of Bakersfield; Chairman Shower of the Santa Barbara County Republican Central Committee; E. P. Clarke, editor of the Riverside Press; Louis H. Smith of Fresno, and State Senator Harry A. Chamberlin of Los Angeles county.

FACTORY PLANNED

One of the most interesting statements at yesterday's meeting was made by Mr. Mayer, who announced that a committee of experts from Rochester, N. Y., is now in Los Angeles investigating a proposal that a branch of the Eastman Kodak manufacturing plant be established here to serve the needs of the California motion-picture industry.

He said that the requirements of a plant such as that proposed will include a site of not less than fifteen acres and the employment of several hundred men and women.

Mr. Mayer urged the State Legislators present to study the needs of the motion-picture industry and to reject ill-advised or unfriendly legislation designed or restrict or hamper motion-picture progress and development.

Mr. Teague, one of the leading agriculturists and horticulturists of the State, spoke of the necessity for greater attention to legislation designed to aid California agriculture and announced that the agriculturists of the State have established a bureau at Sacramento to aid in the enactment of laws affecting agriculture.

ROADS DISCUSSED

Considerable attention was given by various speakers to highway construction and maintenance. Representatives from Bakersfield not only urged additional highways to facilitate transportation, but announced a determination to have Bakersfield designated an official airport in order to expedite the mail service of that community.

Several speakers indorsed a plan to establish a larger and better-equipped branch of the University of California in the south; an agreement was reached whereby the various counties will support development of Colorado River flood control and water conservation projects.

And as the meeting concluded, Mr. Smith of Fresno paid a warm tribute to Mr. Arnold as "an outstanding figure in the movement to serve Southern California and the State as a whole through a spirit of harmony and good understanding among all elements."

Those present voted the affair a great success and went on record as approving future conferences for further discussion.

BENNETT DEATH LAID TO MISHAP WITH GUN

LIFELONG FRIEND TESTIFIES HE THOUGHT FIREARM WAS EMPTY

A Coroner's jury found yesterday that Thomas Bennett, 70 years of age, of 722 West Eighteenth street, came to his death accidentally through a wound inflicted by Thomas Jacobs. The jury declared its opinion that Jacobs was not to blame for the accident. The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Monfort at the morgue of Mead & Mead, and three witnesses were heard, County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner, Jacobs, and John McClintock of 753 West Eighteenth street.

Jacobs said he was handling a supposedly unloaded gun. Bennett asked him jokingly to shoot a corn off his toe, and Jacobs snapped the gun without result. Bennett then suggested that Jacobs shoot a hole through his pocketbook in his breast pocket and Jacobs again pulled the trigger; the weapon was discharged and Bennett fell dead. The two men, it was testified, had been lifelong friends. The affair took place Sunday night.

MAN UNDER PEACE BOND

C. M. Bertram of 1045 South Vermont avenue was placed under a $250 peace bond yesterday by Justice Baird, after Mrs. Bertram had testified he had threatened her. Mrs. Bertram said on one occasion she had to summon officers to prevent her husband from doing violence to her.

TREE DOCTOR DENIES GUILT

R. F. Gehm Arraigned on Charge of Assault With Deadly Weapon in Florence

R. Frederick Gehm, eccentric "tree" surgeon of Florence, who is charged with assault with a deadly weapon on E. S. McConnell of 2205 East Florence avenue, yesterday pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before Judge Avery in Superior Court. His trial was set for January 15.

Gehm was returned to Superior Court on the criminal charge following a mental examination to which he was subjected by county alienists at the General Hospital. The alienists reported it their conclusion that Gehm was bordering on mental sickness but was not insane. Under the circumstances, Judge Avery said, he considered it inadvisable to dismiss the charge against Gehm and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hill concurred in this opinion.

The arrest of Gehm several weeks ago was followed by an investigation of several mysterious slayings that have occurred in the suburb in the past year. Deputy sheriffs assigned to the case have reported, however, that they have been unable to trace any of the deaths to Gehm, who is reported to be a crack shot with a rifle.

DEATH TOLL OF GAS INCREASES

under circumstances so similar as to constitute one of the strangest cases of coincidence in local history.

The victims were:

Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Lindsay, found dead yesterday in a bedroom of their home at 1133 Poinsettia Place, Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Holly, whose lifeless bodies were discovered in their home at 1741 Cherokee avenue, Hollywood, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Carson, found dead in their home at 137 South Pacific avenue, Glendale, Monday.

In addition to those named, several lives are reported to have been taken in Long Beach recently from the same cause and numerous narrow escapes from similar fates are recorded. Largely because of this, a meeting to devise preventive measures against future cases was held in Long Beach yesterday. It is expected that city and county officials will join in a movement to combat the menace of carbon monoxide poisoning by advancing methods of regulating the installation of gas heaters.

The latest case to come to light was that yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay. Conditions in their home led to the belief that they had been dead since Christmas Day. The theory was also advanced that Mr. and Mrs. Holly had been dead since Christmas when discovered Monday night.

As recounted to Detectives Trosper and Porter of Hollywood police division, and Deputy Sheriffs Sweesy and Stensland, the events leading up to the Lindsay deaths are substantially as follows:

Christmas Eve Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay visited at the home of Mr. Lindsay's brother, James Lindsay, at 6060 Carlton Way. They left early, going from there to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collins, friends, at 1252 Allen avenue, Glendale. They bade the Allens good night at a rather late hour and went to their home in Hollywood.

In a rear bedroom yesterday were found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay lying side by side, their arms so closely interwoven that it appeared as if an inkling of impending danger had come upon them and Mr. Lindsay had tried to help his wife from the room. The thought, if such there was, came too late.

Burning steadily at one side of the bedroom was a gas heater. The windows and doors of the room were closed. There were evidences of hemorrhages by both victims.

The bodies of the tragedy victims are being held at the LeRoy Bagley undertaking parlors while funeral arrangements are pending.

The circumstances surrounding the deaths of the Hollys virtually were the same.

TORCHIA TELLS OF THREATS

respondence files at Torchia's office failed to disclose the letters yesterday, but both Ernest M. Torchia and his brother are confident they can be found. A more complete search will be made today by the brother Joseph.

According to information turned over to Capt. William Bright of the Sheriff's homicide squad by Deputy Sheriff Modie and Investigator Ramsey of the District Attorney's office, the two letters were received only a short time apart and followed a lawsuit which Torchia had won at the price of incurring the enmity of a man on the opposing side. It is this man, Torchia accuses of sending him the bomb.

The first of the letters was about a page and a half long and the second was a little shorter.

Ernest M. Torchia was able to see Postoffice Inspector Hare for a short time yesterday, but could give nothing more definite than is already known, Hare declared. Hare also stated there has been no report from the San Francisco postal inspectors who are trying to discover by whom the bomb was mailed there.

An investigation of a Glendale angle of the case was made yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Weir and Investigator Ramsey, but nothing definite was learned.

Torchia's condition is reported by Dr. H. R. Boyer, his physician, to be showing daily improvement.

Investigations of Advertising Made by Bureau

More than 3000 investigations of doubtful advertising were made by the Better Business Bureau connected with the Los Angeles Advertising Club, during the past year, it was announced by Ferris Milder, director of the bureau, at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club at the Biltmore yesterday.

Mr. Miller made this statement in connection with a brief review of the bureau's activities during 1924. He stated that some 1100 of these investigations had been made upon complaints reaching the bureau, while the others had been undertaken voluntarily by the organization.

Luther G. Reynolds, superintendent of the Methodist Hospital addressed the club on profits and service in business, stressing the point that the old "rule of gold" is gradually giving way to the "golden rule," in commercial activities today.

The fifth division will be headed by W. R. Scoville, Pasadena bank president. His aides will be Howard M. Walker, F. H. Bagley, J. C. Perrine and R. D. Walker. Frank H. Randall, as marshal of the sixth division, will be aided by C. W. Ide, F. W. Birnie, George F. Willis and Max R. Ward. William Easterbook will head the seventh division, assisted by D. C. McKenzie, Harley Crane, Albert W. Blake and H. S. Kimbrough.

All the marshals and aides will be mounted on horseback and will wear high hats and a red-and-white riding costume. A number of thoroughbred horses, world prize winners, will be seen in the parade. They were donated for the occasion by Revell English, wealthy horse breeder of this city. Dago Dear, La Paloma, Key and Franciner are some of the prize-winning horses that will be ridden.

Comfort stations and emergency hospitals have been established all over the city to care for the injured and other emergency victims. Three ambulances will be in constant service and numerous physicians will be available at various parts of the city.

BANKRUPT PLEA FILED BY LEWIS

DISCREPANCY CITED

It is asserted further by the creditors in their petition for a receiver, that Lewis's assets are not more than $1,000,000, and that the difference between that amount and the total received by him has been dissipated. The creditors assert Lewis has transferred large properties to his wife with the view of defrauding his creditors.

In connection with the founding of Atascadero, in San Luis Obispo county, Lewis originally bought 22,463 acres of land for $786,380, the creditors aver. Of that acreage they say Lewis sold about 6872 acres for approximately $4,000,000. Other operations of Lewis included the purchase of 946 acres of beach property for $1,200,000 which was handled through the Atascadero Beach Land and Improvement Company.

It is charged further that at the present time Lewis is engaged "in attempting to promote a gigantic merger of all his interests by organizing a merger corporation to which he proposes to transfer all his personal holdings."

In his stipulation, Lewis admits he committed acts of bankruptcy by advancing money to certain persons. The money was given them, he says, as personal favors to aid them through periods of distress growing out of illness. Lewis makes no reference to asserted liabilities other than the $500,000 he admits having owed since 1923. He says he does not own a majority of stock in the Atascadero Beach Land and Improvement Company. That stock, he says, is owned by the Atascadero Estates, Inc., and under a pooling agreement, is subject to the vote of a committee of creditors of the Atascadera Beach Land and Improvement Company.

It took four lines to express the opinion of C. E. Rawson, 4611 Prospect street:

The man who wrote this verse
Could have written nothing worse.
His motive may have been sublime,
But I can find no word to rhyme.

Mr. Rawson's quatrain rings like a challenge to the Limerick Editor. His answer is, wait and see!

TRAVEL TAXES TRAINS TO WEST

Migration to Southland is Speeded Up by Cold

California Limited Running in Three Sections

Virtually All Space Sold by Santa Fe Road

Demand for space on California Limited, crack Santa Fe transcontinental train, are so heavy that three full sections are scheduled daily from now to February 15, next, and on January 6 and 7 four sections will be run, according to a message received here Saturday by James B. Duffy, general passenger agent of the road. The message was from W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager, at Chicago. He added that virtually all the space in the three daily sections had been sold and that four sections would probably be run on other days also. Extra cars are being added, it was said, to each of the other four daily Santa Fe trains from Chicago to Los Angeles to take care of the demand.

"The cold weather of the last few days in the Midwest has started the migration in earnest," said Mr. Duffy.

CHARGES IN DOPE CASE DISMISSED

Family Feud Said to Have Caused "Plant" of Drugs in Accused Man's Yard

Evidence that information resulting in a charge of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act against Andrew Phillip, 1826 Brooklyn avenue, and others, grew out of a family quarrel, resulted in dismissal of the charge yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Long. The action was taken on recommendation of Narcotic Agent Despain. At the same time Sylvester Falondo, brother-in-law of Andrew Phillip, was released under $15,000 bond pending action of the Federal grand jury on a charge of dealing in narcotics.

The case against Phillip, originated November 15, last, when the narcotic agents entered Phillip's house and arrested Phillip, his mother and his son, Angelo Phillip, on a charge of dealing in narcotics. According to the agents, they found in the Phillip yard $11 in marked money which Ratell D. Martini told the agents he had paid for thirty-seven grains of morphine delivered to him by Phillip in the presence of his mother and son. Later the agents arrested John Murphy and Hugo Ghio at Andrew Phillip's ranch in Fruitland, where they found half an ounce of morphine.

According to the narcotic agents, Martini afterwards came to their office and admitted that Falondo had given him the marked money found in Phillip's yard, and also the thirty-seven grains of morphine supposed to have been purchased there. According to the agents, Martini said Falondo gave him $100 to say he bought the morphine from Phillip.

New Motor Car Theft System is Uncovered

A new system of motor-car thefts has been uncovered, according to Detective Lieutenants Neece and Page, who yesterday announced the arrest of Earl Boney at Winslow, Ariz., on an embezzlement charge. Mrs. Frances Boney, his wife, was arrested in Monrovia and is now in the County Jail, and H. P. Norris, from whom the officers said they got information leading to the arrest of the Boneys, is in the City Jail as a vagrant.

Boney, it is asserted, bought a car on contract in Monrovia, drove it to Texas and reported it stolen. In Texas he registered it in the name of Frances Harris, returned it to California and reregistered it here. Then he traded it to another dealer as first payment on another new car, which he likewise drove to Texas and registered in the name of George Turner. He was on his way back with this car when arrested, the officers said.

A telegram from Boney at Winslow to his wife, which he signed James Leach, was intercepted and aided in tracing him, the officers said. Norris was arrested the 15th inst., by the Hollywood division police.

BIDS TO BE OPENED

City to Consider Offers on Bonds Totaling $11,500,000

Investment houses throughout the country will be notified today by City Clerk Domingues that the City Council will open bids on January 13 for the sale by the city of $11,500,000 Los Angeles municipal bonds. Bidders will fix the rate of interest which is not to exceed 4 3-4 per cent.

The bids will be for the entire block of securities. The bonds to be sold are as follows: $4,000,000 outfall sewer; $3,000,000 water; $1,500,000 power; $500,000 viaducts and $500,000 street openings and widenings. There is a possibility that the Council may today add to the block of additional power bonds amounting to $3,500,000 deposited in the city's sinking fund.

Suspended Jail Sentence Given Woman on Plea of Guilty

Alice Brown, who pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny in connection with the theft of four gown from the shop of Sam Schapp, 7220 West Seventh street, yesterday was given a suspended jail sentence of six months by Judge Avery. Miss Brown was asserted to have concealed the gowns, which Schapp valued at $290, beneath her dress. She was arrested at the door of the establishment.

CALLS THE BLUFF

Some insist that the modern girl does not make as good a wife as the old-fashioned maiden, but she is being picked out for the trial with celerity and faces the test with infinite ease.

DUTCH CLEANSER

The exteriors of business buildings in Berlin have to be scrubbed every month. This is a shining sanitary process that would have made Rome roar in remote days. The Germans purpose to keep their capital clean and in this may furnish a wholesome example for other world centers. It might be well for Pittsburg to try out this idea.

CHANGE OF HEART

The city of Valencia in Spain has turned against Ibanez, the historical romancer. Because of his verbal attacks upon his King the Valentians have changed the name of their public square. It was known as Ibanez Park, but it will bear another title—to be determined by the fathers of the town. Possibly they will name it for Alfonso, which would be a just visitation upon the ebullient author.

SCENES FOR THE SIGHTLESS

Now they are making moving pictures for the blind. Of course, the blind do not actually see them, but the films are of a type that have an express appeal to this class of the afflicted and they are given with a narrative and rhythmic accompaniment that makes their interpretation easy. At a recent special production in the East more than 1200 blind persons were present and all expressed a keen knowledge of the picture—which was a story with a blind lighthouse-keeper as its hero.

TEXTS FOR DETRACTORS

To avoid providing texts for scandalmongers and detractors of Southern California it would just be as well for community news writers to avoid their trifling ills. If a dog has a cold or a cow "chucks" her cud, these trifles should not be regarded as of sufficient importance to be recorded among the interesting neighborhood events. The citizen who always feels "fine" when you ask him, paying no attention to the trivial disturbances of his liver, is a Good Samaritan in offsetting the ready and cheerful grumbler about trifles.

OUR LOYAL CANADIANS

Southern California has made no mistake in opening her arms to the many natives of Canada who have chosen to come here and become patriotic citizens of the United States. So far little of the untruth heaped upon us has come from the press of Canada, though some of their newspapers have complained of the great number of people they are losing to California. All the good opinions we have expressed of our Canadian fellow-citizens have been fully justified, as shown by the prompt action of several hundred of them recently gathered in a reunion at Santa Monica. Having read of the unfounded detracting stories that have been circulated by the eastern press, they took unanimous action "to do all in their power to refute the false tales."

VOTES FOR MONEY

There is a proposition before the Italian Parliament which would accord the franchise to the women of that country on the payment of $2. This is getting away from the old Tammany idea. Instead of paying $2 for a vote the voter would cough up the two bucks. Wonder what the result would be in America if the citizens had to put up $2 a head for the right to vote? If instead of battling over suffrage so long the ballot had been accorded the ladies on their paying $2 each what would have been the result? Possibly in a majority of cases the women would decline to vote unless ballots were advertised as being marked down to $1.98. But the idea of charging citizens for the right to vote is preposterous. The explanation is that Italy needs the money.

THE MIRACLE MAN

Some details come from Paris concerning an invention by Manrico Comparo, an Italian electrical expert, by which typewritten messages may be transmitted by wireless direct to the person for whom they are intended and without the possibility of their being caught or interpreted by another person. This would beat communication with the spirit world. The sending apparatus much resembles an ordinary typewriter, but it has another keyed attachment which is called the combiner. When one of the keys of the typewriter is struck it sends a current through the combiner, which selects a Morse code letter in conformity with an agreed combination and which operates but one receiving instrument. The receiver is apparently another typewriter and it takes and records the messages just as it is written at the other end of the circuit. It is claimed that ultimately it will be possible for a business man or exporter to have a letter typed to a correspondent at the other end of the earth and it will be received and read by the intended person as fast as it is written and without the possibility of being interpreted by another. This sounds like black magic, but stranger things have happened.

BACK TO THE WARD SYSTEM

The decision of the California Supreme Court which declared that the proposition providing for district representation in the City Council carried at the May 6 election means a return to the ward system of electing Los Angeles City Councilmen. The next City Council, which takes office next July, will comprise fifteen members, one elected from each of fifteen geographical city districts.

The Times has opposed district representation, but the Supreme Court decision has created a condition of fact which must be met squarely by the people of Los Angeles from the moment the present City Council has districted the city. In February the districting should be completed in readiness for the campaign preceding the May primaries. March and April will witness the candidates for municipal offices taking the field and asking for support.

Here will come the real opportunity for the people of Los Angeles to demonstrate that this return to the ward system does not necessarily mean a return to its evils; to prove by the quality of the candidates nominated next May and elected next June that district representation can be made to function for the best interests of the entire city. The Times opposed district representation for the reason that experience had shown in this and other cities that it fosters corruption in the hands of neighborhood political "bosses" controlling the votes in their wards so that the municipal government became, in the old days, one of "bosses" rather than of the people. The ward system has always meant pork-barrel politics in the Council chamber, with each Councilman working solely for his own district and none for the city as a whole.

The people of Los Angeles who contribute millions of their dollars annually in increasing amounts for the support of the city government are awakening to the necessity of taking a real interest in what is going on at the City Hall, as was shown last spring, when the new charter was adopted by an overwhelming vote. This charter provides an improved machinery for the city government. If the same interest is shown by the people next spring in choosing capable, broad-gauged, experienced, successful men and women to office in the city government to handle this governmental machinery the hopes of the people of the city for an efficient, economical city government will be realized.

The fifteen City Councilmen will constitute the board of directors, with the Mayor as the general manager, one of the largest business corporations in the West—the Los Angeles city government. The next Mayor, it is hoped, will be a man of outstanding ability, force and experience, one who will do his part during his four-year term to give the people of Los Angeles a city government of which they will be proud. But the next Mayor's administration cannot be a success unless the City Council will work with the Mayor, as co-ordinate trustees of the people, to make the municipal government function for the people. The best city charter ever drafted will fail to fulfill the expectations hoped for it if the men chosen to function under it are narrow-minded, selfish, of small-town caliber, thinking only of making themselves "solid" with the voters of their wards and caring not a whoop for the rest of the city.

District representation in the City Council can be made to work successfully if the people of Los Angeles will awake to the critical situation brought into existence by the reason of the Supreme Court decision, determine that from the districts there shall be sent to the Council men and women who will appreciate the seriousness of their tasks and the responsibilities of their trusteeships and then, by their votes, see to it that these men and women are nominated and elected.

LOS ANGELES, THE MALIGNED

It is bad enough to enter a new year with a new lie upon one's lips, but to sit down and deliberately write a defamatory fabrication for broadcast publication is iniquitous in the extreme. Yet with his 1925 calendar before him, the little Denver or Chicago editor will prove his Ananias-like character by clicking off upon his typewriter a nefarious falsehood about conditions in Los Angeles and Southern California and proceed to print it with the ill-founded conviction that he is doing a smart thing. Los Angeles, because of its marvelous progress and great power of attraction to the people of his State, probably will be attacked in some new and weird article which shall tell of a bread line extending for blocks up Broadway, or that the people of this city are dying of thirst because there is no drinking water, or that all the streets are dark and the trolley lines have stopped running, or that public schools, churches and assembly halls have been thrown open to house the vast army of unemployed.

Our anticipation of the utterance of these new lies is predicated upon the publication of many former ones of like character. We of California are so fed up with misrepresentations made by the liars of Denver, Chicago and other cities beyond the Sierras that our stomachs are in a way to become inured to this tough diet.

On hearing a convincing denial of such misstatements, the outsider wonders how these editors get that way—upon what meat they feed to make them such masters of equivocation and rank exaggeration. But upon his arrival here the tourist begins to see it all, and when he becomes acquainted with the situation he laughs. For there is nothing more provocative of mirth than jealousy, and he sees in the stupendous progress of our city that which makes the green-eyed monster of the East see red and wag his tongue in venomous spite.

Then, too, the wise visitor is mindful of the fact that slander never serves any valid purpose—that it invariably reacts upon the slanderer. The visitor would be warranted in the belief that his own loss of faith in the veracity of his home newspaper is in itself a sort of punishment. Still worse if he and others straightway find merit in the false in one false in all theory as applied to those journals.

But if he is pugnaciously inclined he may wonder why we do not retaliate in kind. He would not greatly blame us if we were to send out reports that Denver was dead and deserted, that a blizzard had decimated Chicago, that the Great Lakes had dried up, that Iowa was buried under fifty feet of snow or that an epidemic of smallpox had sent a dying wail along the Wabash. Yet when he comes to appreciate the good nature and truthful disposition of Californians he will see that we are incapable of such retaliatory mendacity. Then, if he looks at the weather reports, he will see in the case of Denver with its recent 14-below-zero record and Los Angeles with frequent mid-winter records above 80, that there are as many degrees of difference in temperature between the two places as there are differences in editorial temperament.

Omar Khayyam says that the new year revives old desires; but if it also revives old prejudices and inspires new lies Los Angeles can stand it. For our people should know that while their city continues to be so increasingly populous and prosperous it is bound to be a shining mark for the arrows and javelins of envious communities.

The most convincing reply to the slanderers of Southern California is a copy of the Midwinter Number of The Times, out tomorrow morning. To the purpose of setting out the exact truth of conditions here it is particularly dedicated.

THE CHIMES

Resounding to the skies the clang of bells and music of chimes ringing the old year out and the new year in. Dong, ding, clang, the bells and chimes. Like an unwritten page the new year lies before us.

These chimes and bells denote birthdays and tell us that we are drawing near to the final doom of all mankind. How they mock us with the recollection of vanished joys and warn us of barren years yet to be. Dong, ding, clang.

Gone forever are the dear ones who made gala times and festival happenings bright, and still we linger like boats in the trough of a sullen sea, our motive power wrecked, our sails rent and listen, listen, listen to the warning that sounds from afar.

Each year the bells and chimes ring louder, until finally the softened haze of creeping years muffles the sound and we sink to rest to the measure of a good-night song. Dong, ding, clang.

The bells and chimes say make each day of life the day of love's opportunity, for tomorrow you shall be folded up like a scroll and effaced from the chart. Dong, ding, clang.

The sweet-tolled chimes urge that everything be forgotten but love. They say, do away with envy and hatred, covetousness, jealousy, cruelty. Let them have no place in the hearts of men.

Across the sky the message of the bells is to be kind to one another, tender-hearted and merciful. Dong, ding, clang.

The bells say do each other no harm, help rather than hinder. The world is full of utter loneliness, say the chimes, so look up, lift up.

With what vociferous clamor the bells and chimes beat upon the soul!

The coming of each year is a count of losses and for all of us heavier crosses. Ding, dong, clang.

It is growing darker, colder, as the heart and soul grow older. New cares and sorrows come, dark days and darker morrows, the ghosts of dead loves haunt us, the ghosts of changed friends taunt us. Dong, ding, clang.

Each year go more dead faces, as loved ones leave vacant places, everywhere the sad eyes meet us and in the evening dusk they greet us us and entreat us to come to them. Dong, ding, clang.

The chimes say we are growing old and we are more alone each year, we can have no new affection, only recollection, deeper sorrow and dejection.

But the chimes and bells also say that the truer life draws nigher and the morning star climbs higher, earth's hold on us grows slighter and the heavy burdens lighter and the dawn immortal brighter. Dong, ding, clang.

FOR A DRY DAY

Police in New York and Chicago are worried over the possibilities of a too wet celebration of New Year's Day. In Los Angeles the only wetness we fear is the kind that may interfere with the Stanford-Notre Dame football game and the Pasadena Rose Tournament. We can handle the other kind.

LA BELLE DAME SANS MERCI

"Oh, what can ail thee, knight at arms,
So haggard and so woebegone,
Why do you con so eagerly
Yon lexicon?

"I met a lady yestere'en—
A peach she was, who said to me,
'What is a large Siberian cat
In letters three?'

"She had a volume in her hand,
And we sat down upon two chairs—
And pored upon a diagram
Of numbered squares.

"We sought and sought for words to fit
That irritating diagram,
But only three or four we found
Were worth a rap.

"We got the old thesaurus out,
We thumbed its pages, one by one—
We toiled for hours, but did not get
The darn thing done.

"And now the habit has got me,
My soul with bitter woe is filled,
And I'll go mad, unless I get
Those squares all filled.

"And that is why I sojourn here,
In meditation dour and deep.
Say, what's a thirteen-letter word
That means a sheep?"

TRY THIS ON YOUR TYPEWRITER

Now is the time for all good Californians from other States to come to the defense of their adopted home.

Southern California is the home of an astonishing number of old-home State societies, made up of people who love the States from which they came, but have found they have good reason to love California more. They are good people, people this State values and who are respected no less back home. They know well that the almost incredible libels on California now being frantically circulated by many newspapers throughout the Middle West and East are baseless and wildly imaginative. Misinformation is bad for everybody. And, no matter how ridiculous a lie is, there always are people foolish enough or provincial enough to believe it—especially if it gets into print.

Wouldn't this be an excellent idea for the numerous State societies which picnic at Sycamore Grove and elsewhere to consider?

WEALTH AND WHEELS

Detroit is said to have become the richest city in the world—in proportion to its population—and all because of the automobile industry, which was utterly unknown twenty-five years ago. In its income-tax returns the city is ahead of Chicago, which has three times its population. The motor industry of Detroit is responsible for the payment of more than $100,000,000 a year to the government.

JUST RUMINATIN'

By The Foothill Philosopher

Perhaps the best way to judge a man's character is by the way he makes you think and feel when he is not saying anything.

It is always wise to distrust the sincerity of the compliments of a person who is acquainted with your vanity.

That for which a person earnestly seeks he is almost certain to find, although no one excepting himself may be aware of his discovery. On the other hand, if one is not looking for the thing he needs he is not likely to find it and if he does he probably will not recognize it.

* * *

It will pay you to think twice before accepting the doctrine to the effect that the mere fact of dreaming about a thing long enough will bring the dream to materialization. As a man dreameth, so he imagineth himself to be, although sooner or later he is likely to wake up in a house inhabited only by dreamers like himself. It is true that the great characters of the world have been dreamers, but they have also been thinkers and doers.

LETTERS TO The Times

On the Bright Road

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of December 26, under the heading "More Kind Words," I notice Mr. O'Dea, in the Des Moines Register, says, "There is one difference between Iowa and California, that is, Iowa has everything and does not know it, and California has nothing and does not know it."

There is one thing, if no more, that I am sure every Iowan knows that has ever been in any other State. That is that Iowa can boast of the worst roads of any State in the Union. Possibly Mr. O'Dea has been so busy ever since his birth that he has not had the time to leave Des Moines or the means to leave upon. Had he been with me four years ago the coming January I am confident he would brag about his State even more than he does. He could have gone home and written columns about Iowa's good roads. I was there buying cattle and one day rode nearly the entire day in an automobile and covered twenty-eight miles. No, I am mistaken, the better part of the day was spent digging the car out of the mud.

The saying, "When ignorance is bliss it is folly to be wise," may fit Mr. O'Dea's case. At any rate, it would appear that Iowa is a good State to leave, as is evidenced by the thousands of Iowans that have left it to come to California, and I will venture the assertion that not 1 per cent of them could be hired to go back, either to live or to die. "The disease" called jealousy surely is a bad affliction.

You Knockers, Listen

GARDENA, Dec. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Why do. Yes By Hokey dam why do they knock Southern California Ill tell ye Theyre Jealous. I come out here in 1912 and Dad burn my leathers Ill be here in 2012. Git that you Eastern clamity howlers and crosstie nockers When I hear a poor prune knockin, some place I jist nachally put Him down as a Failure in it and a guy like him would go hungry in a rich gold mine. to dern honory do a little diggin.

Listen you, shut up and listen to me in the fust place I wanta Impress (heavy on th press) on your delapidated minds, that I was once an Easterner and lived in the east for thirty nine years and what I dont know about the East well I know enough But Im not a nocker and any place or cammunity that allows me to hang m, bat I aint gona nock.

I hung my hat up in Southern California in 1912, and its still a hangin, cause I dont need it, come out you, as I sed befo, clamity howlers and you can see my hat still hangin, cause we have reel onest to God weather out here, now listen you aforementioned clamity howler and nockers, I have been here Every blessed day and if there was thousands died of the Bubonic plague I did not know it (and I get three daily papers,) and if any one lost their life in the brush fire I did not know it, and the Hoof and Mouth disease didn't bother me any more than the one in Houston and the brush fire wasnt a dern bit worse than the one in my native state Indiana, you guys didnt make any noise when you got a dose of your own medicine.

But when some little frivolous thing happens in california you git out your tin horns, and I hope some of you blow your fool heads off.

Jist a minit I aint thru yet Im gona eat a dish of Ice cream. I suppose you guys gotta a plenty Ice jist now and will have two or three months more and it aint artificial nuther you cant tell me fer I been thar. gee this ocean breeze and Ice cream would make a man slap his Grandmother, and you old drawed up, as I sed befo Clamity howlers an nockers if you would eat a dish of Ice cream you wouldnt get thawed out until the middle of next August.

Yes I gotta hunk of california soil and if any of you nockers ever are fortunate enough to come out here you better leave yo hammers and as a warnin, if you happen to start any of your nockin in my Presence dere will be a grave digger pattin you in the face wid a shovel an listen, I aint alone cause I got a heck of a lotta friends all around me, of course when you peruse this you will put me down as some poor prune That dont know nuthin But listen aforementioned nockers I am wise enuf to pick out the best spot on Gods Green earth to spend my days.

Useless Litigation

LONE PINE, Dec. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your issue of December 27 there appears an article from the pen of Clara Shortridge Foltz which states facts that every person who ever gives such matters a thought must agree with: "What we need is not more judges, but less litigation and incidentally more lawyers capable of settling quarrels out of court." might be supplemented with the statement that we also need magistrates who will not only discourage litigation, when possible, but will absolutely refuse to issue warrants of arrest, except where there is good reason to believe that a crime has been committed and that there are sufficient facts or evidence at hand to base a prosecution on.

From my observation and experience as a justice of the peace I believe that not only 50 per cent, but 80 or 90 per cent, of the matter that ordinarily burdens the courts should have been kept out in the first place, and would have been if the officials and all concerned had a proper regard for the interests of the taxpayers, who must foot the bills for much costly and useless court procedure.

Seeing Them First

Taking troubles cheerfully, as they come, is to be commended; but still better is the habit of seeing them coming and taking the necessary steps to head them off.—[Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel.

PEN POINTS

No. 1925. Due at midnight, December 31. On time.

It is easy to get a reputation as an intellectual. Just cuss morest.

A small man can be just as dangerous as a big one, but he seldom is.

Man's greatest inventions are the radio, the X-ray and the sweet-potato pie.

Hand-holding doesn't appeal to the modern woman unless it's the whip hand.

Still, if there were no strangers, on whom would people practice good manners?

Now that Jack Doyle has a permit to pull off a boxing match in Vernon he is likely to go about and do that very thing.

Another test of blood pressure is to be in a hurry and come upon a placid cow on the highway.

"When is beer intoxicating?" Speaking offhand, we should say along about 11 p.m.

To be alone and frozen and hungry is terrible unless you are waiting for ducks.

Almost everything touches the warm heart of Congress except the woes of the white-collar man.

Americanism: Three families settle down; they issue bonds; they ask for a Federal building.

Inventions change few fundamentals, and the radio hasn't affected anything except bedtime.

A good man need not fear strangers. No hawklike eyes watch him except his wife's.

If he has that hunted look his suit case may contain either a poker roll or a quart.

For that matter, we might learn valuable lessons by trying anti-aircraft guns on the Los Angeles.

A man is settling down in life when he isn't ashamed to ask the clerk for something cheaper.

It is estimated that if all law violators were caught the crime wave would be seventeen years behind.

The only music typically American is that made by the mocking bird, the saxophone and the cash register.

Correct this sentence: "My mother was sick today," said she, "so I've really enjoyed the housework."

Second-hand experience never teaches a man anything.

There is little in belief, there is everything in practice.

When a blind man marries he usually gets his eyes opened.

The value of experience depends upon how much you can sell it for.

A parking space is where you leave the car to have the fenders crumbled.

Blessings come disguised. Most of us get what we deserve without recognizing it.

The man who boasts of his family tree is never the one to saw wood and say nothing.

Some people imagine their being sympathetic when really they are only being inquisitive.

A NEW YEAR PROMISE

For me alone to write upon through the year I go;
No act too small to put down but it must the truth—
For when the year is over it's record there, forsooth.

A visioning I see it as it should fold each day
By precept and example that's gone along the way.
I hope that when the page is filled won't be shamed to see
A single, solitary thing that's been done by me.

Each day a deed, a well-done deed and done with heart and hand,
Each day a smile, a cheerful smile that is heart-whole and grand,
Each day a word, a kindly word all who have the need,
Each deed and word and thought there sown to be a blessed seed.

And somehow with that knowledge there I feel a better man
(And it's the least that one can do) when one does what one can.
Encouraged thus, I frame a prayer for friends and neighbors dear
That naught will come to cloud each good each day the whole year through.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

The Wilshire Country Club was the setting yesterday afternoon for one of the charmingly appointed affairs of the week when Miss Frances Keach of South Ardmore Boulevard entertained with a luncheon, honoring Miss Margaret Martin, debutante of the season, and Miss Dorothy Fulton, daughter of the Dudley Fultons, who is home from Mt. Vernon Seminary for the Christmas vacation. The decorations were attractively carried out with Christmas motif, crimson roses and ferns forming the centerpiece of the table, with ferns and satin ribbons on the cloth, and the board was beautifully but softly lighted by Christmas candles in silver candelabra. Miss Keach, Miss Martin and Miss Fulton were classmates at Mt. Vernon in Washington, D. C., last year. Among the guests were Miss Fulton's two house guests, Miss Florence Boardman and Miss Mary Morton of Piedmont, who are visiting Miss Fulton and her sister, Miss Margaret Fulton, at their home in Windsor Boulevard. Miss Morton, who has a host of friends here, visited Miss Margaret Martin last summer and is returning to her northern home today, while Miss Boardman will remain over the week-end.

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton Heath of 1537 Arlington avenue will keep open house tomorrow (New Year's Day) from 4 to 7 o'clock in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Parker Newton of Sioux City, Iowa, who are visiting here en route to Honolulu. Mrs. Newton formerly made her home in Los Angeles and with Mr. Newton and their three sons, James Jr., Charles and Samuel are sailing Saturday for an extended trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

Engagement Announced

An engagement announced recently, which is of much interest to many friends, was that of Miss Beatrice Lewin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lewin of West Thirty-sixth place, to Herbert Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Ray, the news being told at a charmingly arranged bridge party given by Miss Shefra Sax at her home. One of the attractive features of the announcement was the choosing at the same time of the bridesmaids and maid of honor who will assist at the wedding. The decorations were carried out with a profusion of Chinese lilies and ferns, and the place cards were orange-blossomed fancies and in the center of the table was a beautifully decorated wedding cake with wreath of orange blossoms and tiny leaves with the inscription Betrothed—Beatrice-Herbert. The attendants at the approaching wedding which, however, will not take place until June, include Miss Sax as maid of honor, and Miss Birdie Lee, Miss Anita Pallor, Miss Bertha Ross and Miss Goldie Sax as the bridesmaids.

Dancing Party

One of the enjoyable affairs of the week was the dancing party with which Miss Florence Hamburger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hamburger, entertained Monday evening at the home of her parents in Vermont avenue, honoring Miss Margaret Morrow and Miss Louise Gordon, who are home visiting for the Christmas holidays. There was a beautifully lighted tree which formed one of the charming features of the evening and the charming young hostess was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morrow. The ceiling of the ballroom was lined with floating balloons in all the brilliant colorings and at a given signal these were released and floated down in the ballroom as favors for the dancing guests.

Evening Party

Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp are entertaining this evening with a party at the Wilshire Country Club, honoring Miss Mary Ennis and Miss Gertrude Ennis, formerly of San Francisco, who have come to Los Angeles to make their permanent home. The Misses Ennis have taken a home at Fifth and Norton avenues.

Chamberlain-Tinkham

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Alice Christine Chamberlain to John Howard Tinkham, the ceremony taking place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart S. Salisbury, Saturday afternoon, the 20th inst., at 4 o'clock, Rev. Herbert Booth Smith officiating. There were no attendants, but two dainty little flower girls, Susanne Salisbury and Lorene Whittemore in frocks of blue and white and lavender, carried baskets filled with rose petals. The bride wore a becoming costume of white satin with trimmings of pearls and rhinestones, the veil being held in place by orange blossoms and she carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Tinkham was graduated from Liggett College in Detroit, Mich., and later from Wells College, while Mr. Tinkham holds his alma mater in University of California at Berkeley. Mrs. Tinkham is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Chamberlain of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Home Again

Miss Rena McDonald, who has been enjoying a two weeks' visit in New York City and the East, returned home the day before Christmas.

In the North

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Adams of 1409 Commonwealth avenue are visiting in San Francisco, guests at the Commonwealth Club at the eighty-fifth candle birthday reception to Edward F. Adams, founder of the club. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Judge Lawler and E. F. Adams are the surviving members of the original five charter members.

Luncheon

Mrs. W. M. Wilson of 821 Fedora street entertained yesterday afternoon with a luncheon at the Ambassador, honoring Mrs. Otis V. Collin and Mrs. John Rutledge of San Francisco. The decorations were poinsettias and foliage and covers were arranged for the hostess, honor guests, Mrs. Stanley Visel, Mrs. Robert Graff, Mrs. Dwight Whiting, Mrs. Marlow Bekins, Mrs. W. H. Buskirk, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. Arthur W. Green, Mrs. Victor Ford Collins, Mrs. Edward Scheller, Mrs. Russell Meiling, Mrs. Richard Megan, Mrs. Hooper Churchill and Mrs. Jule Barnam.

BETROTHAL DISCLOSED AT PARTY

Wedding Expected to be June Event

[Witzel Photo]

THE attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lewin recently announced her engagement to Herbert Ray at a charmingly arranged bridge party given at the home of Miss Shefra Sax. No date has been set as yet for the wedding, which, however, probably will be one of the events of June.

ACTIVITIES REVIEWED

Traffic Commission Head Tells of Year's Achievements

Accomplishments of the year were briefly reviewed yesterday by President Paul G. Hoffman at a directors' luncheon of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, given at the Alexandria. The full annual report, however, will not be ready for distribution until the annual members' meeting to be held next Wednesday.

OFFICERS ARE FINED FOR STRIKING YOUTH

M. S. Wolf and M. A. Lucas, special officers at the Penticostal Mission, 125 1-2 South Spring street, were fined $25 each yesterday in Police Judge Chambers's court, for assault upon William Myring, a youth. It was charged that on the 14th inst. Myring and George Custer got in a scuffle with the officers and that Wolf and Lucas each struck Myring with a club.

Breakfast

Grapefruit
Poached Eggs on Toast
Whole-wheat Muffins, Marmalade
Milk Coffee

Luncheon

Cheese Souffle
Hot Rolls
Apple Tart
Milk Coffee

Dinner

Consomme with Rice
Young Onions
Baked Ham Orange Sauce
Cauliflower
Browned Sweet Potatoes
Apple and Celery Salad
Jellied Snow Pudding
Chocolate Cake
Milk Coffee

CHEESE SOUFFLE

For six portions melt in a small saucepan four and a half tablespoons of butter and beat into it with a wire egg beater five tablespoons of sifted flour, mixed with a few grains of cayenne pepper; beat until smooth and beat in gradually a scant cup of scalded milk and one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt; beat and cook until thick and smooth. Place over hot water, add half a cup of grated Edam cheese and half a cup of grated Parmesan cheese, beat and cook for one minute. Remove from the fire and beat in the lightly beaten yolks of five eggs and beat until cool. Half an hour before serving beat the mixture well, carefully fold in the stiffly beaten whites of five eggs, pour into a buttered souffle dish and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes. Serve as soon as removed from the oven.

APPLE TART

Line a flour-dusted pie tin with a good rich pie pastry and fill with circular overlapping rows of peeled and thinly sliced apples, working them toward the center to make a thick layer. Sprinkle over six tablespoons of sugar mixed with one teaspoon of cinnamon, dot with bits of butter and bake thirty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve hot or cold.

ORANGE SAUCE

Cut the thin skin of two oranges in small even-sized dice, cover with water; simmer for five minutes and drain; place in a saucepan two tablespoons of butter, melt, add two tablespoons of flour and stir and cook until a nice light brown; beat in one cup of gravy from the ham, the strained juice of one orange, and one tablespoon of lemon juice; simmer slowly until the sauce will coat a spoon; add the meat of one orange cut in small dice and the orange skin, heat and serve.

APPLE AND CELERY SALAD

Mix six cups of peeled and sliced apples with one and a half cups of peeled and diced white celery, one cup of diced pineapples, half a cup of broken walnut meats and three-quarters of a cup of mayonnaise dressing. Mound the mixture on lettuce-covered plates and garnish with strips of pimento.

SNOW PUDDING

Soak two tablespoons of granulated gelatine in half a sup of cold water for twenty minutes. Boil two cups of water with one cup of sugar until clear. Remove from the fire, stir in the gelatine, stir until dissolved, add the strained juice and grated rind of two lemons and let stand until nearly cold; strain into a bowl and when nearly set place in a bowl of ice water and beat until frothy; continue beating and beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth. Pour into six wet, chilled glasses and let stand in a cold place one hour. Serve with a cream custard sauce or whipped cream.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Diet in neurities, arthritis deformans, et al.

Mrs. A.—It is impossible for me to answer or diagnose personally. I can give you some general suggestions through the column as there are many who suffer from similar trouble as yours.

You are terribly overweight. For five feet, three inches, in height you should not weigh more than 125 to 130 pounds, so at 180 you have at least fifty pounds excess. I get many hundreds of letters from those who have reduced and lost their neuritis, rheumatism, and allied disorders, when they lost their excess weight. There is no doubt that the symptoms of many forms of chronic joint and muscular rheumatism and neuritis are markedly increased by the poisons arising from overeating. There is also no doubt that in some instances these poisons are the direct cause of these disorders. Infected teeth, tonsils and other spots of infection have to be considered also as causes.

It seems to me that it would be a good plan for you to go on an orange-juice fast. Take the juice of a good-sized orange every two hours and a glass of water every hour. You might keep this up for five or ten days with benefit. I would advise a good enema every day.

You say you have not been eating meat, fish, eggs, or other high protein foods, but you have been eating excessively of the starchy foods. That is why you have gained in weight. There is no doubt that you have been having too little protein and too much starch and I think it might be advisable for you to try the reverse for a while.

It has been found in some cases of arthritis and other forms of rheumatism that the starches and sugars seem to be greater offenders than the protein, and in these cases, cutting down markedly on the starches and sugars and increasing the protein is the program to follow. There is a regime known as the Salisbury regime which has proven effective in many cases—one-quarter of a pound of Salisbury steak, with raw, nonstarchy vegetables (raw tomatoes are especially good) three times a day. This Salisbury regime should follow the orange juice fast. Combined with these Salisbury steaks you should also have a pint of moderately hot water between meals. (Salisbury steak means chopped, lean round. However, it is not necessary to chop it if you prefer it otherwise.)

I cannot tell you how long any one person should keep up this diet; probably from one to two weeks or longer would be beneficial. Too long a diet on such a high protein may injure the kidneys. In your case, as you are so much overweight, this course would help you to reduce markedly. Gradually assume the normal diet with liberal amounts of raw vegetables and fruits and at least one pint of milk.

For your local treatment you might try soaking your crippled hands in hot water, with an ounce of epsom salts to the pint, frequently.

These are simply suggestions. I cannot, of course, say whether you will be benefited or not, but since you have tried everything else I believe this cannot hurt you. It is unfortunate that you cannot be under the personal supervision of a physician. Please let me know how you get along.

Boiled Milk: Mr. S.—No, it is not thought that boiled milk is more constipating than fresh milk. No. it is not injurious to mix milk with vegetables or fruits or tomatoes. In fact fruit acids make the milk more digestible, so does boiling. Boiling and pasteurizing, to a degree, destroy some of the vitamins, but these can be furnished by the fresh fruits and vegetables.

Tomorrow—A New Year's Resolution.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

FILM MEN ACQUITTED

Noel Smith, a motion-picture director; Mike Miggins, an assistant director, and the Fox Film Company were found not guilty yesterday of cruelty to animals. The case was tried in Police Judge Chambers's court. The complainant against them was Mrs. Rosamond Rae Wright, who charged they mistreated a horse used in filming a picture, causing it to be injured.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

A redingote divided into four panels shows a satin skirt that is narrow enough to be also worn with tunic blouses.

THE redingote is one of the most successful of the new Autumn styles. It is tailored without being too severe and looks very smart for the street, shopping, etc., without a coat. Black is still the first choice in color for frocks of this type, but dark blue is being worn again and looks very pretty. The brown shade of African and cinnamon are new, one occasionally sees green, the beige, fawn, tan and covert colors are good style and the reddish shades of rust, brick and copper are endorsed by Paris. Kasha, lightweight cashmere and rep are the first choice of the French dressmakers for woolens; and for silk, faille is new.

Soldier-Traveler Presents Dramatic Narrative

Lecturer Will Speak Friday on David Belasco

Dress Rehearsal of Comedy Morning Feature

BY MYRA NYE

Two men of English birth are named on the speakers' list of the Friday Morning Club. Basil Webb, war hero, deep sea diver and world traveler, appeared a week ago and this Friday Geoffrey F. Morgan will speak at the noon luncheon on "The Tragedy of Belasco."

Mr. Morgan was educated in the Los Angeles public schools and was graduated from Leland Stanford University and is known as an orator of national reputation.

"The secret of whatever success I may have had is chiefly due to three things," said Mr. Morgan when asked for his analysis of his work as a writer and lecturer. "In the first place I have always tried to be interesting. I have no patience with people who are dull and prosy. It is the first duty of those who undertake to speak, or write, or preach for the public to be interesting. Unless they are that they have no right to ask the public to listen to them.

"In the second place I have tried to be practical. I hope to say something that will help a boy or girl in school, a man or woman at work the day after he has heard my lecture. Despite the fact that I am what is known as an inspirational lecturer, I have never tried to play among the stars and slide down the rainbow.

"And in the third place my work is intended to be humorous. Truth is twice as palatable and points are twice as easy to remember if they are dressed in humorous guise. People like to be joked about the little homely familiar things. Cheerful, engaging humor paves the way for more solid and substantial things later."

TALES COLORFUL

Capt. Webb was dressed in an East Indian costume with diamonds in his turban and in his vivid yellow scarf. His tales of personal experiences were as colorful as his costume.

Beginning his adventures when only 11 years of age when he left England as a cabin boy, down to the last days of the Mesopotamian campaign when in one day in taking dispatches through the Turkish lines he had three horses and two motorcycles destroyed beneath him, he has crowded into his life more than the average man three times his age. He helped to fight Turks, Arabs and Kurds in the blazing sun of the desert where at one time he went four days without water. His Christmas dinner in 1915 consisted of three ounces of warm horse flesh dripping with blood.

"And it tasted mighty good to us," said the slender, boyish-looking fighter who said that in his experiences traveling about the world he had found it necessary to learn ju jutsu, to fence, to be a good swordsman—all of which stood him in good stead when he became a soldier in the British Army.

"France was the worst place of all to fight," he said, "because of the incessant rain and cold. We could stand the heat of the desert better and in Mesopotamia we fought hand to hand. I was better at that because of my previous training."

FIGHT WITH TURK

He said he was ashamed of the one time he had used his revolver in the hand-to-hand fighting. This was when a Turk came cutting right and left through the lines killing everyone, either with his weapon or underneath the feet of his horse.

"I met him first with our horses rearing high, facing each other. For a moment we parried with our swords. He was getting the better of me and there were many more in his way to kill. Without my volition I pulled my revolver—And we won in that skirmish."

In 1914 on the day he enlisted at Whitehall he was sent as a deep-sea diver on the mystery ship Platte, which the very day he enlisted was renamed Z24. All aboard were civilian clothes. Because later a gunner fired against orders, the enemy gave no quarter from a submarine but commanded that all be killed. Capt. Webb, because of his ability to dive, was the only one except the disobedient gunner to be saved. He was six hours in the water and taken up salt blind and sent to a hospital in Bristol, where he reported to the commanding officer of the British Navy at that time.

SET RECORD AS DIVER

For two years he held the world record for deep-sea diving, going down 275 feet with the terrible pressure that such a dive entailed. He relinquished the record to an American, Dreselac, who dived to help raise the F4 in 301 feet of water off Honolulu. But the latter gave his health for life. Nearly 300 pounds pressure to the square inch wrecked him physically.

All this Capt. Webb told with a quiet dramatic touch that made the lecture one of the most enjoyable of the year.

The morning program for Friday will include a dress rehearsal of "The Goose Hangs High," Lewis Beach's successful comedy of American family life given by the courtesy of Louis O. Macloon and Lillian Albertson and staged by Gilmor Brown. The cast includes Effie Ellsler.

...REDUCES ALIMONY REQUEST

Court Rules Ontario Wife Must Hold Expenses to $200 a Month

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Sarl Frankish, the attractive wife of Charles F. Frankish, Ontario business man, must get along on a mere $200 a month until her husband's suit to annul their marriage of last August is heard, Superior Judge Charles L. Allison ruled today. Frankish charges his wife was the legal mate of George S. Buffington of Springfield, Mass., when they were wed in Ventura.

Mrs. Frankish appeared in court to request $500 alimony and $2500 attorney's fees. She testified that she needed $500 monthly for "clothes and incidentals," explaining that she "was an extravagant woman" and used to the luxuries of life.

When her husband, however, testified that his income was less than her alimony demands, Judge Allison slashed the alimony to $300 monthly and the attorney's fees to $250. Mrs. Frankish is permitted to reside at her husband's home in Ontario pending the hearing of the annulment suit.

On cross-examination by Frankish's counsel, H. A. Reese, the contesting wife admitted she owned jewels worth approximately $15,000. She declared that her husband told her before the marriage that he was a millionaire, a statement that Frankish denied laughingly.

Hospital Ready for Equipment

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 30.—With the new $275,000 Riverside Community Hospital ready for equipment, the directors in special session at the Mission Inn last night made plans for an annual stockholders' meeting on January 16, at which officers to administer the affairs during the first year under the expanded program will be elected.

The annual meeting will be held at the City Hall, and announcements will be sent to the 2000 stockholders of the community institution. Directors will be elected, plans for the enlarged program made, and it is expected that those present will complete arrangements for a public opening of the new building at Fourteenth and New Magnolia avenue during the last week in January.

The directors in session last night, upon hearing reports from Consulting Architect G. Stanley Wilson, that the building is now ready with the exception of the installation of lighting fixtures, made plans for the immediate removal of all available equipment from the old hospital on Walnut street to the new quarters. Equipment for the maternity wing and for the kitchen of the new building is now on its way to Riverside from the factories, and will be installed in a short time.

The further equipping of the hospital, however, is practically at a standstill until at least a part of the $40,000 in outstanding pledges is paid, it was reported. Without the co-operation of those still owing money on their subscriptions, it was said, few plans can be made for the actual operation of the new building and hospital matters will receive a decided setback.

BEGGAR ARISTOCRAT

Woman in Rags Rides in Costly Automobile

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—Upon a complaint of R. H. Burke of the West Coast Theaters Company made to Mayor J. C. Steele this morning, police have been asked to investigate what is believed to be the city's wealthiest beggar.

When the evening performance of a local motion-picture house was completed last evening a woman clad in rags attracted much attention as she made a feeble plea for alms before the passing show patrons. Her pleadings were heeded by many of the more sympathetic citizens.

When the last of the patrons had left the playhouse, according to Burke, a large limousine of expensive make drew along side the curbing. With quick step the feeble beggar jumped into the car and was piloted away by a uniformed chauffeur.

Burke urged the Mayor to make a complete investigation of the case. Mayor Steele has instructed Chief of Police Webb to make a personal inquiry.

COURT OFFICIAL TO CELEBRATE WEDDING

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Doing things up brown is the motto of Sam Wallis, clerk of Pasadena's justice courts. Sam Wallis has been married but once, but he did it right.

Exactly twenty-five years ago, Sam Wallis and his bride were married. They were married in Pasadena, on Pasadena avenue, on the first day of the week, the first day of the month, the first day of the year and the first day of the twentieth century.

On January 1, 1925, Mr. and Mrs. Wallis will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary at their home, 1736 Las Lunas avenue. Thirty guests will be present at the celebration.

CLUB HOLDS PARTY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 30.—The Alhambra Athletic Club will hold a New Year's Eve party at the new clubhouse, many reservations having already been made, according to Manager C. R. Evans. The clubhouse was opened on Christmas Day, but on Wednesday night the first formal party of the club will be held. The affair will include a buffet supper and dance, with novel New Year's Eve features.

YEGGS DO WELL IN MONROVIA

Carry Away Stock of Jewelry Store

Work Between Trips of Police

Robbery Not Discovered for Many Hours

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONROVIA, Dec. 30.—The jewelry store of Glenn L. Box at 509 South Myrtle avenue was broken into early this morning and watches, bracelets, fine leather goods and jewelry valued at more than $4000 were taken from the showcases. The safe was not molested by the thieves, who evidently picked from the showcases and windows the most saleable merchandise. This morning at 7 o'clock the rear door of the store was noticed standing open by Harold N. Jackson, proprietor of an electric store adjoining. He notified Mr. Box, who, with the police, discovered the store had been completely ransacked by the thieves.

Dr. Gertrude Phillips, who has apartments above the store, heard a noise of breaking glass this morning about 2 o'clock, but when she looked out the window, saw a cook from a near-by restaurant throwing some tin cans away. She thought she discovered the cause of the noise.

Although the store is always well lighted at night the thieves worked both in the show windows and in the showcases, between the trips of the patroling policeman.

Glen L. Box, the proprietor, believes the robbery the work of an expert who knew jewelry stock. A case of jeweled bracelets was taken, many watches, several diamond bar pins, half a case of leather cigarette cases and bill books were taken. No silverware whatever was taken for some reason.

A. A. Morrissey of the burglar detail from the Sheriff's office made an investigation this morning, and later a fingerprint expert took photographs of the numerous fingerprints of the burglary.

The loss is covered by insurance, Mr. Box stated. The burglars affected an entrance by breaking the padlock on the rear door, cutting a hole through the screen to unfasten a catch, and smashing the glass in the inner door.

Driver is Not Responsible for Fatal Accident

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, Dec. 30.—No blame for the death of Mrs. Franc Harmon, wife of Arthur Harmon, who died Sunday night at the San Antonio Community Hospital, was fixed by the Coroner's jury following an inquest over the woman's body today. The verdict found death, due to a basal fracture of the skull caused by being struck by an automobile driven by Ed J. McGready, accidental.

Mr. McGready, who is a member of the Ontario fire department and who was en route to a fire at the time of the accident, testified that Mrs. Harmon and her companions, Mrs. H. A. Briscoe and the latter's daughter, Jean, after starting across Euclid avenue, apparently became confused and stepped back directly in front of his moving car. This confusion on the part of the women was substantiated by other witnesses.

Mrs. Harmon, who was 26 years of age, is survived by a 4-year-old son, Mayfield, as well as her widower who is a disabled World War veteran. Funeral arrangements are not yet completed.

Mrs. Briscoe, who suffered a sprained right ankle and abrasions, and her daughter, Jeane, aged 7, who suffered a slight concussion of the brain in the accident, were still confined to their beds at their home, 927 East D street, but were reported improving.

SUICIDE IS FEARED

Police Think Missing Woman May Have Ended Life

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—Bay District police are continuing their search for Mrs. J. W. Marrah, 853 North Edgewood Drive, Hollywood, who left her home to come to this city two days ago. According to police records the woman expressed the intention of ending her life before members of her family. Mrs. Marrah is described as being medium height, brown eyes and black hair. When last seen she was wearing a long black Hudson seal coat.

Relatives are said to be offering a reward of $250 for information leading to her whereabouts.

LOS ANGELES GIRL ACCIDENT VICTIM

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 30. — As the result of being struck by a truck about 3 o'clock this morning on the highway twenty-five miles from Bakersfield, a young women believed to be Miss Elaine King of Los Angeles, is in a local hospital seriously injured. The driver of the truck is unknown.

Miss King was attired in hiking clothes and was evidently en route to her home in the south. According to a report filed at the Sheriff's office by L. L. Creve, Miss King had been riding on a truck with him and got off to stop a truck of the Challenge Creamery Company of Los Angeles, which was traveling south. It is reported that the passing truck struck the girl, but did not stop. J. A. Jordan of Livingston, who passed the scene of the accident at the time in a touring car, brought the injured girl to the hospital, where medical attention was given her.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED IN COURTROOM

Abe Cohen of Pasadena is Held for Investigation in Long Beach Hold-up

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 30.—Police today were endeavoring to determine the possible connection of Abe Cohen, 192 West Colorado street, Pasadena, with the sensational hold-up and robbery of the Owl Drug Store here on October 14, last.

Cohen was arrested in Justice Brayton's court today during the preliminary hearing of Harry Banks, asserted perpetrator of the crime, because of Cohen's activity in endeavoring to force an entrance into the courtroom after he had been barred from it. Cohen insisted, officers said, on entering the courtroom to hear the examination of witnesses. He was booked on suspicion of conspiracy.

Cohen's arrest was the second sensation sprung by Long Beach police during the past twenty-four hours in the drug store robbery case. Frank Campbell, said by police to have been the man who supplied Banks with the weapon used in the $7000 hold-up and robbery, was rearrested at Huntington Park early this morning as a result of new evidence which the police say connects him more directly with the crime. A suit of clothes bearing Campbell's name, together with all the missing checks from the drug store safe, money sacks and other property of the store were found in a suitcase checked at a Los Angeles check room. Banks's preliminary hearing on the robbery charge took up the entire day and was continued until tomorrow. Banks was arrested at Honolulu several weeks ago as he stepped from a steamer there.

IS HEART VICTIM

Well-Known Rancher Dies Suddenly at Upland

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

UPLAND, Dec. 30.—Harry M. Tonner, well-known goat and bee rancher of San Antonio Heights and a pioneer resident of this section, dropped dead of heart failure at shortly before noon today in a grocery store at Ninth street and First avenue, where he had gone to make some purchases. He was 61 years of age.

Mr. Tonner had been a resident of the Upland section for nearly thirty years. In the early days he was known locally as a hunter and trapper, but in recent years had devoted his time chiefly to ranching. He owned a small place near the foothills on San Antonio heights to the north.

When Mr. Tonner dropped to the floor of the store, Dr. John B. Craig was summoned, but efforts to revive him proved fruitless. Death was held due to acute dilation of the heart. He is survived by his widow. Funeral arrangements, which are in charge of J. B. Draper, have not yet been completed.

ENDS LONG LIFE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GARDENA, Dec. 30.—Clay B. Steele, 75 years of age, of Redondo-Riverside Boulevard, Gardena, took his own life by shooting himself through the right temple with a revolver late last night. He had been in ill health for about two years, it is said, and in a despondent mood shot himself. The family had not yet retired and on hearing the pistol report rushed to his side. A physician was called immediately, but Steele passed away two hours later.

AUTOISTS ESCAPE INJURY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 30.—Alfred Steizer of Bureka escaped serious injury today when the car in which he was riding with members of his family from Los Angeles collided with another machine on the highway south of town, near the Greenfield store, and overturned.

Mr. Steizer was brought to the Bakersfield Emergency Hospital, where he will be confined for several days as the result of slight injuries. Other members of the family escaped with minor bruises.

Niland Votes on Question of Bond Issue

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NILAND, Dec. 30.—Voters in the newly organized Niland Water District will have the opportunity on January 27 to vote on the proposition of issuing district bonds to the value of $140,000. The money to be raised from the sale of the bonds, if carried, is to be used in constructing a complete canal and drainage system for the district, which comprises approximately 16,000 acres of land, mostly lying northwest of Niland.

Approval of the proposed bond issue has been made by State Engineer W. F. McClure, according to Ed Welch, who has been active in organizing the new irrigation district. The plan is to connect the system of the Niland district with the Imperial Irrigation District and purchase water from the latter.

The main line of the Southern Pacific Company runs through the center of the new district, which up to date has not been developed. Welch asserts that because of its location and fertile soil the new district will develop into one of the most productive in Imperial Valley. He said he did not expect any opposition to be registered against the bond issue, as virtually all the landowners have indicated their desire to have the bonds.

WHO WANTS A COAT?

Perfectly Good Garment Awaits Its Owner

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 30. — Who owns the overcoat?

Must a good overcoat, found in a bed-room in a Pachappa-avenue home last night by Capt. George Swanson and Officer Buford French go unclaimed?

The police, after finding the overcoat, urged members of the family to claim it, but all declared that its coming was a mystery. But the greatest mystery of all was the bottle found in a pocket of the coat, which the police say contained a liquid giving an odor reminiscent of pre-Volstead days. Capt. Swanson attempted to fasten ownership of the coat onto several in the house, but all stoutly disclaimed it, as they did knowledge of the manner in which the liquor got into the house.

The police ask that the owner of the coat call at the station and claim his belonging.

SERVICE STATION EASY MARK FOR HOLD-UP MEN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 30.—For the second time in the past month and for the third time this year, bandits early today held up the Y Service Station at Valley Boulevard and Mission Road, relieving the proprietor, M. R. Bennett, of $25 in cash and making their escape.

At 5:30 a.m. two young men appeared at the station, according to Bennett. One of them flourished a revolver and demanded Bennett's money. He complied and the pair fled. The description of the hold-up men furnished the police tallied with that of the two men who held up a pedestrian in Pasadena Sunday night.

RUNAWAY MACHINE INVADES RESIDENCE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—The tranquillity of the Russell home, 1125 Euclid avenue, was rudely broken in upon last night when an unpiloted automobile ploughed its way through the front of the house, causing more than $1000 damage and badly frightening Mrs. Louise Russell, who was seated reading in a front room.

The automobile was owned by H. De Armound, 1444 Twenty-fifth street, who made the fatal error of cranking the small touring car while it was in gear. De Armound in his report to police stated that after he got the car going he could not catch it. The Russell home is more than a block away from where the machine was cranked, he said.

LONG BEACH PLANS QUIZ ON PAY ROLL

Gas Department Inquiry Put Up to City Manager by Councilmen

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 30. — That an investigation of asserted irregularities in the municipal gas department pay roll will show that "somebody was criminally liable," was the assertion made today by Councilman Callahan, following a report to the Council made by City Auditor Gunsul.

Several of the names on wage demands allowed by the Council during the past few months do not appear in the gas department time book, Miss Gunsul charges. Miss Gunsul recommended to the Council that the passage of unaccounted-for demands aggregate $18,951 and issued on dates as widely separated as February 15 and September 23, last, be rescinded. The Council failed to act on the recommendation, however, and referred the entire matter to City Manager Windham for investigation.

Included in the names appearing on the warrants and for which there is no legal authority, according to Miss Gunsul, appears that of Carl Hawkins. A former police judge of this city bears that name and the investigation will be directed to learn whether some one who padded the city pay roll used the name of the ex-judge.

HELD AS RADICAL

Box-Car Philosopher Jailed at Burbank

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

BURBANK, Dec. 30.—Joseph Minner, whose address is said to be Salem, Mass., is being held for investigation by the police here, after having been arrested by Officers Picknell and Divine in a box car in the Southern Pacific yards.

In Minner's possession at the time of his arrest was found a quantity of I.W.W. literature and secret codes, together with a list of cities he had visited and of the organizations with which he had been in communication. When arrested Minner is said to have been talking I.W.W. doctrine to two men, one of whom was a high-school student. Minner is declared by the police to have been in Burbank a short time ago on a similar mission, spreading I.W.W. propaganda.

ALWAYS AT WORK AS OTHERS PLAY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Twenty-four years in Pasadena and has never seen the Tournament of Roses parade held each New Year's Day. This is the record of Police Sergeant Ed Abbott of the Pasadena force.

For twenty-four years Sergt. Abbott has directed New Year's Day traffic in remote sections of the city and not once has he ever been able to glimpse a single flower-bedecked float. The nearest Sergt. Abbott has ever been to the parade was ten years ago when he rode on horseback several blocks in advance of the parade dispersing crowds.

"Some day I would like to get a grand stand seat with a cushion in it, forget all about directing traffic, and really enjoy one New Year's Day parade," said Sergt Abbott today.

SHACKLED BUT SLEEPS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

CALEXICO, Dec. 30.—Sam Roberts, an immigration inspector, arrested an alien believed to have entered the country illegally. The inspector placed a pair of handcuffs on his prisoner. A few moments later the officer came upon two men in a car near the border and because they acted auspiciously, took them along. His first prisoner escaped in the darkness, but the inspector, knowing where the man was likely to go, visited a farmhouse north of Bond Corner, and found the fugitive asleep in bed, still wearing the handcuffs.

FIRE FLIES AT INQUIRY

Officers, Prohibition Agents Before Grand Jury

Action Result of Recent Raids in Orange County

Dr. S. T. Montgomery to Appear Next Tuesday

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, Dec. 30.—Summoned to testify before the Orange county grand jury relative to liquor conditions and law enforcement, William Starbuck and A. E. Stuelke of Fullerton, and Rev. Leon Meyers of Anaheim, today won their fight in protesting against taking a secret oath.

The jurors and witnesses were advised by Superior Judge F. C. Drumm that such an oath was not compulsory. Their protest against Dist.-Atty. A. P. Nelson's conducting the inquiry was without avail, however, as the prosecutor continued to remain in the jury room, where it was understood his office was under fire.

Others who testified today were Arthur Eells, Chief of Police of Fullerton; Bert Barr, Anaheim patrolman, and Rev. Will H. Betts, Methodist minister of Santa Ana.

Dr. S. T. Montgomery, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and E. S. Ward, his investigator, who unearthed asserted evidence which resulted in an extensive dry raid here, did not appear today, their request to testify next Tuesday being granted. The two were on a raid in another county, they notified Nelson.

A verbal clash featured the day's procedure, however, Starbuck and C. N. Mozley, Chief Deputy District Attorney, exchanging views before Superior Judge R. Y. Williams before the grand jury convened.

After habeas corpus proceedings, conducted before Judge Williams, had been explained, Mozley, addressing Starbuck, said: "See, you fellows haven't any facts." Starbuck did not reply immediately, but added later: "Well, go before the grand jury and I'll fight you there."

After three prisoners taken in raids had been released under habeas corpus proceedings, Dr. Montgomery made public a letter declaring the District Attorney's office had misrepresented the facts. Mozley offered to prove in "two minutes" before Judge Drumm, that anyone who said this was a "deliberate falsifier."

Starbuck, who in speeches, had alluded to the letter, accompanied him today.

Judge Williams told Starbuck that W. A. Weymouth, Federal prohibition director for this district, virtually had admitted Mozley's office was in the right, and that proper complaints or informations had not been filed with authorities here, who released prisoners under court order after they were held nine and ten days.

Starbuck admitted that his information regarding the matter had come chiefly from Weymouth, but added: "It seems to me," said Judge Williams, "that Weymouth has been the cause of most of this misunderstanding."

MAKE TESTS IN LETTUCE FIELD

Farm Bureau is Engaged in Experiment at Van Nuys

Growth Uniformity Sought by Demonstrators

Units With and Without Use of Fertilizer is Plan

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, Dec. 30.—The Farm Bureau Extension Service is experimenting in practical field trials with lettuce on the S. O. Houghton ranch, and growers of lettuce in San Fernando Valley, on account of the fast-increasing industry, are watching the demonstration during the various periods of the tests.

The lettuce was planted on the 26th inst. and the tests will be carried on up to the time of packing for shipment. The object of the tests, which is an innovation, is to find some fertilizing element that will produce uniform maturity and solid heads, thereby doing away with the necessity of cutting over a lettuce field two or three times before final packing is made.

The tests are part of a twenty-acre planting, all under the same conditions, excepting that check plots, with and without fertilizer, extend the entire length of the field of 1200 feet. Cultivation and irrigation will be the same for the whole field.

There will be sixteen units in the field, and the even numbered units will be without fertilizer. Units will not be marked until after the first hoeing, so that visiting growers may watch the test plots and make their own comparisons, first.

Later, lettuce growers who will observe the test plots will be aided in this description of the field, as laid out by the Farm Bureau planters: Beginning at a stake fifty-four ridges from the west side of the field, as the first ridge of a unit of four ridges, then alternating units of four ridges of fertilized and not fertilized plots, the even numbered units being without the fertilizer.

VARIOUS FERTILIZERS

The following table showing the character of the fertilized plots will be of interest to lettuce growers who have signified their intention of watching the tests until completed:

First unit, ammonium sulfate, 250 pounds per acre.

Third unit, sodium nitrate, 330 pounds per acre.

Fifth unit, Fishmeal, 500 pounds per acre.

Seventh unit, ammonium sulfate 250 pounds per acre; potash, 200 pounds per acre.

Ninth unit, potash, 200 pounds per acre.

Eleventh unit, potash, 200 pounds per acre; fishmeal, 700 pounds per acre.

Thirteenth unit, ammonium sulfate, 125 pounds per acre; fishmeal, 250 pounds per acre.

Fifteenth unit, 4-8-4 mixture, nitrogen, potash, sulphuric acid, 400 pounds per acre.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 30.—Louis Lowe, asserted murderer of Special Officer W. W. Wiles, must answer in Superior Court for this purported crime, according to Justice of the Peace, A. W. Marion, who has ordered Lowe held without bail until the date of his trial. Lowe accepted the judge's verdict at the close of his preliminary hearing stolidly, rarely speaking a word except to his counsel.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

LOCAL LAUGHS

Each week The Times produces a film entitled "Local Laughs," consisting of the fifteen best jokes submitted by local people. Weekly prizes are paid of $5, $3, $2, and twelve of $1 each. A list of theaters showing the film, together with rules for submitting jokes are given daily in a coupon in The Times. Prize-winning jokes, and names and addresses of winners, appear only on the screen. Jokes receiving honorable mention will be given a place of honor on The Times comic page each week-day, and each of these contributors will receive a souvenir of acknowledgment.

FULL INQUIRY AT PORT DEMANDED

Meline Dissatisfied With Keyes Investigation

Threatens to "Go to Bottom" in Purchasing Quiz

Prosecutor Says Grand Jury Action Not Warranted

Demand for a thoroughgoing investigation of the purchase of supplies for the Harbor Department was made on Dist.-Atty. Keyes yesterday by resolution of the Harbor Board, proposed by Commissioner Meline expressed dissatisfaction with a letter from the District Attorney which said nothing but "petty irregularity" had been found.

"He hasn't gone to the bottom," said Meline. "If the District-Attorney can't investigate this situation I can and will."

The Prosecutor's letter said investigators had discovered discrepancies of about $200 in the purchasing department's accounts and had found nothing that warranted the attention of the grand jury. The resolution of the board asks that the investigating of supply purchases be continued and that the investigation be broadened to include the receipt and acceptance of the supplies by the Engineering Department.

The board also directed that its controller, Bert Edwards, look over the books of George W. Van Alstin, one of the men from whom purchases of food and other materials have been made in the past. Two weeks ago the board directed that dealings with Van Alstin cease. The direction yesterday provides that if the controller can find nothing out of the way in the dealer's books, the ban against him be removed. Edwards will also look over books and papers to be submitted by Joseph C. Kovanda, it is said. Kovanda was said to have been associated with Van Alstin in some dealings with the purchasing department.

The board decided to move February 1 from its present headquarters in the Byrne Building to a new building at 1017 South Figueroa street.

CASE ON DRY WARRANT IS SUBMITTED

Raid on Home of Armour's Son-in-Law Involved in Federal Action

The case against Elmer Awl, manager of the El Mirador estate belonging to John J. Mitchell at Santa Barbara, who was arrested last summer on a charge of violating the Volstead Act, was submitted to Federal Judge Bledsoe yesterday. The case involves the question of what sort of search warrant Federal dry agents should secure before raiding private residences. Numerous cases originating in the prohibition office in the last few months have been dismissed or are pending as a result of the complications arising from various interpretations of the prohibition law relative to search and seizure.

Awl was arrested by Federal agents who raided the home of J. Mitchell, son-in-law of J. Ogden Armour, where they reported seizing fourteen cases of high-grade whisky. The agents said Awl had just received the liquor by express from Chicago and was storing it in a vault when arrested. The liquor is valued at $3500. Awl has been out on $1000 bond since his arrest.

Other cases involving the search-warrant question have been submitted to Judge Bledsoe. The defendants are George Cleveland, Giulio Luccio, R. P. Damatio, Tigeria Calton, Louis Gaitan, Concha Montes, Charles Collura and Domenica Collura.

FIVE ARE ARRESTED IN GAMBLING RAID

Raiding a home at 5515½ Santa Monica Boulevard early yesterday morning, police under Sergt. L. S. C. Nelson arrested five men on charges of gambling and confiscated a large quantity of poker chips and several decks of cards. Those under arrest gave their names: Paul Keil, 25 years of age, actor, 1352 North Western avenue; G. A. Davidson, 39, barber, 1352 North Western avenue; A. M. Rose, 26, salesman, 5716 Harold Way, and C. D. Hedgepath, 26, barber, 1352 North Western avenue.

ELK RULER ARRIVES TODAY

Southern California Elkdom will pay homage today to John G. Price of Columbus, O., Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, who will arrive in Los Angeles this afternoon. A large delegation of officials of the various Southland lodges will be on hand to welcome the leader of 10,000,000 wearers of the antlers when the monarch arrives aboard the California Limited. The reception committee will be headed by Dr. Ralph Hagan, Past Exalted Ruler of Los Angeles Lodge No. 99, and Past President of the California State Elks' Association.

John G. Price

Mrs. John G. Price

Upon his arrival here the Elk chief will be escorted to the Biltmore Hotel, where he will establish his headquarters during his fifteen-day stay in Southern California.

Tomorrow he will be the guest of the Pasadena Lodge of Elks and will participate in the Tournament of Roses parade, after which he will attend the Stanford-Notre Dame football game in the Rose Bowl. On Friday the Elk Ruler will visit the San Diego lodge and on Saturday will pay his respects to the members of the San Bernardino Lodge.

Los Angeles Lodge will receive a visit from Mr. Price on Wednesday, January 7. A banquet will be tendered him in the dining-room of the lodge atop Angels' Flight. This will mark the last big celebration to be held in the old clubhouse as the new $2,500,000 building is now under course of construction at Sixth and Park View streets.

Mr. Price, who is accompanied on the trip west by his wife, has recently retired as Attorney-General of the State of Ohio, a position which he held for two full terms. He was earlier Prosecuting Attorney in his county for four years, for five years a member of the Public Recreation Commission of Columbus, and is now a member of the Ohio State Board of Charity.

Following is the entertainment committee appointed to welcome the Grand Exalted Ruler:

Dr. Ralph Hagan, chairman, Thomas Abbott, George M. Adair, Jess Wood and Gerald Pidge.

CONFESSES HE IS FUGITIVE

Wilson Tells Deputy He is Wanted in Dallas on Charge of $35,000 Embezzlement

A cigar and a kind word from Deputy Sheriff Fox caused H. C. Wilson to become garrulous yesterday and to confess that he was wanted for the embezzlement of $35,000 from an insurance agent at Dallas, Tex., thus terminating an international police search of more than two years.

The unexpected confession came as Wilson was about to leave the Sheriff's office. He had been taken there by Ballard Day of Venice in connection with the wrecking of Day's car while it was being used by Wilson.

Deputies were entirely unaware of Wilson's identity when he came in. They instructed Day to take the case to the civil courts, as it involved a matter completely out of their jurisdiction.

ACCEPTS CIGAR

Day departed to be followed in a few moments by Wilson. As the latter reached the door of the Sheriff's office, Deputy Sheriff Fox called him back and purely in a friendly spirit gave him a cigar.

"You look like a pretty good fellow," the deputy said. "Here's a smoke."

Wilson quietly accepted the cigar and then blurted out:

"You don't know who I am, do you? Well, I'm wanted back in Dallas, Tex., for embezzling $35,000 from George Spera, a general insurance agent."

The confession took Fox by surprise. He placed Wilson under arrest and then communicated with Sheriff Dan Harston of Dallas. A short time later he received a telegram from Sheriff Harston in which the confession was verified. Sheriff Harston added that an international search for Wilson had been in progress for two years but without result.

In his confession Wilson stated that he came to Los Angeles with the intention of killing the man whom he blames for stealing the affections of his former wife. He stated that he traced his ex-wife and her lover to Venice and had them both arrested there on the charges of violating the rooming-house ordinance. When his former wife was brought up for trial, he said, he experienced a change of heart toward her and paid her fine of $25.

She refused to talk to him or see him, however, he said, and he gave up the idea of killing the man. Then he found himself being tracked by Venice police and threw the revolver which he had been carrying into one of the Venice canals.

Venice justice court records show that Mrs. Gwendolyn Cruscott and F. W. Goode were arrested there recently for violation of the rooming-house laws and that they were fined $25 each by Justice Rennie. Mrs. Cruscott is Wilson's former wife.

Wilson told Deputy Sheriff Fox that he would waive extradition and go back to Texas at once to face trial.

TO TESTIFY IN MEANS TRIAL

Lucien B. Wheeler, agent in charge of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, left yesterday for New York, where he will testify in the case against Gaston B. Means, former special agent of the Department of Justice. Means is charged with irregularities in connection with his investigations. Agent Wheeler assisted in preparing the case against Means.

MISSING MAN SOUGHT HERE

George Hamilton Cheatwood is being sought by his wife, who has written The Times that he was last heard of in this city on the 8th inst. He is 30 years of age, six feet tall, weighs 150 pounds and is a stenographer and bookkeeper by profession. Any information concerning him should be sent to Mrs. G. H. Cheatwood, Eastaboga, Ala.

NEW YEAR FINDS HIGH STANDARDS

Radio Programs on KHJ Set Difficult Task

Another Godmother Offers Holiday Cheer

Department Store Artists Give Pleasure

BY CLAIRE FORBES CRANE

His Majesty, the New Year, will find infinite difficulty, we are afraid, in providing KHJ with programs that will rival or outshine those of the monarch, who is now entering on the last week of his reign. Still another fairy godmother hastened to lay her holiday greeting before the heart of Radioland last evening. This was the Broadway Department Store, which presented the Orpheus Four, Georgi Shkuletsky, basso; Helen Lewyn, pianist; George Lipschultz, violinist, and Jennie Durkee, ukulele. Also on the program was a sketch entitled, "The Newcomers Plan a Budget," with Margeret Riner Minor, assisted by Ray Whitten and our own Dickie Winslow.

I hope any new artist who comes to KHJ realizes the warmth of welcome which is extended to him. The service of radio includes giving to all mankind and there is room in this great work for everyone from the lowest to the highest. Uncle John has in the last year unquestionably done much toward the now high standard of music maintained at our station, and it is real joy to watch his face light up with interest and admiration at the performance of a fine artist who broadcasts before him for the first time.

PIANIST WELCOMED

It was with this thought in mind that we welcomed Helen Lewyn, pianist, last evening. A pupil of Godowsky, she brings to her instrument a keen understanding of its capabilities and unquestionable musicianship. A refreshing feature of her solos was her choice of numbers. With one exception, none of them had ever been given over KHJ and our family acquired some exquisite additions to its repertoire.

George Lipschultz, violinist, has attained no little fame as the leader at Loew's State Theater. He knows well the art of showmanship and could undoubtedly have made his mark as a violinist of international reputation had he chosen to bend his efforts in that direction. Last evening he gave several Kreisler and Chopin numbers with an interesting novelty in the form of a "Melody" by Gen. Charles C. Dawes, which holds your interest by pure merit, rather than by the name of its creator.

George Shkuletsky, Russian basso, is a glorious addition to any program. He has unsealed for us the great storehouses of Russian song; and last night laid before us strikingly beautiful examples from its apparently inexhaustible supply. His voice seems particularly moving in folk songs such as "Grass" or the more symbolical "Two Giants."

The Orpheus Four and demure Jennie Durkee created their usual enthusiasm, and the response from the family was immediate and sincere.

Dickie Winslow's clever mother, Mrs. Johnson, wrote the sketch "The Newcomers Plan a Budget." It sparkled with humor and created a desire in every listener's heart to go down at once to the Broadway Department Store and furnish a home from the endless variety of necessities and luxuries which this popular store contains.

In addition to her part in the sketch, Miss Margaret Riner Minor, assisted by Cordelia Story, with Mrs. H. S. Carroll at the piano, gave a group of three readings in a manner that held the interest of her audience to the last word.

The noon program was a threefold event, beginning with the Aloha Trio, through the courtesy of the Dragon Cafe. At 12:45 the program given by the Advertising Club of which our city is so proud, was broadcast from the Biltmore Hotel and at 1:30 F. J. Major and his Forum Roof Ballroom Orchestra entertained us with dance music.

The Children's Hour was opened as usual by Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog, relating tales of American History. It was the evening of Queen Titania's visit with her Sandman and in place of their usual faithful attendant, Louis F. Klein, another famous exponent of the harmonica, Charles D. McRoy, delighted us.

The Sandman arrived at the studio alone last evening. When Uncle John asked where the Fairy Queen was, the Sandman handed him a note from Titania, which stated that she was unable to come to earth with her Sandman this time.

As the two friends were talking there drifted through the door of the studio an enormous white butterfly. Soft as velvet was its coat and as it approached the microphone table it was seen that the Fairy Queen Titania was seated on its back.

Through the magic of Fairyland, Uncle John assumed the size of the tiny fairy folk and he and the Sandman mounted to the back of the butterfly where they seated themselves beside the Queen of the Radio Fairies.

Rising gently, the Fairyland airship floated through space, carrying the three friends to the realm of Queen Titania. Their objective last evening was the Elfin Forest and through the glades of this wonderful woodland they were carried, seated on the back of the butterfly.

Many wonderful things were seen on this trip and many were the lessons learned by Radioland the members of which accompanied the three by means of the Fairy Microphone which Uncle John always carries on his journey into the Land of the Ought-to-be.

At 7:30 p.m. Bertram E. Sandham gave an interesting dissertation on Samoa. These talks by Mr. Sandham on out-of-the-way places are enjoyed more than he can realize by people who long for adventure and romance.

KHJ'S RADIO PROGRAM TO SET RECORD

Tonight's "Passing Show" Will Continue Five Hours; Artist List Unparalleled

The broadcasting station KHJ of the Los Angeles Times will be the scene tonight of a gigantic New Year's celebration which will know no parallel in the history of radio. Announced as the "Passing Show of 1924," it will present an uninterrupted stream of artists, both local and national, whose numbers will require five hours of constant broadcasting without any performer contributing more than one selection.

More than seventy-five artists will take part. An interesting tribute to the popularity of the station and Uncle John is the fact that all the performers, many of whom bear illustrious names, are artists who have broadcast exclusively from KHJ during the last year.

On Page 8, Part I will be found a photograph of some of the participating performers.

CAFE TO REOPEN

The formal reopening of the Paris Inn on Market street, near Main, will occur this evening, according to Carlo Bravo, Bert Ravere, G. Agozzini and I. Pedroli, the new proprietors of that cafe.

Notice to Parents

Col. Thos. A. Davis, Pres. of SAN DIEGO ARMY & NAVY ACADEMY, will be at the Alexandria Hotel, Mezzanine Floor, on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 2nd and 3rd, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and will be glad to meet parents desiring information regarding this school.

ANDERSON'S RETURN AS CHIEF SEEN

Rumor That "Dry" Agent is to be Transferred Here Gains Credence

The return of W. W. Anderson to Los Angeles as divisional prohibition chief was rumored yesterday in this city and Chicago, Anderson's present station, the reports receiving general credence when no denials were forthcoming.

Mr. Anderson declined to be interviewed on the subject yesterday, but from authoritative sources it was learned that the transfer has been under discussion in department headquarters in Washington for some time.

The territory, comprising the States of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah, and the Hawaiian Islands is now under the supervision of James Robb, appointed temporarily last July.

Mr. Anderson was supervisor for this division for about a year, during the time that H. H. Dolley was local dry chief. At that time Los Angeles enjoyed the most arid interval since the Volstead Act became effective. Mr. Anderson ranked high among prohibition supervisors, and fifteen months ago was sent to Chicago to take over the Great Lakes area.

Killing of Pair by Officers is Sifted by Jury

The county grand jury yesterday took up an investigation of the fatal shooting of M. G. Mumper and Raymond Capps by Deputy Sheriffs Ellison and Letts at Hynes on the 18th inst., when both the officers and the citizens mistook the other pair for hold-up men.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis, head of the homicide department, presented the matter to the inquisitorial body. The Coroner's jury previously had criticised the officers for not using more diligence in making their identity known to the citizens.

No action was taken by the jury yesterday, it was intimated. The investigation was not completed, it was said, however, and will be resumed today.

TRIALS OF DRIVERS IN AUTO DEATH CASES SET

TWO MEN IN FATAL MISHAPS TO ANSWER CHARGES OF MANSLAUGHTER

Two motorists, charged with manslaughter as the result of two asserted fatal auto accidents, entered pleas of not guilty in Judge Avery's court yesterday. They are William Marshall Reid and William J. Morris.

Reid is asserted to have run down and killed Mrs. Jessie Howland of 807 North Vendome street on November 15, last. His trial was set for February 4.

Morris is charged with having driven the automobile which struck and killed Charles McCarthy, November 23, last. Morris is scheduled to go on trial January 23.

TWO NEGROES NABBED

One Charged With Larceny; Other is Believed Escaped "Lifer"

Dropped unnoticed, perhaps, by some careless Christmas shopper, 1420 feet of 1½-inch galvanized iron pipe awaits an owner at Central Police Station.

Detective Lieutenants Allen and McPhillips found it, they say, in the possession of Clarence A. Adams, a negro, who is held on suspicion of grand larceny. The detectives also arrested Willie Jones, a negro, who, they say, was sent to prison a year ago on a life sentence for robbery. They are holding Jones for investigation as to how he got out so soon.

BIGAMY TRIAL SET

Henry C. Becker to Answer In Court January 30

Henry C. Becker, who is asserted to have married Fayette Salmon of Long Beach while he was still the legal husband of Mrs. Ella Becker of 717 East Thirty-second street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of bigamy yesterday in Judge Avery's court. His trial was set for January 30.

Becker is declared to have wed Miss Salmon in Riverside, June 29, 1922, with the knowledge that he was still the husband of Ella Becker.

FOX SCHEDULE

"LAZYBONES" AND OTHER BIG FEATURES SOON

By Grace Kingsley

With the announcement of the purchase of "Lazybones," the Sam H. Harris stage success written by Owen Davis, William Fox has nearly completed plans for his 1925-26 program of screen plays. No mention was made in the announcement of the purchase price of "Lazybones." All the decks are being cleared at the Fox studios for the beginning of immediate production of next season's product and it is probable that "Lazybones" will be among the first to be started.

Contracts have also been signed for the immediate screening of "Havoc," scenario for which was written by Edmund Gounding. In addition to these two attractions, arrangements are being made for early production of all the John Golden stage successes. Contracts for these were signed some time ago whereby Mr. Fox and John Golden jointly will stage the plays for the screen. It is probable that "Lightnin'," in which Frank Bacon scored such a success, will be the first to reach the screen and that "The First Year" will follow immediately. The other Golden successes to be produced at the Fox studios include: "Seventh Heaven," "Thank You," "Chicken Feed," "The Wheel," and "Howdy, Folks."

The scenario for "Loyalties," John Galsworthy's play, has been completed and submitted to Mr. Golden for his recommendation and approval. This production will be started within thirty days.

"GOOSE HANGS HIGH" FOR THE PLAYHOUSE

Louis O. Macloon has snared another New York stage success. It is Lewis Beach's latest play, "The Goose Hangs High," which took a good hold on the metropolis theatergoers and is still catching the hearts of Chicago lovers of the drama.

Through the courtesy of the Pasadena Community Theater he secured Gilmor Brown to stage the play. It will open in San Francisco on Sunday night and play there for two weeks, returning to the Playhouse following the northern run.

Owing to San Francisco bookings "The Lady," with Pauline Frederick, will close its local run on January 17, giving way for the premiere of "The Goose Hangs High" at the Playhouse.

Macloon has selected a fine cast of players for the various roles in "The Goose Hangs High." Cyril Keightley, that fine actor who played locally with Pauline Frederick in "Spring Cleaning" in the part of Richard Sones, the husband, will play the leading male part; while others in the cast include Effie Ellsler, remembered for her excellent characterization in "The Bat;" William Raymond, Leslie Fenton, John Mackenzie and a long list of others.

George Barraud has recovered from the chicken pox and will return to the cast of "The Lady" at the Playhouse tonight. During his absence from the play William Raymond has been playing his role of Leonard St. Aubyns.

Raymond has been placed in a prominent part in "The Goose Hangs High."

Paramount Starts Two

For the first time in several weeks James Cruze called "Camera!" yesterday morning—and "Beggar on Hourseback" was away to a flying start.

No, the press department hastens to explain, it isn't a racing picture, nor is there a single horse in the cast.

Edward Everett Horton, remember for his work in other James Cruze successes, returns to the Paramount fold to enact the title role. Others in the cast are Esther Ralston, Theodore Kosloff and Ethel Wales.

The picture will be made along gigantic lines, one whole stage being devoted to a single set. Cruze was never more enthusiastic about a picture, and Paramount executives expect it to be the "big one" he has looked forward to since "The Covered Wagon."

Walter Woods and Anthony Coldeway wrote the screen play from the original stage presentation by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly.

With Ricardo Cortez in the title role, production has also started on "The Spaniard." This Paramount production will give Cortez his big chance on the screen, which has been earned by his work in "Feet of Clay," "Argentine Love" and "The Swan."

Jetta Goudal arrived from New York just a few days ahead of the click of the camera to play the featured feminine lead in "The Spaniard." Noah Beery is portraying an important characterization. Raoul Walsh, who directed Pola Negri in "East of Suez," is the producer.

T. Roy Barnes In It

Now they have gone and signed that cut-up, T. Roy Barnes, for a leading part in Bebe Daniels's next starring vehicle, "The Crowded Hour."

Miss Daniels, accompanied by her mother, together with Kenneth Harlan and Mr. Barnes, left on Monday for New York, where the picture will be made at the Paramount Long Island Studios.

Estelle Taylor Won't Bob

My, Estelle Taylor had a narrow escape yesterday! She very nearly bobbed her hair. In fact, she went so far as to climb into a barber's chair, but renigged. Then she got home and found a letter from Carmel Myers, written from Paris, in which the "Ben Hur" vampire stated that the smartest women in the French capital are letting their hair grow. That settled it. Estelle will hold on to her jet-black curls.

Joan Lowell Entertains

Joan Lowell, the beautiful young girl who about a year ago ceased wasting her sweetness on the ocean air, leaving her skipper dad with whom she had spent most of her life at sea, for the life of a film actress, had a busy time last evening. Miss Lowell went down to Sawtelle and for an hour entertained the disabled soldiers with a series of sailor chanties which she learned aboard ship. She made a great hit.

Fitzmaurice Buys Home Site

George Fitzmaurice has joined the ranks of Beverly Hills householders. With the purchase of a beautiful knoll overlooking Mrs. Thomas H. Ince's home, the director has made the first step in his program of building a permanent home for himself in Southern California.

Fitzmaurice recently sold his country place at Great Neck, N. Y., and architects are now at work on plans for the Beverly Hills home, on which construction work is scheduled to start immediately after Fitzmaurice completes his current picture "His Supreme Moment," which Samuel Goldwyn is sponsoring and in which Blanche Sweet and Ronald Colman are featured.

Maurice Tourneur Paints

Maurice Tourneur is at work with brush and canvas for the first time in many years. A painter of distinction in his youth, he was associated with Puvis de Chavannes and Rodin, but he left the studio for the stage and has not handled the tools of his craft since.

Yesterday the director was seen on Hollywood Boulevard with a newly-purchased easel, bundles of brushes and boxes of paint. He refused to say a word of his intentions.

PASADENANS GIVE DOMESTIC COMEDY FAIR PRODUCTION

BY HERBERT MOULTON

For the time being, at least, serious drama seems to have fled the boards of the Community Playhouse in Pasadena. The attraction this week is "Kempy," a domestic comedy set in a small-town locale, written by J. C. and Elliott Nugent.

There is nothing pretentious about "Kempy." It is homely fare, and the greater part of its humor is of the more obvious kind, sometimes bordering on the farcical. Altogether, it was given a fairly commendable presentation and met with a good degree of enthusiasm at the opening Monday night.

It was really Ralph Hilliar, as the old and crabby father, who started the merriment at the outset. Hilliar's characterization, which is one of the most important in the piece, easily outranked any of the others and was largely responsible for making humorously entertaining what would otherwise have been a rather dull first act. In the subsequent action, too, it was the work of this player which proved to be the chief sustaining influence.

Hilliar's is not an out-and-out comic character. It has its counterparts in everyday life—elderly, irascible fathers, who can't quite sympathize with the ideas of three grown-up daughters, especially in the matter of clothes and bills. Thus it is that there is plenty of conflict—verbal conflict—between the father and his daughters, and it is this conflict, always broadly sarcastic on the parent's part, that creates most of the humor.

"Kempy" is a play, therefore, which depends principally on repartee, rather than situations, for its comedy values. Some of the dialogue is not particularly clever, but most of the time it succeeds in keeping the audience chuckling comfortably.

Like that of the father, the characters all impress as being exceedingly human. The three daughters, one of whom is married, are just about the type one would find in a small-town family in moderate circumstances. The two unmarried girls have very logical cravings for pretty clothes and the elder, who is the heroine, has clearly defined ideas on the subject of careers—having started on two and being about to embark on another at the opening of the play.

The situations which follow the introduction of the title character, Kempy, and the hero, Duke Merrill, are not of themselves as amusing as the opportunities they afford for a resumption of the father's sarcastic retorts.

Virginia Scott, George Reis and Bertram Hancock are prominent in the cast. Virginia Wightman plays the part of the younger daughter very convincingly, and Inez Johnson does the mother role with considerable skill. The married sister is portrayed by Donna Vickroy and Earl Eby enacts the part of her husband.

'HE WHO GETS SLAPPED'

Picturization of Andreyev Play to Replace "Inferno" Saturday

"He Who Gets Slapped," Victor Seastrom's new photoplay, will replace Dante's "Inferno" on the Criterion Theater screen Saturday.

This picturization of the Leonid Andreyev play, which enjoyed tremendous success in New York, London, Paris, Moscow, Berlin and Vienna, has been hailed as a triumph, and a large amount of interest is shown in it here.

The cast is headed by Lon Chaney, in what is said to be one of his finest portrayals. The others include Norma Shearer, John Gilbert, Tully Marshall, Marc McDermott, Ford Sterling, Clyde Cook and Brandon Hurst.

CLEVER CREATORS

RUTH ST. DENIS AND DANCERS IN PROGRAM OF NOVELTY

By Edwin Schallert

Gayety reigns as the sovereign motif of the homecoming of Ruth St. Denis. Once again does she appear as the sponsor of the new and the characteristic. Again is she successful as the creator of the picturesque in settings and costumes, and the novel in interpretation.

There was a responsive, and frequently very enthusiastic audience to welcome her, with Ted Shawn and the Denishawn dancers, last night at Philharmonic. They demonstrated their pleasure in the variety of the entertainment, the excellence and beauty of the ensemble, and the manifest, if light originality, of the design and plan of the various divertisements.

Their program was a blending of the classical with the modern; oriental and exotic with the intimate and typical American expressions of the dance. Novelty was paramount, and to add diversity and prove the spirit of innovation one number even was presented without accompaniment.

It is several years since any of the St. Denis and Shawn productions have been beholden in this locality with themselves taking part. They have been devoting their efforts to carrying on their work in the East and, I believe, abroad, and their absence affords an interesting perspective on their accomplishments.

I like best what they do, of course, with typical creations and those that are in their essence pictorial, rather than too strict classical. The Vision of Aissoua, the Algerian dance drama, that closed the program, for example, was a revelation of remarkable effects, and disclosed both Miss St. Denis and Mr. Shawn at their best as interpreters. A true mosaic of the Orient was this in the color and variety of its costumes and setting, with the drama also effective. Mr. Shawn's dervish dance was especially brilliant, and Miss St. Denis offered two numbers that were very entrancing.

There is a flash of rare cleverness in the way that Miss St. Denis, Mr. Shawn and their assistants adapt familiar ideas to the moods of Terpsichore.

The idealization of the cowpuncher's stepping "Around the Hall," and the "Gringo Zango" were to me quite fascinating. That quaint bit of lavender and old lace, the Boston "Fancy—1854," with its revival of the steps of the old quadrille and Virginia reel enjoyed especial evidence of the audience's approval.

"The Tragica," the number without the music, I found very fascinating. The effects were uncanny, and perhaps just a trifle grotesque at moments because so unfamiliar, but it is remarkable what concentration one can give to the movement of the figure about the stage, when it is the eye alone to which appeal is made.

The Dance of the Black and Gold Sari was one of the best given by Miss St. Denis, outside of her work in the Algerian ballet. Ted Shawn's "Invocation to the Thunderbird" was very interesting, as was the Empress Theodora Dance in which Miss St. Denis took part.

Doris Humphrey, Anne Douglas, Ruth Austin and George Graham among others of the assisting dancers deserve especial commendation. Miss Douglas and Miss Graham offered a waltz that was very beautiful in the first group of numbers. The Botticelli dance based on the famous painting of Spring was excellent. Pauline Lawrence, Betty May, Anne Douglas, Lenore Hellekson, Ernestine Day, Pearl Wheeler, Charles Weidman, George Stearns, Howie Fisher and Ralph Parker were among those appearing in the various numbers, and Louis Horst directed the quartet accompaniment.

Some of the more classical offerings, I felt, were less appealing because technique is not such a feature of the St. Denis performances. The ensemble is, however, generally quite effective.

The program will me repeated tonight.

Writers Plan to Present Public Bill in Spring

A program of four one-act plays is to be presented at some downtown theater by the Writers' Club next spring, it was announced last night by the play committee of the club. The plan is subject to the ability of the committee to find a suitable theater in which to house the bill.

According to present plans, the play committee, comprised of Jane Murfin, chairman; Charles E. Whittaker, Ruth Allen, Maude Fulton, Donald Crisp, Benjamin Blazer, Waldemar Young and Richard Shayer, will select the four best plays from the monthly programs now being offered to club members. The selection will be based upon the popularity of the numbers when presented, and the opinions of the newspaper critics. The program will be made up of widely divergent types of dramas.

The next monthly program is to be given in the Writers' Playroom, January 16 and 17. The plays and casts have not yet been selected, but it is understood that two decided novelties are being considered.

Midnight Shows to Help Welcome Happy New Year

Theatergoers who desire to welcome the New Year in comfort will have the co-operation of a number of local showhouses tonight. Nine theaters yesterday announced special midnight performances tonight, and six are offering special matinees tomorrow afternoon.

At the Orpheum and Egyptian theaters the midnight performances will start at 10 p.m. The Hillstreet special show goes on at 10:30; Loew's at 11, and the Metropolitan, Rialto and Million Dollar at 11:15 p.m. The Pantages show will be lengthened with a novel afterpiece, and the Burbank will offer special numbers until past midnight.

Matinees given tomorrow in most cases replace the afternoon performances usually scheduled on Wednesday. They occur at the Playhouse, Orange Grove, Majestic, Morosco, Biltmore and Egan theaters.

GREAT OCEAN DEPTHS

The deepest place so far discovered in any ocean, according to the United States Geological Survey, is located about fifty miles from the coast of Japan in the Pacific. A Japanese man-of-war, the Manchu, found the spot recently while on a chart-making expedition. The depth is so great that it could not be measured for the reason that the sounding wire carried by the vessel had a reach of but 32644 feet, or nearly six and one-fourth miles. How much deeper the ocean may be at this point is at present a matter for speculation.—[Compressed Air Magazine.

PIONEER OF AUTO FIELD GUEST HERE

Apperson Lauds Southern California; is Going East But Will Return Soon

Edgar Apperson, one of the builders of the first automobiles constructed in the United States, and now head of the motor car company bearing his name, is in Los Angeles, a guest at the Chateau Apartments, 100 North Kenmore street.

Mr. Apperson will leave New Year's Day for New York, where he will be the guest of honor at the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce silver jubilee dinner at the Hotel Commodore on January 6, 1925, but immediately after will return to Los Angeles to remain until next April.

"I want to get out of the cold as soon as I can," America's pioneer automobile manufacturer declared last night. "Believe me, it suits me here. Wild reports of the supposed plague couldn't keep me away; in fact, I am sure that all of the intelligent people in the Middle West and East didn't take much stock in the plague yarn."

Mrs. Apperson drove one of her husband's automobiles from Rhinelander, Wis., to Los Angeles, taking three weeks for the trip. Rhinelander is the Apperson summer home; Kokomo, Ind., the site of the automobile factory, and Los Angeles bids fair to become their winter home, according to Mr. Apperson.

The automobile manufacturer will have the seat of honor at a jubilee dinner in New York as the oldest man in point of service connected with the automobile industry in the United States. With his brother, Elmer, he did the actual work on America's first automobile in Kokomo, beginning in November, 1893, and producing the first horseless carriage, as they were then called, on July 4, 1894.

SOUTHLAND CLUB GIVEN THOUSANDS

Wrigley Presents Check to Aid All-Year Body in Advertising

A check for several thousand dollars was presented yesterday by William Wrigley, Jr., to the All-Year Club of Southern California, making him one of the largest individual subscribers to the organization. The amount of Mr. Wrigley's contribution was not disclosed.

In presenting the check, Mr. Wrigley stated that his contribution could be regarded as a New Year's gift to the community since the money will be used in advertising the Southland.

"Southern California needs more tourists," he said. "The only way to get them is to go after them. The All-Year Club, I believe, provides the most effective means of reaching out after more tourists and it should have greater community support.

"There should be more advertising," he continued. "We are being heavily out-advertised by Florida and other sections. In our own State even, Northern California has been spending twice as much money in advertising as we have. Southern California needs extensive advertising to offset the absurd reports about
